LAOS CEASE-FIRE CALL ACCEPTED BY BOTH SIDES

British Announce Royal Regime Has Agreed, Russia Says Rebels Will Halt Fighting at Once.

INVITATIONS OUT FOR CONFERENCE

14-Nation Sessions to Start in Geneva on May 12 — Control Commission Meets Friday in New Delhi.

LONDON, April 25 (UPI)—Both sides in the war in Laos today accepted the British-Soviet appeal for a cease-fire.

The Foreign Office announced that the royal Laotian government formally accepted the call for a cease-fire.

In Moscow, the official Soviet news agency Tass reported that the Communist-backed Pathet Lao also agreed to stop the fighting immediately.

Tass said Prince Souphanouvong, political leader of the Pathet Lao rebels, "will order (his) armed forces to cease fire throughout the country."

The agency said Souphanouvong "warmly acclaims" the cease fire appeal and the call for a conference to work out the future of Laos.

British officials expressed hope that the cease-fire would be put into effect in the next few days.

Invitations to Parley.

By the Associated Press.

Britain and Russia, meanwhile, were sending out invitations for a 14-nation conference to work out arrangements for a neutral, independent Laos. The invitations said the conference would open May 12 in Geneva.

The Laotian government announced its commander in chief is "ready to establish contact at any moment with the responsible head of the opposing forces" to fix the "day and hour of an effective cease-fire."

Prince Souphanouvong flew today from Communist China to Hanoi, North Viet Nam, after a visit to Moscow and Peiping with Prince Souvanna Phouma, his half brother and the neutralist ex-Premier still recognized by the Communist bloc as the head of the Laotian government.

Control Group to Meet.

The three-nation control commission — India, Canada and Poland — which will supervise the truce is scheduled to hold its first meeting in New Delhi on Friday. The United States has served notice that it will not attend the Geneva conference until a truce is in effect and has been verified.

Meanwhile the government was airlifting troops to the northern front to meet the threat of Pathet Lao troops who, over the weekend, drove government forces from Vang Vieng, until then a key government military headquarters 70 miles north of Vientiane.

Clashes were reported today in south central Laos, where the rebels have gained much ground recently.

The cease-fire acceptance made no change in the plans in Viestiane and Luang Prabang,

WASHINGTON, April 25 (UPI).

THE Defense Department has quietly cut American carrier strength in the Mediterranean from three to two ships and ordered the U.S.S. Shangri-La home ahead of schedule.

In a reversal of Eisenhower Administration plans put into effect last August, the Sixth Fleet will revert to what Navy officials called the normal practice of operating two carriers. There was no official explanation.

The 33,000-ton Shangri-La is due at Mayport, Fla., about May 15. The 55,000-ton Forrestal and 51,000-ton Franklin D. Roosevelt will complete their normal tours.

The Sixth Fleet carrier buildup was ordered after the U-2 incident and the Paris summit conference collapse.

ROCKET FAILS IN LAUNCHING OF SPACE CAPSULE

Setback for Man-in-Space Effort, but Escape and Recovery Systems Work.

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla., April 25 (AP)—The United States man-in-space effort suffered a new setback today when trouble in a launching rocket forced destruction of the vehicle seconds after blast-off. The test was to have been a final-stage trial of equipment.

Nevertheless, space agency officials pointed out that:

1. The escape device intended to save an astronaut in case of just such trouble apparently worked.

2. The Mercury project capsule intended to carry a man in space came down in the water off this missile test center by parachute, also as planned though from a lesser height and at a slower speed.

The 1½-ton capsule was recovered by helicopter 25 minutes after the launching and was back on the beach in about half an hour.

The giant Atlas rocket was launched carrying the space capsure on its nose.

Artificial Astronaut.

Within the space chamber was an artificial astronaut—a mechanical device designed to "breathe, sweat and talk in realistic fashion," simulating the effect a man's body would have on the capsule's air and testing devices to send messages back to earth.

The launching appeared perfect, but monitoring signals reported trouble of unannounced nature aboard.

Forty seconds after launch the range safety officer pressed a button that blew the rocket apart.

At the same time the trouble set off automatic devices which blew the capsule away from the rocket for safe descent.

The Atlas was to have hurled the bell-shaped capsule into a single orbit about 100 miles above the earth. An attempt was to have been made to recover it after one 110-minute circuit.

Observers at first were unaware that the explosion of the rocket was intentional.

That word came from National Aeronautics and Space Administration officials shortly after the capsule, dangling from its 63-foot parachute, appeared in the sky along with the smoke of the gigantic blast.

The test was a crucial one in the program intended to put an

HOUSE PASSES CONTROVERSIAL 2-CENT HIKE IN GASOLINE TAX

Bill Going to Senate—Has Provision for Vote on Sharing One Cent of Levy With Cities, Counties.

By EDWARD H. THORNTON
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 25—The controversial measures to increase the state gasoline tax from 3 to 5 cents a gallon and provide for cities and counties to receive revenue from one cent of the tax were passed in the Missouri House today. The bills now go to the Senate for consideration.

The bill providing the tax increase was finally approved in the House by a vote of 116 to 31. It contains an emergency clause which would make it effective as soon as it is signed by the Governor.

However, the bill provides that the gasoline tax will drop back to 3 cents a gallon after three months unless the voters in a state-wide election approve a proposed constitutional amendment providing for cities of more than 200 population and counties to share in revenue from one cent of the tax.

133-to-11 Vote.

This proposal was passed in the House today by a vote of 133 to 11 without discussion.

Gov. John M. Dalton was criticized by one of the legislators for remarks made by the Governor Sunday night in a television interview in Columbia. Dalton said the House action last week, incorporating the tax increase and the proposed constitutional amendment in a package, was a victory for the oil interests.

The Governor said the citizens of Missouri should "rise up" and ask their legislators whether they were representing "the people, or special interests."

Assails Governor.

Representative Loyd J. Estep (Rep.), Sparta, speaking in opposition to the gasoline tax increase, termed the Governor's remarks "one of the worst lashings possible."

"The Governor accused us of being oil lobbyists," Estep said. "I voted against the gasoline tax increase two years ago and I feel the people in my county are opposed to it now. I resent being called a lobbyist for the oil people."

Representative Thomas A. Walsh (Dem.), St. Louis, spoke in favor of the tax rise and said he wanted to see the Highway Department get additional money. However, he said, the increase would be in effect for only three months "because the people won't approve a two-cent increase."

The proposed constitutional amendment would provide for one-fourth of a cent of the tax to be distributed among counties and three-fourths of a cent to be distributed among cities of more than 200 population.

Would End Local Levies.

It would also eliminate local gasoline tax levies but cities now having such local levies would guaranteed as much revenue from the state tax as they realized from their levies in 1960. Also, the cities might again levy local gasoline taxes if approved by voters in the cities.

Dalton's criticism of House members was blamed also for the defeat in the House yesterday of a bill to establish a Division of Commerce and Industrial Development as a replacement for the Division of Resources and Development. Dalton favored the bill.

The measure was voted down by a vote of 70 to 67, 12 votes less than the 79 required for passage.

D. Gary Spencer, executive director of the Missouri Oil Council, an association of major oil companies, took issue last night with the Governor. Spen-

DE GAULLE ORDERS TROOPS TO CRUSH REBELLION AND USE ARMS IF NECESSARY

© New York Times News Service

WASHINGTON, April 25 — In its search for new policy approaches for dealing with the Castro regime, the Kennedy Administration is considering application of a total embargo on United States trade with Cuba.

The question was taken up in the National Security Council Saturday but no decision was reached. Exports to Cuba have already been heavily curbed and now consist largely of food and medicine.

Imports from Cuba, however, continue at a volume estimated at $70,000,000 a year. One of the chief considerations against a total embargo is Administration concern about the effect on Tampa, Fla., where the cigar industry, employing 600 persons, is said to be dependent on Cuban leaf tobacco.

Not Pressing for Inquiry.

By the Associated Press.

President Kennedy apparently is going to get a chance to assess the mistakes of the Cuban invasion fiasco before Congress makes any decision on whether to investigate the affair.

Although Republicans complained they had not been consulted in advance about the decision for support of the rebel effort, G.O.P. congressional leaders made it clear they are not asking for a congressional inquiry at this time.

Senator Styles Bridges of New Hampshire, chairman of the Senate Republican policy committee, said he is not suggesting that Congress take a hand in the matter.

Senate Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said he felt no good purpose could be served now by attempting to fix the blame for what appeared to be mistakes in American intelligence estimates of resistance in Cuba to the Castro regime.

Bridges and Dirksen sat in on briefings after the invasion began but were not consulted about it in advance.

Mansfield for Overhaul.

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield of Montana called in a speech at Pittsburgh, Pa., last night for an immediate and thorough overhaul of the intelligence machinery.

But he told reporters he thinks Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor and Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy are competent to carry out their assignment from the President to find where the errors occurred and to recommend changes. He said Congress can look at the matter later, if necessary.

Senator Thomas J. Dodd (Dem.), Connecticut, called in the Senate for an immediate blockade of Communist arms shipments to Cuba and for a warning by Kennedy to Soviet Premier Khrushchev that the United States will tolerate no Communist aircraft in the Caribbean skies.

Dodd, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said there ought to be an investigation by Congress of the Cuban situation. He said the only thing the United States had to apologize for was that its support for the invaders was "niggardly and half-hearted."

Mr. Kennedy has made it clear again that he takes full responsibility for whatever part

WHITE HOUSE CONFIRMS OFFER OF AID TO FRANCE

By JAMES DEAKIN
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, April 25—The White House confirmed today that United States aid was offered to President De Gaulle of France in the current French crisis, as reported yesterday by the Post-Dispatch.

Press secretary Pierre Salinger said De Gaulle was told that this country "stood ready to render any assistance he might want" to repel a possible paratroop invasion of France from Algiers. This was disclosed yesterday by Post-Dispatch correspondent Marquis W. Childs in a dispatch from Washington.

Consultations Going On.

(United Press International quoted high United States officials as saying privately that they were consulting with France on what to do if the anti-De Gaulle French forces mounted an attack on bases in neighboring Tunisia or Morocco.

(State Department press officer Lincoln White told reporters, "We would of course become directly concerned should the insurrection spread beyond the borders of Algeria and threaten the peace of the area.")

Salinger told reporters the offer of United States assistance was relayed to De Gaulle by the new American ambassador to France, Gen. James M. Gavin. Childs reported that the initiative taken by the United States may have been the most important factor in forestalling the invasion.

Not Specific on Aid.

Under questioning, Salinger declined to specify what form the assistance might take, but other sources here reported that the offer included military units, if the French President requested them.

"This meant, as interpreted by President Kennedy and his advisers who drafted the message (to De Gaulle), that United military units attached to NATO in Europe would be employed to help sustain the lawful government of France—if De Gaulle called upon them," Childs reported yesterday.

Salinger said today, however, that "I know of no discussion of the use of NATO troops." He declined to amplify this statement when asked by the Post-

DESK USED IN 1870 REFINISHED FOR ROBERT KENNEDY

WASHINGTON, April 25 (UPI)—Mrs. Robert F. Kennedy has found a historic desk for her husband's office at the Department of Justice.

The Attorney General's wife has reinstalled the desk used by Amos T. Ackermann, the first Attorney General to head the Department of Justice when it was created in 1870.

The solid Honduras mahogany desk was shoved aside when the department moved into its present building in 1934 and fell into disrepair.

It was recently discovered in the office of a lawyer in the department's anti-trust division. Edgar M. Ford, chief of administrative services, ordered it refinished after antique dealers expressed an interest in it.

Before he let it out of his hands, however, Ford showed the desk to Mrs. Kennedy, who asked that it be made available as her husband's desk.

The desk, refinished at a cost of $160, is valued at $1600.

TWO MORE LOTS OF EYE MAKE-UP SEIZED AS UNSAFE

WASHINGTON, April 25 (AP) — The government announced yesterday that it had seized two more lots of eye make-up on the ground that they contained colors which have not been shown to be safe.

The Food and Drug Administration said one lot consisting of Avon eye liner violet pencil leads and another lot of unlabeled eye pencils was seized at New York.

The products, FDA said, had been shipped from Jensen's, Inc., Shelbyville, Tenn., identified by FDA as major manufacturer of eye pencils for the cosmetic industry. Shades seized included red, brown, light brown, green, amethyst, blue, lilac and violet.

FDA said non-permitted colors have been found in Revlon, Maybelline, Max Factor, Cosmetically Yours, and Helena Rubinstein eye pencils. Several of these firms are recalling and destroying outstanding stocks of these products, FDA said. It said that seizure is being recommended on all lots of products not thus destroyed. It announced April 11 the seizure of Hazel Bishop eye pencils and Anita d'Foged eye make-up kits on the same charges.

VOTE ON MUSEUM AND ZOO TAX HIKE OK'D BY SENATE

Bills Authorizing City to Submit Proposals at Elections Are Sent to House.

By HERBERT A. TRASK
State Political Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 25—Bills to enable St. Louis voters to cast ballots on tax increases for the operation of City Art Museum and the zoo were passed by the Senate today and sent to the House.

One measure, approved by a vote of 29 to 0, would authorize a vote on an increase in the art museum tax from 2 to 4 cents on each $100 assessed valuation. The other bill, passed by a vote of 30 to 0, would permit a similar tax increase election for the zoo. The tax increases would have to be approved by a majority of the voters casting ballots on each proposition.

The Senate was told that the museum tax rate has not been increased since 1907 and the zoo tax rate since 1917. It was estimated that each of the institutions would receive $300,000 a year in additional revenue if the increases were approved. Spokesmen for the institutions said the additional money was needed to meet higher operating expenses and for salary increases.

The Senate also passed and sent to the House a bill to authorize a 50 per cent increase in the St. Louis County Hospital tax. This would permit the County Council to increase the tax from 20 to 30 cents for each $100 of assessed valuation.

If levied in full the higher rate would provide about $1,500,000 a year additional for the hospital improvement program. County Supervisor James H. J. McNary said a 5-cent levy was needed for care of the disabled and chronically ill, and 5 cents more for additional staff, salary increases, a retirement system for hospital employes and a county-owned ambulance service.

The Senate passed and sent to the House a bill which would grant job tenure to the nearly 1200 non-teaching employes of

REBELS LEAVING TWO ALGERIAN CITIES; INVASION REPORT REVIVED

Debre Thinks Paris Is Goal of Paratroopers — Insurgents Driven From Oran by Naval Fire.

PARIS, April 25 (UPI)—President De Gaulle ordered loyal French troops tonight to liquidate the Algerian rebellion with all possible means, including force of arms, if necessary.

De Gaulle told loyal soldiers, sailors and airmen to first halt the insurrection, then break it, and finally stamp out all traces of it.

His order came as mutinous paratroopers withdrew suddenly from two of Algeria's three key cities. French government sources warned their redeployment could be a prelude to an invasion attempt against France itself.

Fast Changing Picture.

The withdrawal of the paratroopers from Oran and Constantine climaxed a day of fast-moving events in which Premier Debre warned that the insurgents' aim was to take over the heart of Paris itself, by force if necessary.

Earlier, loyal fleet units beat back an attempt by the mutinous paratroopers to seize the Mers el Kebir naval base near Oran. A light cruiser fired warning shots and the paratroopers withdrew.

Pull-Out at Constantine.

A few hours later, the same sources reported that paratroppers, who had been occupying the center of the city of Constantine, had withdrawn to their barracks.

There wa sno official explanation of what the paratroopers might be ding, but government sourves said they might be regrouping preparatory to an assault on France.

The Government ordered security forces in France to stand by for the third night in a row to guard against an airborne invasion.

Troops Recalled From NATO

By the Associated Press.

Earlier in the day De Gaulle recalled French tanks and troops from NATO duty in West Germany, called up more reservists and imposed a tight economic blockade on the big North African territory.

The cruiser incident in Oran, the first major encounter since the uprising broke early Saturday emphasized that the navy stands firmly with De Gaulle.

The shots were not the first fired, however. Soldiers returning from Algiers on the first troopship since the insurrection reported that the loyal soldiers were killed last Saturday, one a Moslem rifleman in the French army and the other a French sergeant attempting a futile defense of the Algiers radio station.

At least some of the air force also was loyal. In addition to 11 planes which escaped to France yesterday, 24 more flew in today. They included 18 twin-engine transports of the type used by French paratroopers in Algeria. Two other light planes landed at Gibraltar.

Turns Guns on Hills.

Details on the incident at Mers el Kebir were far from clear.

According to reports reaching Paris, Adm. Alain Querville took the escort vessel Maille-Breze out to sea when paratroopers were spotted marching on the Mers el Kebir base. The base is six miles across the bay from Oran.

Then he turned his guns on the hills above the base where the paratroopers were and fired at least one warning shot.

Other ships from the base joined the admiral offshore, the reports said. The paratroopers stopped their advance and withdrew.

Some reports, not officially

Women Lighter, CAB Would Allow Them More Air Baggage

WASHINGTON, April 25 (UPI) —The Civil Aeronautics Board suggested yesterday that the airlines should let women carry more luggage on domestic flights. The CAB said women weigh less than men, require more baggage and the new planes can carry more luggage.

CAB Vice Chairman Robert Murphy, in a letter to all domestic airline presidents, said the "board has received inquiries from time to time regarding the 40-pound free baggage allowance now applicable to domestic air transportation and the possibility of increasing that allowance insofar as it applies to women."

Murphy said increasing the baggage allowance for women and not for men "may not be justified" and invited the 12 major trunk lines and 13 local service carriers to submit views, data and legal advice on the proposal by May 15.

Clergyman Calls Poodles 'Silly,' Biting Replies Bring Apology

HALIFAX, England, April 25 (AP) — The archdeacon of Halifax apologized yesterday to Britain's poodle owners.

In a speech at a St. George's dinner last week, the archdeacon, the Rev. Eric Treacy, deplored the fact that the poodle seemed to be replacing the bulldog in popular affection. He said poodles were "silly little animals with a mincing walk and permanent wave."

He quickly felt the wrath of poodle-owners all over the United Kingdom. He said neighbors have threatened to turn their poodles loose on him and a woman in Leeds challenged him to meet her poodle after dark.

"I'm fully prepared to do penance," the archdeacon said, "but not to the extent of being bitten by a poodle. My remarks were a light-hearted interjection on the dog's appearance. Over the weekend I've been convinced that there is nothing wrong with their character."

M'NAMARA SAYS SMALL BUSINESS WILL GET MORE DEFENSE WORK

Secretary Tells Senate Group He Plans $344,000,000 in Contracts to Small Firms in Next Year.

WASHINGTON, April 25 (UPI) —Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara told Congress today that his department plans to spur small business activity by channeling more defense contracts to small firms.

McNamara told a Senate small business subcommittee that his department hopes to funnel up to $344,000,000 more in defense contracts to small business in the next year.

He said he believes a "prosperous and vigorous small business community is essential to our economy."

'Interference" Charged.

Meanwhile, Representative Otto Passman (Dem.), Louisiana, lashed out at White House "interference" but still asked the House to approve President Kennedy's request for a $500,000,000 Latin American development program.

Passman said considerable pressure had been exerted by the White House to prevent cuts in the bill. He said the Administration must be prepared to reveal details of the program when it wants more money. The House was expected to approve the bill with little argument because of the Cuban situation.

The Administration gained a key victory yesterday when the House approved a conference committee dominated by its supporters to work out a compromise minimum wage bill with the Senate.

The Administration, however, won only a partial victory when the House Ways and Means Committee approved tax-boosting legislation designed to keep the 41,000-mile interstate highway system on schedule for completion in 1972.

Senate Version Indicated.

The pro-Kennedy conferees were expected to settle for most of the important provisions of a Senate version of the minimum wage bill which was much closer to Mr. Kennedy's original request.

It was expected that they would retain Mr. Kennedy's $1.25 hourly wage floor request for workers now covered and his basic formula for extending coverage to many workers not included under the current law.

Named as House conferees were Chairman Adam Clayton Powell (Dem.), New York, of the Education and Labor Committee, and Representatives James Roosevelt (Dem.), California; John Dent (Dem.), Pennsylvania; William Ayres (Rep.), Ohio, and Carroll Kearns (Rep.), Pennsylvania.

The tax-boosting highway legislation, as approved by the Ways and Means Committee, goes along with Mr. Kennedy's recommendations in part, but digs into the general tax fund for about $150,000,000 a year. Mr. Kennedy strongly urged against raiding the Treasury.

$900,000,000 a Year More.

The compromise measure would add $900,000,000 a year to the highway trust fund. If approved, it would go into effect July 1 and be continued until Sept. 30, 1972.

Mr. Kennedy has told Congress the interstate program would be delayed as much as five years without the revenues.

But he wanted the tax on diesel oil—used by truckers—increased to seven cents a gallon. The committee version merely continues the present tax on four cents a gallon on both gasoline and diesel fuel which had been scheduled to expire July 1.

Meanwhile, the Senate authorized the President to sell this year to friendly foreign nations an additional two billion dollars in surplus farm products. The Administration-backed legislation was passed without dissent by voice vote and sent to the House.

FCC SETS HEARING JUNE 7 - ON CHARGES AGAINST KWK

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, April 25 — A hearing on charges by the Federal Communications Commission against radio station KWK in St. Louis will be held June 7 in St. Louis, it was announced yesterday at a pre-hearing conference.

The FCC has charged that the station "perpetrated a fraud on its listeners" in connection with contests offering prizes. The station has been ordered to show cause why its operating license should not be revoked.

The hearing will be conducted by FCC Examiner Forest L. McClenning. Station KWK had asked the FCC for a bill of particulars setting forth the complaints against it, and scheduling of the hearings had been postponed until this request was acted on. The FCC denied the request last Feb. 23.

American into space for a relatively short ride next week and achieve manned orbital flight perhaps late this year.

There was no immediate word here on what effect the failure would have on that schedule.

Following the successful Russian manned space flight on April 12, however, failure certainly will be a blow to United States scientific prestige.

The Atlas mission was to hurl the 9-foot-tall capsule into orbit 100 miles above the earth at a speed of 17,500 miles an hour. After it circled the earth, reverse rockets were to slow the space craft so it would be drawn into the earth's atmosphere for a landing 300 miles east of Bermuda.

As the Atlas blew apart, the automatic escape system detected trouble and sent a signal which fired a small but powerful rocket atop a 15½-foot escape tower at the top of the capsule.

The tower swiftly pulled the space craft to the left and away from the exploding booster. It was designed to carry the capsule 200 feet from the Atlas in one second and hoist it 2000 more feet into the air before the parachute opened.

SOUTH KOREAN GENERAL SEIZED IN SLANDERING CASE

SEOUL, April 25 (AP) — The South Korean army provost marshal's office today arrested a brigadier general accused of circulating a statement slandering his seniors.

Gen. Lee Kyu-kwang was alleged by Army investigators to be author of a document distributed to the press and to government leaders last December which accused several top military leaders of committing injustices under the administration of ex-President Syngman Rhee.

SEOUL, April 25 (AP)—South Korean Premier Chang's ruling Democratic party suffered setbacks in by-elections for the lower house held yesterday in four districts. The government party won in only one district, as independents took the other three.

Aid to France

Dispatch what other troops could or would be used if De Gaulle asked for United States military assistance.

Asked whether there had been any discussion of using United States troops assigned to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, Salinger said no.

He said, in response to another question, that De Gaulle had not requested any assistance from this country. The United States aid, Salinger said, was offered "in a general way" by Gavin when he relayed Mr. Kennedy's message to De Gaulle in Paris yesterday.

The French president, Salinger said, "was given to understand" by Gavin that whatever assistance De Gaulle deemed necessary would be forthcoming.

Mr. Kennedy's message itself made no direct mention of aid as such, but it assured the French leader of "my continuing friendship and support, as well as that of the American people."

Childs reported also that "perhaps even more important was the step taken in Algiers, on orders from Washington, by the United States consul general there, Frederick B. Lyon.

"Lyon got word to Gen. Maurice Challe, one of the generals leading the military takeover in Algeria, that American force would be used if it became necessary to checkmate any attempt at rebellion in France.

"This is credited by knowledgeable sources in Paris, with whom this reporter talked by telephone . . ., with bringing the Algiers generals around to countermanding the order that had sent some 40 planes into the air with 1500 to 2000 paratroopers."

Salinger said yesterday he had checked and found no basis for this report. However, Childs reported that the effort in Washington was to try to hold back any official verification of this move because the prestige and pride of De Gaulle were at stake.

CUBAN CAPTIVES QUESTIONED IN 4-HOUR TELECAST

They Show Indifference, Demand Death or Beg for Mercy in Propaganda Series.

KEY WEST, Fla., April 25 (AP)—Invaders reportedly captured by Fidel Castro's troops were paraded before Cuban viewers in a television show today. They variously showed indifference, demanded death or begged for mercy.

A priest, a man who said he won the United States Medal of Honor and a pre-Castro police corporal accused of brutalities were among the captives interrogated in a running propaganda series aimed at convincing the Cuban people that the United States engineered the ill-fated invasion.

The telecast, monitored in this Florida city 90 miles from the Cuban coast, lasted more than four hours.

The prisoners, who indicated they were aware of the firing squad threat pronounced by Castro, agreed with interrogators that they were duped into thinking the Cuban people would join their cause.

Asks to Be Executed.

A man who claimed to be Manuel Perez Garcia and who claimed he killed 83 Japanese and won the Medal of Honor in World War II, jumped up and shouted, "If this nation loves Fidel Castro, let it shoot me."

In Washington, the Pentagon said Manuel Perez Garcia died in battle and received the Medal of Honor posthumously.

Segundo de las Heras Cabo, who said he is a Spanish-born priest who formerly served in Cuba and parachuted with the invaders, said he was sorry and "would like to make amends."

When captured, he was quoted as having tearfully asked to do penance by working in the sugar cane fields.

"The American Government is positively involved," he said in answer to a question.

A prisoner identified as a police corporal under the dictatorship of former President Fulgencio Batista was confronted with 12 persons who accused him of singing as he tortured and killed many persons.

"We are ashamed that Cuba has produced an assassin like you," one accuser told Ramon Calvino.

Another prisoner, Felipe Rivero Aguero, engaged in a debate with the interrogators and declared that "Cuba's nationalism is merely a screen for some kind of intrigue." He said that he didn't think the United States "cares at all about the economy of Cuba."

OFFICIALS TELL OF DROPPING AID INQUIRY IN PERU

Never Learned Whether Charges Concerning Butter Deals Were True.

By RICHARD DUDMAN
A Washington Correspondent of The Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, April 25—Foreign aid officials testified today that an investigation of the aid director in Peru was dropped without determining whether the charges involved were true.

The inquiry was into an allegation that John R. Neale, the aid director, received a cut of 5 cents a pound on all butter produced and sold in Peru.

Neale was forced to retire two years ago over a conflict of interest because he owned a share of a Peruvian cattle business that operates one of the largest dairy herds in the country.

New information in the case was brought out at a hearing before a House government operations subcommittee headed by Representative Porter Hardy Jr., (Dem.), Virginia. The committee has a report that butter from the ranch in which Neale held an interest was sold in the United States Embassy and aid mission in Lima.

The International Co-operation Administration was told of Neale's alleged cut on butter sales by Dr. Oliver Caldwell, then assistant commissioner of education, and by Dr. Raymond C. Gibson, another official of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, investigators testified. They quoted as their source a Prof. Pinella at San Marcos University in Lima.

The testimony brought out that Thomas E. Naughten of ICA's Washington headquarters ordered an investigation, but said the case looked like an attempt at "character assassination." Naughten's letter of instructions said Neale should be told this view and should be assured that officials had confidence in his integrity. Naughten now is ICA mission director in Bangkok.

The investigator assigned to the case, Robert L. Shortley, testified that his inquiry ended when Prof. Pinella denied having said anything about Neale's alleged butter operations.

Shortley said he did not even ask Neale about the allegation, "because he had an unblemished reputation and was held in high regard by the ambassador and the councillor of economic affairs."

Charles A. Gannon, regional ICA inspector in Lima at the time, testified that he later wrote to Washington suggesting that the case be converted into an investigation of Gibson, one of the two informants.

Records showed that the subject of the case was changed from Neale to Gibson but that the inquiry was dropped when Gibson said he merely was reporting a current rumor and denied any effort at character assassination.

The subcommittee relied heavily on ICA files, which officials produced from two leather bags. Secretary of State Dean Rusk originally ordered officials to refuse to discuss details of the Peruvian aid operation. An agreement was reached later in which the ICA obtained access to the files and apparently agreed to avoid involving Peruvian officials in the inquiry.

There was a flurry at one point when ICA and State Department officials discovered that one of the witnesses had been reading from a letter marked "secret." Hardy said he wanted no secret documents read into the hearing record.

The matter was resolved when officials discovered the letter contained nothing secret. They declassified the document by crossing out the word "secret."

On the question of Neale's conflict of interest, it was brought out that the matter was investigated in 1954, on the basis of an anonymous letter received by Senator Allen J. Ellender (Dem.), Louisiana. No action was taken, and Ellender was not informed of the outcome of the investigation. Another investigation four years later resulted in Neale's forced retirement.

Tells of Mass Jewish Deportation That Led to Nazi Envoy's Killing

Father of Youth Who Shot Vom Rath Describes 'Wild Barbarism' of Germans in 1938 Roundup.

JERUSALEM, April 25 (AP)—The father of a boy who created an international incident in 1938 when he assassinated a Nazi diplomat in Paris, testified today at the trial of Adolf Eichmann.

The witness was Zinder Grynszpan, father of Herschel Grynszpan, who shot and killed Ernst vom Rath, councilor of the German Embassy in Paris before the outbreak of World War II.

The elder Grynszpan related today the events that led up to his son's act of vengeance.

Even after 23 years, Grynszpan trembled as he recounted events of the night of Oct. 27, 1938, in Hannover, Germany, that eventually led to Vom Rath's assassination.

"About 8 o'clock at night," he said, "a policeman came to our home. He told us we were all to come with him, that we should take our passports but nothing else.

"He took us to a concert hall. There were about 600 people already there. They kept us for 25 hours until Friday night.

"The next day—on the Sabbath—they took us to the railway station. The streets were black with people, shouting 'Jews out to Palestine' and 'Sign, sign' apparently a reference to the signatures exacted of the Jews on their own deportation warrants.

Grynszpan said they were taken by train to a point near the Polish border. Trains were arriving from many other points in Germany, and he estimated 12,000 Jews finally assembled on the border.

The S.S. guards allowed each person to keep only 10 reichmarks. Any other money was taken.

The guards march the Jews about a mile and a half to the border.

"They were whipping us," Grynszpan went on. "There was blood on the road.

"It was the first time I ever saw the wild barbarism of the Germans."

Grynszpan said he himself received a blow in the face and fell into a ditch. One of his sons helped him out and said, "Run, father, run, or you'll die."

Some people did die, he said. "They died of heart attacks."

The Jews were herded across the border into Poland. The Poles put them in a military camp. Two days later, on Sunday, the first food arrived—a truckload of bread for the 12,000.

"Some were lucky," Grynszpan said. "They got some bread. Others were not."

He said he wrote a letter to his son in Paris.

"And this son," Assistant Attorney General Ya'akov Bar'or said, "was Hershel Grynszpan?"

"Yes," said the father."

This was the last question. Eichmann's lawyer, Dr. Robert Servatius, did not cross-examine the witness.

It was this harassment that Hershel Grynszpan, then a boy of 17, decided to avenge.

He waited on the steps of the German embassy in Paris, hoping to kill Ambassador Count Johannes von Welczek. Instead he met Vom Rath, and shot and killed him.

SENATE GROUP BACKS EASING OF RED AID CURBS

Would Help Soviet Bloc Nations Loosen Control From Moscow.

WASHINGTON, April 25 (AP) —The Senate Foreign Relations Committee approved today President Kennedy's request for authority to extend financial and economic aid to Iron Curtain countries to help them loosen Moscow's control.

The legislation would amend a law which puts curbs on aid to countries dealing with Soviet Russia. It was proposed in Mr. Kennedy's State of the Union message and in a subsequent appeal to Senate and House leaders.

George W. Ball, under secretary of state for economic affairs, told the committee the principal aim at this time is to enable Mr. Kennedy to use United States-held Polish currency to help Poland with projects "which will demonstrate our abiding friendship and interest in the people of Poland."

The legislation was approved by voice vote, but Senator John J. Williams (Rep.), Delaware, asked to be recorded against it.

Mr. Kennedy, when a member of the Senate, fought for legislation which would give the President discretionary authority to move in with help to Soviet Russia's Eastern European satellites whenever it might bolster those countries in efforts to become less dependent on Moscow.

The legislation once failed by a single vote in the Senate but it was finally passed Sept. 12, 1959. However, the House failed to act.

Chairman J. William Fulbright, (Dem.), Arkansas, reminded Ball that the Foreign Relations Committee had approved the legislation twice before and said the Administration should have sought passage by the House first at this session.

"This committee has spoken, insofar as I am concerned," Fulbright said. "This is the last time we are going to pass it if you can't get it through the House."

SENATE VOTES TENTATIVELY TO PERMIT LARGER, HEAVIER TRUCKS

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 25 — The Senate tentatively approved yesterday a bill permitting larger and heavier trucks to use Missouri highways. The bill, backed by the Missouri Bus and Truck Association, would increase legal truck height from 12½ to 13½ feet and boost the maximum load limit from 64,650 to 73,280 pounds.

The measure would also increase state truck fees on large, over-the-road haulers from $800 to $1150 a year, and increase the top fees on local commercial trucks operating in a limited metropolitan area from $235 to $350 annually.

Before approving the measure, the Senate overwhelmingly defeated two restrictive amendments recommended by the State Highway Department. One sought to restore the department's "bridge formula," which limits the gross weight of trucks in relationship to the distance between the front and rear axles. This is designed to protect bridges from too much stress caused by heavy loads on a limited wheelbase.

Would Change Formula.

The truckers's bill would change this formula to permit the maximum 73,280-pound load to be carried on trucks with axles only 42 feet apart. The present law, based on the Highway Department formula, requires that the axles be 45 feet apart to carry the present top load of 64,650 pounds.

Senator William B. Waters (Dem.), Liberty, sought to amend the bill to continue the 45-foot requirement for the new maximum loads. He said Highway Department engineers reported that many bridges in Missouri would be endangered or destroyed by permitting the heavier loads on a 42-foot basis.

Senator J. F. Patterson (Dem.), Caruthersville, chief sponsor of the bill, contended relatively few bridges would be endangered by the new formula, and said none is on a major state highway used by the heaviest trucks. The waters amendment was voted down 19 to 6.

Weight Amendment Beaten.

Also defeated was an amendment to limit the weight that could be loaded on any axle of a truck operated on state-maintained roads or expressways in St. Louis, or in any other Missouri city of more than 75,000 population.

The bill would limit the gross weight of these local trucks to 73,280 pounds, but would not restrict the weight on any axle. The Highway Department asked that this amendment be adopted to prevent heavy damage to city streets and roadways it maintains.

The only argument in opposition to this amendment was that it would adversely affect trucks hauling coal from Illinois mines into St. Louis.

Sponsors of the bill said the increase in the legal loads to 73,280 pounds would bring Missouri into conformity with the truck laws of most adjoining states. Last week the House killed a bill proposing to increase truck heights to 13½ feet and to extend legal truck lengths in Missouri from 50 to 60 feet.

Airport Liquor Bill.

A bill authorizing sale of liquor by the drink at Lambert-St. Louis Airport was recommended for passage by the Senate Criminal Jurisprudence Committee last night.

The bill is sponsored by the St. Louis city administration. Similar proposals have been defeated in the last four sessions of the Legislature, primarily because of St. Louis county tavern operators who are against extension of the right to sell liquor by the drink in unincorporated areas of the county.

Airport manager David Leigh told the committee that 95 per cent of the nation's major airports have cocktail lounges, and the city wants to provide a similar facility at Lambert Field for the accommodation of air travelers and visitors.

He said the airport serves about 2,000,000 airline passengers and 4,000,000 visitors every year. He said the city would receive $30,000 to $50,000 annually in additional revenue as its share of the profits from the sale of drinks at the airport. He said the city is less interested in this additional revenue than in providing an added service for patrons, however.

Would Go to Cafe Operator.

Leight explained that the right to operate a cocktail lounge at the airport, if the bill is passed, would go to Missouri Sports Service, Inc., which holds the contract for operation of the airport's restaurant.

James Corcoran, the city's legislative representative, explained that liquor cannot now be sold by the drink at Lambert Field because the airport is in an unincorporated area of the county.

The committee approved a bill requiring that all deeds, leases and sale contracts on St. Louis real estate include a statement showing the zoning classification of the property involved.

The approved measure is a substitute for a bill introduced by Senator William E. Hilsman (Dem.), St. Louis. The Hilsman bill provided that failure to include the zoning classification would be a misdemeanor.

The substitute bill eliminated the criminal penalty. It provides, instead, that failure to include the zoning statement would make the deed, lease or sale contract void at the option of the purchaser or lessee.

ASSAILS MOVE TO KILL COUNTY REVENUE DEPT.

The decision by the St. Louis County Democratic Central Committee to seek repeal of the county charter amendment establishing a new department of revenue was described by a Republican today as a "brazen power grab for patronage appointments."

County Councilman Edward E. Murphy Jr., Fourth District, addressing a Republican women's luncheon at Clayton Methodist Church, declared the real reason for the Democrats's action was that "they have found they cannot control the appointments to the new department and they are boiling mad."

The Democratic committee voted last Thursday to circulate initiative petitions for an election on repeal of the amendment adopted by voters last November. It was decided also to have a subcommittee headed by Dr. Leo Hayes, a committee member and mayor of Wellston, investigate operating costs of the new department.

Introduced by Young.

Another committee member, State Representative Robert A. Young, who introduced the motion for the repeal action, said he opposed the merit system under which the new department is operating by virtue of a companion amendment.

Murphy said the Democratic organization has "flouted the will of the overwhelming number of voters who approved these amendments and has again demonstrated that it puts political spoilsmanship above the welfare of all the people of St. Louis county."

"The leaders of the Democratic party say they feel the new department will be more costly and will not improve efficiency," Murphy continued. "But this is a camouflage for their real motives.

"In the first place, the department has not had a chance to get into full operation and no one at this time can say if it will cost more. Ralph Devereaux is still operating (as collector) under an interim appointment until he can balance his books. All the other employes of the old department have been retained on a temporary basis until job studies and classifications can be made.

Budget Same.

"Secondly, the budget of the new department is exactly what it would have been under the old system except for the expenses of the director's office."

Murphy asserted that James W. Hopkins was "not the first choice" of the Democratic politicians for director of the new department "and their wishes were ignored in the selection of assessor."

"I feel confident that the voters will resist this attempt to shackle one of the most important departments of the county government with a political straitjacket," Murphy said. "The simple issue is do we want another Ralph Devereaux in office as collector. Or do we want Leo Hayes picking our assessor. The answer should be a resounding No."

3 NEW AIRPORTS IN ST. LOUIS AREA URGED BY FAA

Would Handle Non-Airline Flying, Relieve Congestion at Lambert.

By JAMES DEAKIN
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, April 25—The Federal Aviation Agency recommended today that three new airports be built in the St. Louis area, to handle general, non-airline flying and relieve congestion at Lambert-St. Louis Field.

The recommendation was included in the FAA's new national airport plan submitted to Congress. The report said 465 new airports should be built in the United States in the next five years and 2834 existing fields should be improved.

For Missouri, the new plan calls for construction of nine new general aviation airports, including the three in the St. Louis area. No new "air carrier" airports were recommended in the state. Lambert Field is in the "air carrier" category. Improvements were recommended at 70 existing airports in the state.

Five new general aviation fields were proposed in Illinois, including one at East St. Louis. This proposed new field for non-airline flights would have a 5000-foot runway for "group three" flights—all twin-engine aircraft weighing more than 12,500 pounds.

No new air carrier airports were recommended for Illinois. The plan said 62 existing airports in that state needed various improvements.

FAA Administrator Najeeb E. Halaby estimated that the total cost of the new airports and improvements would be $1,100,000,000 in the five-year period. In the past, such costs have been borne about equally by the Federal Government and the state or local governments involved.

Improvements at Lambert.

The plan recommended also various improvements at Lambert Field, including acquisition of more land, paving of aprons, runway extension, additional lighting for taxiways and the extended runways, and removal of obstructions.

Details of the improvements suggested were not given, but the report said the additional facilities recommended for Lambert Field were needed to prepare the municipally-owned airport for maximum use of the large Boeing 707 jet airliners.

This type of aircraft, the plan stated, is expected to have the greatest influence on Lambert Field's developmental needs by 1966. The report said Lambert Field handled a total of 1,815,000 passengers on domestic scheduled air carriers last year and is expected to handle 2,607,000 such passengers by fiscal year 1966.

Like Earlier Plan.

The recommendation for three new smaller airports in the St. Louis area generally paralleled the requirements set forth in an earlier national airport plan, but there were changes in the suggested runway lengths of two of the proposed new fields.

As set forth in the plan, the smaller airports would be designed to handle airplanes in the "general aviation" category. This includes private flying, business and corporate flying, instructional flights, rental flying and agricultural flying.

One of the proposed new fields would have a 2700-foot runway and would handle aircraft in the "group one" category—planes requiring a basic runway length of 3200 feet or less. The earlier plan had called for a 2400-foot runway at this field.

The second proposed airport would have a 3600-foot runway and would be designed to handle "group two" flying—planes requiring basic runway lengths of more than 3200 feet and less than 4200 feet. This is the same runway length proposed in the earlier plan.

The third new airport, largest of the three, would have a 5900-foot runway and would handle "group four" flying—all four-engine aircraft. A 5100-foot runway had previously been proposed for this field.

All three proposed airports would be smaller than Lambert-St. Louis Field, whose longest runway is 10,018 feet. Lambert Field would remain the principal airport in the St. Louis area for scheduled airline flying, including jet aircraft.

Tax Cuts on 'Open Space' Land Called Likely Under County Plan

Suggestion Made at Hearing on Effects in North Part of County—Complaints on Present Levies Aired.

Reduced taxes on land not in urban use would be more likely if a county-wide land-use plan is adopted, St. Louis County Planning Director Hermann F. Wagner said last night.

Wagner made the statement in response to questions at a public hearing on the effects of the proposed land use plan in north St. Louis county. The two-hour hearing took place at McCluer Junior High School, 1890 South Florissant road, Florissant, and attracted about 170 persons.

The predominant concern of those at the meeting was the amount of taxes being paid on property in sections designated by the proposed plan as open space.

Farmer Cites Problem.

A farmer who owns land in the proposed open space area said a recent reassessment of his property had increased his taxes to a point where he no longer could make a profit by farming. He asked how the plan would affect his taxes.

Wagner replied that the County Plan Commission had no jurisdiction over taxation or assessments. However, he said, adoption of the plan specifying that the property was in an open space category probably would provide ground for appeal from high taxes.

"What we are attempting to do is to develop a plan so that everyone will know the potential use of all land," Wagner said. "It is possible that assessments will be adjusted in accordance with non-urban usage."

Several other speakers protested against their present tax rates. Many questioned the open space designation. They said that at present they are being assessed on the basis of residential or commercial usage, although their land is unused or in agriculture.

Open Space Defined.

Wagner explained that open space "is land we would like to see reserved, but not set aside for no use whatsoever."

Open space refers to land considered unsuitable or undesirable for urban development. That does not preclude permitting scattered residences, schools, institutions and recreational facilities from being established there. The plan commission characterizes open space as land worth preserving to meet recreational, cultural and aesthetic needs.

Of seven municipalities in the study area, only Florissant was represented at the hearing. Edward T. Akeroyd, chairman of the Florissant Planning and Zoning Commission, read a statement from Mayor Henry Koch asking that action on the county-wide plan be delayed until a proposed Florissant plan can be completed and studied.

The statement said the city's plan should be completed next month. Koch said he "cannot intelligently state the position of the city with respect to the county plan until the city's plan is presented."

Wagner told a reporter after the hearing that he was certain there would be ample time for Florissant to compare its plan with the county proposal.

Existing Developments.

Other speakers wondered what would happen if the plan was adopted and their property turned out to conflict with the designated use of the land. Wagner replied that existing development would remain in use, even though it would not conform with the plan. When the existing development becomes obsolete, however, he said, it would be replaced in conformity with the land use designation.

To complaints from subdivision developers who have purchased property in areas proposed for open space, Wagner responded that the over-all plan sets aside plenty of county land for residential development.

In the area under discussion, the plan would limit urban development to land considerably south and east of the Missouri river and would create community focal points in Florissant, Bridgeton and Hazelwood.

The hearing was the fourth in a series of 12 scheduled to explain the plan to county residents. Another is scheduled at 7:30 p.m. today at the Remington school, 102 South Fee Fee road, Maryland Heights. It will concern an area bounded by the Mark Twain Expressway, Lindbergh boulevard, Olive boulevard and the Missouri river.

K. C. MUELLER GETS 8 YEARS IN BANK BURGLARY

Wortman Ex-Associate Sentenced in E. St. Louis for Union National Breaking.

Kenneth C. Mueller, hoodlum and former associate of rackets boss Frank (Buster) Wortman, was sentenced to eight years in prison today for bank burglary.

The sentence was imposed at East St. Louis by United States District Judge William G. Juergens, who denied a plea for probation.

Mueller, 26 years old, was arrested Jan. 2 after he attempted to break into the Union National Bank, 200 Collinsville avenue, East St. Louis. Two policemen checking the bank saw Mueller run from it and captured him after a foot chase.

Tools Inside.

Torches and burglar tools were found inside the bank near the night depository. Police said Mueller, who had a key which fitted the front door of the bank, had been working inside with another man. His companion escaped.

Mueller was found guilty by a jury March 9 and has been free under $15,000 bond. His attorney, Dewey S. Godfrey, informed the court that an appeal will be filed later today. Judge Juergens said Mueller will be admitted to the same bond after the appeal.

Police records indicate Mueller had 15 previous arrests but had been convicted only of carrying a concealed weapon. He lives in the 2900 block of Wyoming street.

3-Year Sentence.

Ralph L. McCarthy of the 500 block of North Twenty-third street, East St. Louis, was sentenced by Judge Juergens to three years in prison for violation of the Mann Act. He was found guilty by a jury March 7 of transporting a 25-year-old woman from St. Clair county to Kansas City, Mo., for immoral purposes.

The judge gave McCarthy a 10-day stay of execution and ordered him to remain on $15,000 bond.

William Belmont of the 300 block of North Twenty-ninth street, East St. Louis, was placed on probation for two years by Judge Juergens for forging his name to a Navy discharge to obtain appointment as a probationary patrolman to the East St. Louis police department.

Belmont pleaded guilty March 21.

He said: "It appears that the Governor is more interested in giving the road contractors and the cement industry a lot more business than he is interested in having an over-all road program.

"If the oil people of Missouri have support, it is because they earned it in public appearances before committees of the Legislature. The taxpayers have been charged approximately $250,000 for gathering data upon which the interim committee based its recommendations.

"The House is building a highway program on this data. We support it, but unfortunately some powerful lobbyists would like to toss it out the window, without ever appearing publicly against it."

Changes Outlined.

Changes proposed in the Dalton bill which was defeated yesterday in the House were: Reduction of the commission supervising industrial development from 10 to six members, appointment of a director by the commission subject to approval by the Governor, and increasing the director's salary from $10,000 to $17,500 a year. Under present law, the director is chosen by the commission. The Governor, by law, has no say as to his appointment.

The last of the major appropriation bills to implement the Governor's record budget of $1,225,000,000 were passed by the House yesterday and sent to the Senate. The budget is for operation of the state government in the two fiscal years beginning July 1.

Nine measures allocating a total of $358,442,656 were approved without discussion. The total provided in the bills is $2,288,529 less than was recommended by the Governor.

One of the bills, passed by a vote of 136 to 1, would appropriate $66,652,796 for state universities and colleges. This is $190,774 less than was recommended by Dalton.

$2,215,455 Cut.

Another would provide $22,328,492 for capital improvements at various state institutions. The amount provided is $2,215,455 less than was recommended by the Governor. The vote on the bill was 129 to 0.

A third appropriation bill passed by a vote of 128 to 0 would allocate $3,127,100 for salaries and expenses of the legislators and the costs of the current legislative session. This amount is $15,000 more than Dalton recommended.

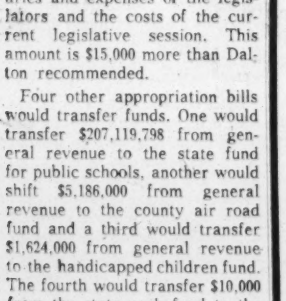

Four other appropriation bills would transfer funds. One would transfer $207,119,798 from general revenue to the state fund for public schools, another would shift $5,186,000 from general revenue to the county air road fund and a third would transfer $1,624,000 from general revenue to the handicapped children fund. The fourth would transfer $10,000 from the state park fund to the state park board revolving fund.

Handicapped Figure Cut.

Amounts involved in the transfer bills were recommended by the Governor, except the allocation for the handicapped children fund, which was cut $126,000 by the House Appropriations Committee.

The other two appropriation measures acted on in the House were bills to reappropriate funds previously allocated but unexpended. Amounts provided in them totaled $51,794,470, which was $228,700 less than Dalton had recommended.

TEEN-AGERS LINKED TO AUTO THEFT RISE

Marked increases in the number of automobile thefts and arson cases involving cars is linked to the growing number of teen-age drivers in the United States, William J. Davis, manager of the National Auto Theft Bureau, Chicago, said yesterday.

Addressing the opening session of the Missouri Peace Officers Association at the Statler Hilton Hotel, Davis stated that auto thefts in the United States have increased 16 per cent since 1955, and planned fires in cars have gone up 16.4 per cent in the same period.

Whereas 6,500,000 persons were in the 15-17 year age bracket in 1955, 13,500,000 are in that age classification today, he said. This means that police must deal with more teen-age offenders, he pointed out.

Patrolwoman Celeste A. Ruwwe, in a speech at the meeting, discussed the roles of police women in St. Louis. She emphasized that women officers are assigned primarily to the Police Department's juvenile division but frequently assist the liquor and homicide squads and issue tickets for traffic violations.

Zoo Animals Poisoned.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., April 25 (AP)—Four Barbary sheep in the Grand Rapids Zoo died of poisoning over the weekend. A camel, black bear and a guanaco, a member of the llama family, became ill. Apparently a zoo visitor fed leaves and branches from a poisonous bush to the animals in violation of the zoo's "no feeding" rule.

KENNEDY ISSUES ORDER AGAINST RIGGED BIDDING

WASHINGTON, April 25 (UPI)—President Kennedy issued an executive order today aimed at preventing rigged bidding on government contracts.

Mr. Kennedy ordered federal departments and agencies to report to the Attorney General on identical bids in transactions of more than $10,000.

The executive order said the Attorney General would consolidate this information into reports to the President and to Congress.

At the same time, the President's brother—Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy—urged Congress in a statement to act on two pending measures to give the Federal Government new and necessary tools to enforce anti-trust laws.

One bill would require large firms to inform the Department of Justice before carrying out merger plans. The other would give the department power to compel firms to turn over records pertinent to anti-trust investigations.

The White House said its executive order is "designed to discourage the practice of identical bidding and to bring down the costs of goods and services the Government buys."

"It will also aid in the enforcement of the anti-trust laws and in the maintenance of a competitive economy," the White House statement added.

It directed officials to report to the Attorney General in 20 days after award or rejection of a contract when identical bidding by two or more firms is involved.

Algeria Rebels

confirmed, said sailors and marines on the base engaged the paratroopers with small arms fire.

Mers el Kebir and the base at Bizerte, Tunisia, are the biggest French naval stations on the African side of the Mediterranean.

But the four retired generals who seek to overthrow De Gaulle and reverse his Algerian peace policies held control of the main cities of Algeria with the vociferous support of much of the European population.

Four-Fifths Loyal.

French Information Minister Louis Terrenoire, claiming four-fifths of the army in Algiers is loyal to De Gaulle, implied that the other fifth, or 100,000 men, supports the insurrection.

De Gaulle's government said it was still in touch with, and presumably held the allegiance of, civil and military authorities of Tlemcen, Mostaganem and Saida in western Algeria; Orleansville in central Algeria, and Setif, Philippeville, Batna and Djidjelli in eastern Algeria.

Of these, Philippeville and Djidjelli are ports. The government was said to control the port of Bougie, terminal for the pipeline carrying Sahara oil from the desert to the coast.

Officials in Paris said the situation in Bone, another port in eastern Algeria, was confused.

Gen. Henri de Pouilly, loyalist commander at Tlemcen, fell into insurgent hands when he went to Algiers under a flag of truce on personal matters. The government said the junta had violated the truce. De Pouilly, in command at Oran when the uprising broke out, rejected a junta ultimatum to join its forces.

Minister Returned.

One of the planes which flew out of Saida brought back industry minister Jean-Marcel Jeanneney, who had been stranded in Algeria by the revolt.

De Gaulle was strengthened by almost unanimous support of the population of France. People went about their jobs calmly for the most part. French housewives, remembering wartime shortages, stocked up on household staples.

The number of combat troops pulled back from NATO service was not announced.

A communique said the people of eastern France should not be alarmed at the passage of the returning troops, an indication that the convoys would be of considerable size.

Simultaneously with the government announcement, reports reached Paris that the first units already had crossed the frontier near Strasbourg.

Two nights ago Premier Debre warned that at any time the mutineers in North Africa might try to seize Paris or other centers in metropolitan France with an invasion of paratroopers. The combat troops from Germany are needed to strengthen the fighting power of the army at home, where most of the 250,000 troops are in training and service units.

A rigid economic blockade meanwhile isolated Algeria from France. Stockpiles of food, fuel and military supplies were on hand in the North African territory, but the rebellious generals faced the problem of where to find cash to pay their troops.

A prolonged blockade would bring tremendous hardship to Algeria. The territory's farms produce mainly citrus fruit, vegetables and wine. Algeria must import most of its meat and many food staples, raw materials for its industries and all petroleum products.

Capital reserves already are low in the territory, since most investors have been withdrawing their funds for months, anticipating Algeria's eventual independence.

De Gaulle ordered insurgent Gen. Maurice Challe and his co-conspirators stricken from the rolls of the French army. Formal steps were taken to charge them with crimes against the state, with death as the penalty.

Government sources told of a continuous stream of messages from Army units in Algeria pledging loyalty to De Gaulle.

Government sources said many of the messages of support for De Gaulle were coming from small units of company strength, indicating loyalty among rank-and-file troops and junior officers.

Tunisia and Morocco, which border Algeria on the east and west, respectively, sent units of their small armies to the frontiers to guard against the possibility that the French insurgents might push across their borders to attack Algerian Moslem rebels based in Tunisia and Morocco.

Moslem Appeal.

Leaders of the Algerian Moslem nationalist rebellion made an appeal "to all governments responsible for the destiny of the world" to thwart the mutinous French generals.

A statement by the provisional Algerian government based in Tunis proclaimed that "more than ever the Algerian people are exposed to genocide" (systematic extermination).

It charged that the generals intend to reconquer Tunisia and Morocco and "hence world peace is at stake."

Insurgent-held Algiers radio said Gen. Challe told a cheering crowd of 100,000 gathered in the Algiers forum to be ready to "fight, suffer and if need be die so that Algeria will remain French."

Arrests of right-wing figures continued in France. Reliable sources said that among those held were Gen. Paul Allard, land forces commander in Algeria in 1958, and Gen. Grout de Beaufort, De Gaulle's former chief of staff.

Col. Henri Dufour, former commander of Foreign Legion paratroops, was reported arrested in Germany on orders of Gen. Jean Crepin, present commander of French Forces in Germany. Three other generals were reported under surveillance in France.

Cease-Fire

the royal capital, for the cremation rites for King Sisavang Vong, who died 18 months ago.

Virtually all officials of Boun Oum's government were flying north to Luang Prabang for the transfer of the big sandalwood urn holding the King's body to the site where it will be cremated Saturday.

Negotiations between the warring factions over a new government to represent Laos at the Geneva conference may be carried on in the royal capital along with the cremation.

The anti-Communists led by Boun Oum will go to Geneva—if the conference is held—with only three firm friends among the 13 other nations invited. These three and the United States, Thailand and South Viet Nam.

The four Communist nations back Souvanna Phouma and his Pathet Lao allies. These four are the Soviet Union, Red China, North Viet Nam and Poland.

The other six nations expected to take part—including Britain and India—are believed to favor a neutralist Laotian government headed by Souvanna.

U.S. Watching to Learn Whether Fighting Will Stop.

WASHINGTON, April 25 (UPI)—The State Department said today it was watching the military situation in Laos "very closely" to determine whether a cease-fire actually takes place.

State Department spokesman Lincoln White repeated that an actual cease-fire is "a first essential step" which must take place before an international conference on Laos.

United States officials fear that the lack of a specific date for a cease-fire in the British-Soviet proposal could let the rebels mount a last-minute offensive before the international conference gets under way.

PEACE CORPS CRITICIZED BY GHANA NEWSPAPERS

ACCRA, April 25 (UPI)—The director of President Kennedy's peace corps ran into a barrage of Ghana newspaper criticism yesterday. The papers charged the program was designed to infiltrate Africa with agents of American neo-colonialism.

The editorials appeared as R. Sargent Shriver arrived for the first stop on his projected world-wide tour for the Peace Corps.

Tax Votes

the St. Louis Board of Education. The vote was 21 to 3.

The measure provides that non-certificated personnel would be placed in a "probationary" status for three years following their employment. Following this period, dismissal of an employe could be only for specific cause and with the approval of a majority of the board.

Senator William E. Hilsman (Dem.), St. Louis, sponsor of the bill, told the Senate that the measure was designed merely to protect employes in their jobs. There is no "politics" in the bill, he said.

Support for the bill was also voiced by Senator Theodore D. McNeal (Dem.), St. Louis, who said non-teaching employes were entitled to the same job protection afforded teachers. He noted that the bill was modeled on a tenure law now in effect for teaching personnel.

He added that the bill would relieve employes from the fear of losing their job if they did not consent to demands of school board members. It was this pressure by some board members who wished to have work done on their own property which resulted in the scandals uncovered by a grand jury last year, he said.

Passage of the tenure law was viewed by some senators as an indication that the school board's proposed administrative reorganization bill has little chance of success in the upper chamber. The bill was introduced by McNeal last month.

A companion reorganization measure was killed in a House committee last week.

Earning Tax Law Change.

The Senate passed and sent to the House a bill providing a 50 per cent reduction in the amount St. Louis employers would be authorized to retain for collection of the city earnings tax. The measure was approved by a vote of 27 to 0.

Under the present law, firms which withhold the earnings tax from their employes paychecks are allowed to keep 3 per cent for partial reimbursement of their collection expenses. The bill, sponsored by the city administration, would reduce this amount to 1½ per cent. This would give the city, and cost employers, about $112,500 a year.

The Senate passed, 25 to 1, and sent to the House a bill to permit the St. Louis election board to use an offset printing system for publication of its precinct lists of voters. The present law requires that these lists be printed directly from type.

Senator William E. Hilsman (Dem.), St. Louis, who introduced the bill for the Election Board, said the new system will enable the board to keep up-to-date precinct lists and will save the city $250,000 a year in printing costs.

Pentland Votes No.

The only "no" vote was cast by Senator Robert Pentland (Dem.), St. Louis, who said union printers are opposed to the measure because "it will put the city in the printing business."

Companion bills creating a Missouri-Illinois commission to build a new Mississippi river bridge in the Crystal City-Festus area were passed and sent to the house.

One measure would authorize the commission to finance the project by the issuance of revenue bonds, which would be retired by bridge tolls. After the bonds had been paid off, the bridge would be deeded to Missouri and Illinois for maintenance and operation on a toll-free basis. The other bill authorizes Missouri to enter into a compact with Illinois to establish the commission.

A bill to keep Missouri's state parks from being despoiled by litter was passed by the Senate. The vote sending it to the House was 25-0.

The bill would make it a misdemeanor to throw beer cans or other trash in springs and streams, and to deface park property or damage flowers, trees, shrubs or archeological objects.

Mrs. Donald Gunn, wife of a former president of the Board of Aldermen, was elected president of the St. Louis Archdiocesan Council of Catholic Women yesterday at the close of the organization's two-day annual meeting at Hotel Chase. Mrs. Gunn, 4400 Bircher boulevard, succeeds Mrs. Robert H. Mooney, 15 Berkshire drive, Richmond Heights.

Other officers elected were Mrs. Andrew Ries of 7815 Navajoe street, Affton, first vice president; Mrs. Vernon Pursley, New Haven, Mo., second vice president; Miss Joan Billing, 1814 Ferguson avenue, Pagedale, secretary, and Mrs. Elmer Vieth, 1918 McLaran avenue, Jennings, treasurer.

Catholic Action Awards for outstanding service to the archdiocese were presented by Cardinal Joseph E. Ritter to Mrs. Mooney; Mrs. John I. Dodge, 5 Trevillian avenue, Glendale; Mrs. H. August Brockland, 7814 Grove avenue, Shrewsbury, and Miss Beatrice Schruefer, 3608 Delor street.

THREE MEN ARE CHARGED IN 60 BURGLARIES, THEFTS

Warrants charging three men with second degree burglary were issued by the St. Louis Circuit Attorney's office yesterday. Police said capture of the three men resulted in the solution of 60 burglaries and automobile thefts which occurred in the Carondelet district in the last two months.

Those charged were Charles Bitter, 24 years old, an ex-convict living in the 700 block of Ruprecht avenue, Lemay; Donald Lee Spiess, 19, of the 7800 block of Vermont avenue, and Roland George Graham, 18, who said he had no home.

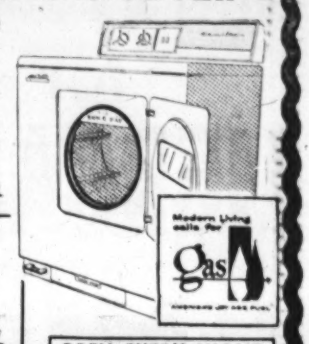

Carondelet District Detectives John Long and William Daues said the men admitted complicity in 20 residence, school and business burglaries, 10 automobile thefts, and 30 larcenies from automobiles. Long and Daues arrested Bitter and Graham last week. Spiess was arrested later.

CHAMP MITCHELL RECEIVES DISCHARGE IN BANKRUPTCY

Louis H. (Champ) Mitchell, former operator of clothing, furniture and jewelry stores in the St. Louis area, received a discharge in bankruptcy today from William O'Herin, referee in bankruptcy.

When he filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy Jan. 11, 1960, Mitchell listed debts that included a $1,100,000 claim for federal income taxes for the years 1942 through 1950 and about $100,000 in private debts.

the United States played in the Cuban affair.

The White House issued a statement last night which said:

"President Kennedy has stated from the beginning that as President he bears sole responsibility for the events of the past few days. He has stated it on all occasions and he restates it now so that it will be understood by all.

"The President is strongly opposed to any one within or without the Administration attempting to shift the responsibility."

There was no elaboration to the White House statement, but it apparently was prompted by sharp Republican reaction to a remark by Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall that last week's rebel landings had been conceived in the administration of former President Eisenhower.

Dirksen protested against the remark by Udall and said Mr. Kennedy ought to discipline him.

Before the President's statement, Udall had issued an apology which said: "The President and his Administration have taken full responsibility in regard to our relations with Cuba. If my remarks on television gave any other impression, I deeply regret it."

Mansfield's Comments.

Mansfield said in his Pittsburgh speech that the crisis in Cuba was reached in the Kennedy Administration.

"But the roads leading to it began many months ago," he said. "The juncture represented the culmination of an accumulation of hostility on the part of Cuba to this nation and an accumulation of our responses to that hostility."

Mansfield said this was a part of the "continuity of problems which confront the nation from abroad and a continuity of the response of our Government to these problems from one administration to another."

Senator Hugh Scott (Rep.), Pennsylvania, a former chairman of the G.O.P. National Committee, suggested in a speech at Arlington, Va., that Mr. Kennedy appoint a high ranking Republican adviser on foreign affairs. He said former Secretary of State Christian A. Herter would be a good man for the job.

"I commend the President for his efforts to rally bipartisan support at a time when the United States is in a very difficult international situation," Scott said. 'He can be certain that Republicans fully intend to stand shoulder to shoulder with the Administration in time of crisis."

Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York and former President Harry Truman were to be brought up to date today on Mr. Kennedy's Cuban policy.

Mr. Kennedy invited the Republican Governor to the White House for a mid-afternoon briefing on the invasion and the problems of combating pro-Communist Fidel Castro's regime.

Johnson Seeing Truman.

Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson arrived today for a luncheon conference with Truman. Neither Truman, who met Johnson at the airport, nor the Vice President, had any comments in advance of the conference.

Mr. Kennedy thus is getting in touch with all leader of both parties on the Cuban affair.

Late last week he discussed the situation with Eisenhower, former Vice President Nixon and Senator Barry Goldwater (Rep.), Arizona. Rockefeller for a while was Nixon's rival for the 1960 Republican presidential nomination.

Although the effect of these cross-party discussions may be to lay the groundwork for bipartisan support for any future moves by Mr. Kennedy against the Castro regime, informants said this was not the President's purpose.

These sources said Mr. Kennedy had neither asked for nor received commitments of support on any future action on Cuba, and that Mr. Kennedy has not decided what specific steps he will take.

TSHOMBE BOLTS, SAYS KASAVUBU SOLD OUT TO U.N.

COQUILHATVILLE, The Congo, April 25 (AP)—President Moise Tshombe of Katanga walked out on the rest of The Congo's anti-Communist political leaders today after accusing President Joseph Kasavubu of the Leopoldville central government of selling out the Congolese people to the United Nations.

With stinging insults, Tshombe refused further co-operation and discussion with the central government unless Kasavubu denounced the accord he recently concluded with the U.N. command, an accord Tshombe said "humiliated all the people in The Congo."

Blow to Confederation.

Tshombe's walkout ended—at least temporarily—hopes for the confederation of Congolese states which all factions except Antoine Gizenga's Stanleyville regime agreed on in principle last month at the Tananarive conference.

Tshombe's chief objection to the Kasavubu-U.N. agreement was its requirement for immediate withdrawal of all foreign advisers not under Kasavubu's authority. This was clearly aimed at Tshombe's large contingent of Belgian advisers and the foreign mercenary officers of his Katanga army.

Tshombe mocked the promises of financial aid from the United Nations.

"I wonder how the United Nations is going to afford this when they have their own financial troubles," he scoffed.

List of His Demands.

He demanded:

"A solemn denunciation" of the Kasavubu-U.N. agreement.

A protest to the United Nations against what Tshombe calls the attack on Katanga forces by U.N. Ethiopian troops at the north Katanga town of Kabalo earlier this month.

That only authorities who took part in the Tananarive conference should be allowed to participate at Coquilhatville. This was directed against his longtime enemy, Jason Sendwe, leader of the north Katanga Baluba tribesmen, who arrived uninvited at Coquilhatville and insisted on participating.

MAN IN TWO-STATE POLICE CHASE GETS 80-DAY TERM

Oscar L. Turner, arrested Sunday after a two-state police chase, was sentenced to 80 days in the workhouse and fined $250 yesterday by Police Judge Rodney Weiss.

On pleas of guilty, Turner was sentenced to 10 days for speeding more than 70 miles an hour, 10 days on each of three electric signal violations and 10 days on each of four charges of violating stop signs. The fine was for five charges of failure to reduce speed at intersections.

Turner, an ex-convict, fled from two East St. Louis policemen who arrested him for having no driver's license. They ursued him across MacArthur bridge. St. Louis police joined the chase and he was captured in the 2500 block of South Broadway. Turner suffered a broken nose and injured ribs when he resisted arrest.

Young Dean Martin didn't even want to sing. (His buddies talked him into it.) When he and Jerry Lewis were the hottest comedy team ever, Dean walked out on the act. (He had his reasons.) Afterward everyone was sure he was all washed up. (He almost was.) Yet today Dean is one of the biggest stars in Hollywood. (And his future is brighter than ever!)

In this week's Saturday Evening Post, Dean Martin tells editor Pete Martin the whole incredible story of his career. He pulls no punches, minces no words, spares no feelings. You'll learn the real reason behind his split with Jerry Lewis. Why Dean broke down and cried when he got a much-needed role. Whether he's really the heavy drinker most people think he is. How he talked his way into making a movie with Shirley MacLaine and Frank Sinatra. And how he and his wife really work to make their home happy! Be sure to read "I Call on Dean Martin" in this week's Post.

STOCK MARKET RECOUPS MOST OF SHARP LOSS

NEW YORK, April 25 (AP)—The stock market closed sharply higher in a vigorous recovery drive.

Key stocks recovered from fractions to 2 or 3 points as they rebounded from yesterday's setback, the worst in seven months.

Many "growth" issues which lost several points yesterday won back a good portion of their losses. Today's big gainers were, in general, the big losers of yesterday.

The market was higher from the start, widened its gains, paused for some profit taking, then went higher. Final dealings were accompanied by a late ticker tape and some prices were trimmed.

American Photocopy was up more than 8, International Business Machines about 7, American Machine & Foundry more than 4 and Republic Aviation about 3.

Volume for the day was estimated at 4,900,000 shares compared with 4,590,000 yesterday.

The international tensions which triggered the market break had eased and many investors picked up stock at lower levels than when the decline began last week.

U. S. Steel, which reports on quarterly results after the close, gained about 2 by late.

On American Board.

American Stock Exchange prices advanced in active trading. Fairchild Camera picked up half a dozen points as did Mead Johnson. Circuit Foil and Giannini Controls were up about 4 apiece, Cenco Instruments and Loral Electronics more than 2 each, Technicolor and Seeburg more than a point each.

FALSTAFF BREWING CORP. QUARTER NET OF $1,048,448

Falstaff Brewing Corp. reported first quarter unaudited net income of $1,048,448, equivalent to 47 cents a common share, compared with $1,025,881 or 49 cents a share for the like 1960 period.

Conversions of the company's 6 per cent cumulative convertible preferred stock have broadened common stock holdings to 2,193,378 shares, compared with 1,936,193 at the close of the first quarter of 1960.

Net sales were $25,961,029, against $23,695,309, an increase of 9.6 per cent.

U.S. STEEL NETS 47C FOR QTR. VS. $1.97

NEW YORK, April 25 (AP)—United States Steel Corp. oday reported earnings of $31,976,670, equal to 47 cents a share, in the first quarter of 1961., Directors declared the usual quarterly dividend of 75 cents a share on common stock.

The dividend will be paid June 10 to stockholders of record May 5.

In the first quarter last year the nation's largest steel firm earned $112,578,752, equal to $1.97 a common share.

Production in the three months just concluded was 5,165,767 net tons, far below the record for any quarter of 9,828,849 tons established in the January-March period of 1960.

Shipments in the 1961 first quarter were 3,549,898 tons compared with 6,484,592 a year earlier.

United States and foreign taxes on income were estimated at $26,000,000 compared with $122,000,000 a year ago.

In the past three months U.S. Steel spent $85,000,000 on additions to and replacement of facilities. This compared with $99,000,000 in the first quarter last year.

The directors declared the regular quarterly dividend of $1.75 a share on the preferred stock, payable May 20 to stockholders of record May 2.

Gross National Product Dips Despite Many Signs of Upturn

Volume of Business Activity in First Quarter Dropped 4 Billions From Level of Previous Quarter.

By William H. Kester
Post-Dispatch Business Correspondent

Many indicators of economic activity rose in March, signalling a beginning of a cyclical upturn in the opinion of most business men and economists, but gross national product declined in the first quarter.

Gross national product in the first three months of the year was at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $499,500,000,000, the Council of Economic Advisers recently estimated. This was four billion dollars less than in the fourth quarter of 1960 and $5,500,000,000 less than at the peak in the second quarter of 1960.

W. H. Kester

The decline in physical volume of business activity was greater than indicated by the gross national product figures because of rising prices. In terms of 1960 prices, gross national product in the first quarter was an annual rate of 495 billions, down $5,400,000,000 from the previous quarter and $11,300,000,000 less than at the peak. Prices in the first three months of the year were 1.6 per cent higher than they were a year earlier.

The slowdown in business activity in the first quarter resulted from cutbacks in consumer purchases of durable goods, reduced building of homes, lower business outlays for new equipment and a faster rate of liquidation of inventories. Partly offsetting these negative factors were increases in governmental outlays, higher consumer expenditures for services and a modest improvement in the balance of foreign trade.

Purchases of automobiles and other household durable goods in the first quarter dropped at an annual rate of $3,700,000,000 and were the smallest since 1958. However, there was some improvement during the quarter. Sales of new automobiles increased more than seasonally in both February and March.

Home Construction.

Construction of homes slowed in the first three months of the year, reflecting the decline in new housing starts last year. However, the seasonally adjusted rate of private housing starts increased each month in the first quarter, indicating greater activity ahead.

Lower profits and sales led business men to reduce their outlays for new equipment in the first quarter by $2,300,000,000. According to recent surveys, business men plan to reduce expenditures for new plant and equipment again in the second quarter.

Business inventories were reduced at a rate of $4,500,000,000 a year in the first quarter, compared with three billions in the previous quarter. The future trend of inventories will depend on developments in sales and production. In March, durable goods manufacturers' sales and new orders each rose one per cent from February, repeating the advance in the previous month. Retail sales also have been advancing, as noted above.

U.S. Spending Rises.

Government spending increased at an annual rate of $2,400,000,000 in the first three months of the year. National defense outlays rose $1,300,000,000 and state and local governments stepped up spending by $1,200,000,000. Nondefense outlays by the Federal Government declined slightly.

Personal income, an important determinant of consumer spending, increased in March for the first time since last October. The increase resulted from higher rate of labor income as well as the stepped-up payment of National Service Life Insurance dividends.

Industrial production increased from 101.9 per cent of the 1957 average in February to 102.4 per cent in March, the first gain since last July.

Reflecting the increase in economic activity in March, the number of employes on payrolls of nonfarm establishments increased slightly from February to March, after allowance for seasonal variations. This was the first increase since last July.

The balance of foreign trade in the first quarter was slightly better than in the previous period. Exports in February were up while imports changed little.

6-MOS. MONEY RATE RECORD LOW LEVEL

WASHINGTON, April 25 (AP)—The interest the Government pays on money borrowed for 91 days dropped this week to a four month low and the rate on six-month borrowings reached the lowest level ever.

On $1.1 billion of 91-day bills, the average yield was 2.186 per cent—the lowest since last Dec. 24. The rate a week ago was 2.292 per cent.

Bids for the $400,000,000 of 182-day bills gave an average yield of 2.300 per cent. Last week's rate was 2.458 per cent.

The 182-day rate never has been so low since this type of bill first was offered in 1959.

Average interest rates paid on the weekly bill issues have been declining since April 1.

It has been Administration policy to keep these rates stable at just under 2.5 per cent in order to prevent a heavy flow of short-term private capital to Europe.

Last year, when rates here were much lower than in Europe, hundreds of millions of dollars moved abroad, increasing the balance of payments deficit and leading to record sales of American gold.

Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon indicated at a news conference earlier Monday that the Government still is unwilling to see any big drop in short term rates. He said that if rates were to "get out of whack" with those in other industrial countries, large amounts of funds could move to Europe very quickly.

He noted that following the upward revaluation of the German mark in February, hundreds of millions left Britain within a few days putting strong pressure on the pound sterling.

The bill rates are figured on the basis of a 360-day year. On coupon-bearing securities of the same length, the equivalent rates would be 2.23 per cent for 91 days and 2.36 per cent for 182 days.

U.S. BONDS ADVANCE, CORPORATES GO LOWER

NEW YORK, April 25 (AP)—Corporate bond prices declined while United States Governments advanced late today.

Treasury bonds were ahead 2-32 to 6-32 in the long section and 2-32 to 4-32 among intermediates but volume was slight.

All sections of the corporate list showed losses after a mixed to irregularly lower opening. Volume on the New York Stock Exchange was running about 10 per cent ahead of yesterday's pace.

Most changes amounting to a full point or more were in the minus column.

Among foreign bonds French Credit Foncier added 1⅛ at 100⅞.

One Government dealer said the over-all better tone of that market was almost likely due to Treasury Secretary Dillon's statement yesterday. Dillon said the Administration and Federal Reserve Board agree on the interest rate situation and cannot foresee any tightening of credit conditions.

Easy money conditions favor the price of fixed income securities such as bonds.

ODD LOT TRANSACTIONS

NEW YORK, April 25 (AP)—The New York Stock Exchange reported today these odd lot transactions by principal dealers for April 24: Purchases of 520,717 shares, sales of 591,013 shares including 1775 shares sold short.

BANK CLEARINGS

St. Louis bank clearings for April 25 were $63,100,000 compared with $64,200,000 a year ago.

Liveliest performer of the savings set!

It's the go-prize of the new-size cars! Actually the Buick Special gives you more go than even many of the full-size cars, too. The biggest reason is aluminum! Its standard 155-h.p. aluminum V-8 (185 h.p. optional at extra cost) and aluminum transmission* turn deadweight into live action. Yet, the Special won the Mobilgas Economy Run for automatic shift V-8 compact cars with an amazing 25.09 mpg. Topping all automatic shift V-8 cars! Topping all regular size 6's, too—even with stick shifts!

All Buick—yet priced under most low-price models... far under! But, "go" isn't all that makes this a bona fide Buick. It's a Buick in comfort and ride. A Buick in its Clean Look of Action. A Buick in its lush interiors. Go get that Special feeling—take this Buick for a spin today!

REPORT ON SOYBEANS BRINGS SHARP RISE

CHICAGO, April 25 (AP)—A limit runup of 10 cents a bushel in early dealings held old crop soybean futures against the day's ceilings most of the time today on the Board of Trade.

Bids for both May and July deliveries were as much as 9 cents or more higher at the opening gong and within a few minutes activity virtually had ceased in these months since selling was too light to back prices away from the day's top except for a few seconds at a time.

New crop soybeans advanced 5 cents or more and the grains major fractions to a cent generally although wheat was under scattered selling pressure at times.

WAGNER ELECTRIC CORP. REPORT FOR QUARTER

Wagner Electric Corp. in unaudited statement of first quarter operations showed net income of $511,273, equivalent to 25 cents a common share, compared with $1,060,686 or 52 cents a share for the like three months of 1960.

Net sales were $21,748,525, against $27,473,845.

The first quarter results reflected inventory adjustment in the automotive industry, an unfavorable product mix, and the requirements of absorbing higher wage costs coincidental with certain downward price adjustments to meet unusually severe competitive conditions, George W. Brown, president said.

A more favorable trend in both sales and product mix is currently being experienced, he added.

Long Pants for Boy Scouts.

LONDON, April 25 (AP) — A 60-year-old requirement that British Boy Scouts wear short pants has been altered to permit Senior Scouts to dress in trousers.

HELD FOR FIRING AT FOUR YOUTHS AIDING WOMEN

Lawrence H. Duncan, 2316 Menard street, was arrested at his home yesterday after he reportedly frightened two women neighbors and fired a rifle at four youths who came to their assistance.

One of the boys struck Duncan with his fist. At City Hospital the man was said to have been drunk, and when he refused treatment, he was removed to the Lynch street police station.

In mid-afternoon Duncan reached across his back fence and started taking clothes from a washline belonging to Mrs. Margaret Benson, 2312A Menard, police were told. She ordered him to stop, and he went up to her apartment and tried to push a washing machine off the rear porch, she said.

He failed in that, and then went to the front door of Mrs. Carol McManus, at 2312 Menard, and kicked it open.

Screams of the two women were heard by the four boys, 15 and 16 years old, who were nearby, and they tried to persuade Duncan to quiet down. He kicked one of the boys, and in turn was struck in the face.

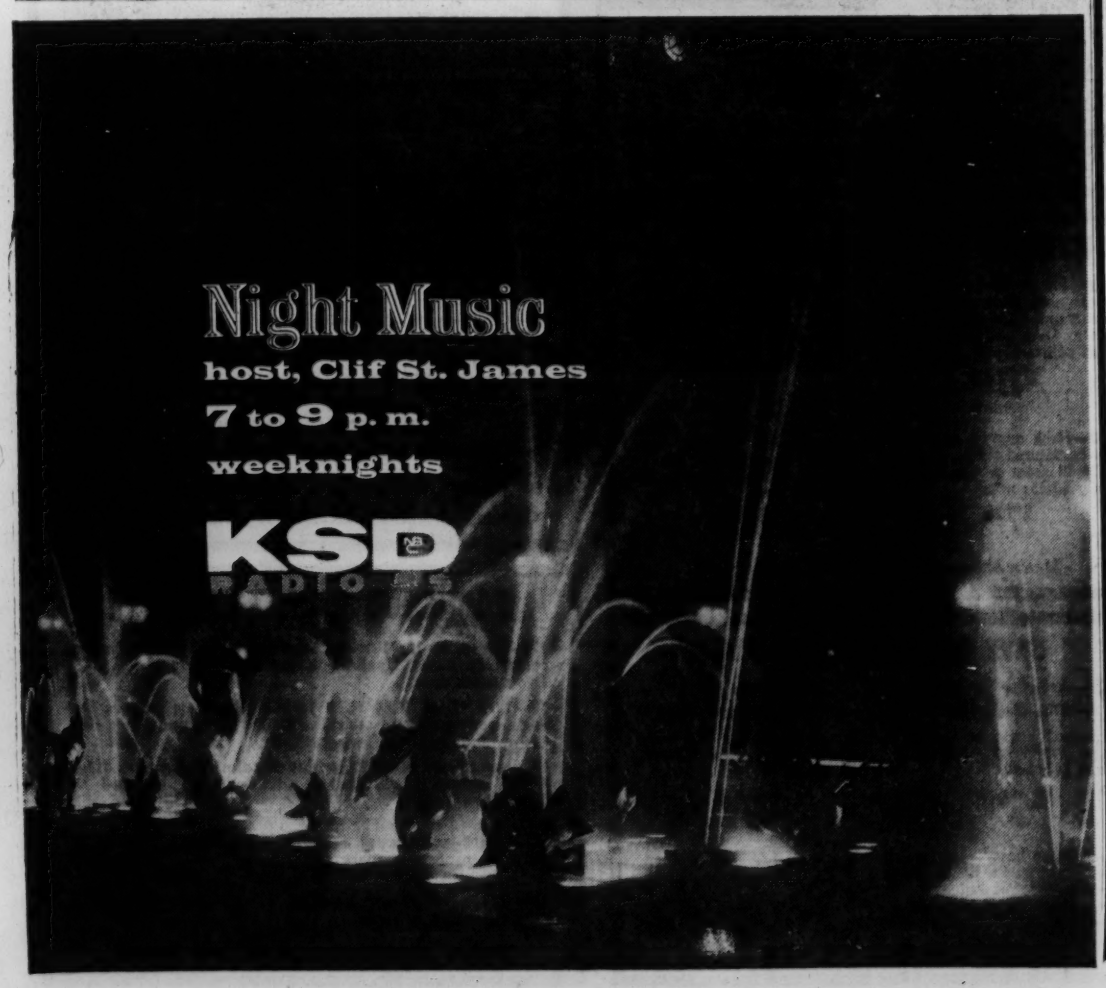

Duncan went to his home and returned with a rifle. The boys took cover behind a parked automobile, and he fired three shots, two of them hitting the car. Police had been called by then, and they saw Duncan run into his home. He was arrested.

COUNCIL REINSTATES JENNINGS OFFICER

The Jennings City Council last night voted 4 to 2 to reinstate Patrolman John R. Kling, who was suspended April 4 by Chief of Police John Obertz.

The officer admitted to the council last night that he had been sleeping in his patrol car when on duty April 2, one of the charges involved in his suspension.

However, Kling earlier charged that the suspension was an attempt by Obertz to get rid of him because he was one of 12 Jennings policemen who criticized the chief in a public letter last month.

Mayor Oliver R. Koeneman said the vote followed a private caucus of the councilmen. Several members of the council apparently believed discharge was too harsh a punishment, he said. He said that he was opposed to reinstating the officer.

Voting for reinstatement were Councilmen James H. Wilhelm, Fred DeHass Jr., John McDaniel and John R. Weir. Opposed were Russell E. Shearman and James D. Hawkins. Councilman Ralph F. Anslyn abstained.

Although the reinstatement is effective from the time of the council action, Koeneman said he plans to discuss the matter further with Obertz and Kling before returning the officer to duty. Kling will not draw pay for the period of his suspension, he said.

ATTORNEYS FAIL TO AGREE IN LEVEE BOARD DISPUTE

Attorneys for rival factions on the East Side Levee and Sanitary District met yesterday, but failed to agree on a proposed plan to request the consolidation of all outstanding litigation between them for hearing before an outstate circuit judge.

Meanwhile, Circuit Judge John M. Karns Jr. announced that hearings on a series of court motions by both parties in the dispute will start Friday. He continued for 10 days an order restraining the board faction headed by Lawrence Tolar from holding a board meeting to fire four employes of the sanitary district.

Tolar and Dan E. Costello claim to be president of the district's board of trustees. Costello was elected president last November by himself and George Duff, when three other members of the five-man board boycotted the meeting. Tolar, Thomas (Skip) Hennessy and John Molla met later and elected Tolar president.

DRUG STORE ROBBER FIRES SHOT TO FRIGHTEN VICTIMS

The Community Pharmacy, 2730 North Taylor avenue, was robbed of $33 last night by a man who pointed a revolver at a clerk, Miss Carol Evans, and ordered her to give him the money from the cash register.

He then ordered her to open the safe at the rear of the store, but the owner, Lillard Haynes, who lives upstairs, appeared and convinced the robber that he could not open the safe without a key, and had none.

Haynes's wife then walked in. All three were ordered into a washroom, and the robber fled, firing one shot in the air as a warning not to pursue him.

MAYOR URGES PARTICIPATION IN CIVIC, POLITICAL AFFAIRS

Good municipal government depends upon full participation by citizens in the affairs of special interest groups as well as in municipal politics, Mayor Raymond R. Tucker said yesterday.

Speaking at the Twenty-fourth Institute of Judaism for the Christian Clergy at Temple Israel, Mayor Tucker said that citizen interest and participation in such organizations as neighborhood improvement groups, parent-teacher groups and civic groups is valuable because these groups concern themselves with political issues, thus stimulating an interest in politics in private citizens.

The institute presented a citation to Mayor Tucker for his integrity and dedication in government, for his initiative in constructive endeavors, and for his graceful and effective interpretation of our municipal goals.

Frankfurter Degrades Court, Warren Says in New Clash

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch

WASHINGTON, April 25—Chief Justice Earl Warren and Associate Justice Felix Frankfurter clashed again yesterday in an open session of the Supreme Court.

The clash came when Justice Frankfurter accused the majority of plucking out isolated evidence to sustain what he called an indefensible 5-to-4 decision reversing a murder conviction.

The Chief Justice said his associate had been "degrading this court" with an inappropriate lecture.

Justice Frankfurter, at 78 the oldest member of the court, wrote one of two dissents from the majority opinion, which held that trial errors justified a fourth trial for Willie Lee Stewart for the 1953 holdup-murder of a Washington grocer.

Justice Frankfurter read his 12-page dissent, in which Associate Justices John Marshall Harlan and Charles Evans Whittaker concurred. In the process, he interpolated remarks on the majority opinion, including the assertion that it was indefensible.

There was an immediate reaction from the Chief Justice, who concurred with Associate Justices William O. Douglas, William J. Brennan Jr. and Potter Stewart in the majority opinion by Associate Justice Hugo L. Black.

"I must say," Chief Justice Warren said, "though I didn't file an opinion in this case, that that was not the dissenting opinion that was filed.

"This was a lecture. This was the closing argument by the prosecutor to the jury properly made in the conference room, but not in the courtroom."

Chief Justice Warren went on to observe that "the purpose of reporting an opinion is to inform the public and not for the purpose of degrading this court."

He said that he would have had "much to say" if his associate's comments had been part of the formal dissent, but "unfortunately the record will not show it."

"I'll leave it in the record," Justice Frankfurter snapped.

Associate Justice Tom C. Clark, in a separate dissent from Justice Frankfurter's, held that the defendant may well be a moron, as the defense has maintained, but he still "can laugh up his sleeve, for he has again made a laughing-stock of the law."

Chief Justice Warren and Justice Frankfurter clashed openly March 20 over a 5-to-4 decision ordering a new trial in a relatively routine larceny case. Justice Frankfurter took nearly 15 minutes to voice his dissent, extemporizing from his basic text as he went.

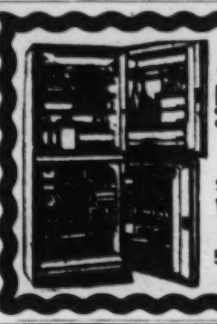

Chief Justice Warren, who had submitted no written opinion but had voted with the majority, undertook the rebuttal in that instance on the ground that "so much has been said here that was not in any written opinion."

LOUISVILLE GROUP HERE ON BIAS STUDY

A group of 10 Louisville officials and citizens met with Mayor Raymond R. Tucker and others here yesterday to discuss the procedure used in St. Louis for racial integration of restaurants.

Mayor Bruce Hoblizell of Louisville indicated he will ask the Louisville Restaurant Association to take steps to persuade its members to integrate their places of business. If the association refuses, he said letters will be sent to individual restaurant operators asking them to adopt a policy of serving all customers.

A further step if the first two are not successful would be a series of orderly demonstrations in restaurants by members of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and the Committee on Racial Equality, he indicated.

In addition to Mayor Tucker, those from St. Louis taking part in the discussion were City Counselor Thomas J. Neenan; W. J. Duford, director of the St. Louis Council on Human Relations; Chester Stovall, the council's executive secretary, and William Glastris, representing the restaurant association here. The meeting was in the administration building at Lambert-St. Louis Field.

A group of large restaurants in St. Louis was integrated last November after Mayor Tucker announced the city would not prosecute Negroes sitting peacefully in public restaurants where service ha dbeen refused because of their race.

The following day, the St. Louis chapter of the Missouri Restaurant Association approved in principle service to all races and a few days later it announced that it would ask all members to adopt the practice.

TRANE Climate Changers will give you crisp, dry cooling

—"just like downtown"

This year step up from 1-room, window-unit cooling to central air conditioning by TRANE.

For years TRANE has been a leader in the development and manufacture of quality air conditioning systems and equipment used in the world's most famous buildings.

Now TRANE—with this extensive "big building" background and experience—offers central air conditioning for your entire home . . . "just like downtown." TRANE units cool or heat or both . . . filter and dehumidify. Installation is easy, and the cost is low.

FHA financing, with low monthly terms, is available. Call us now.

1. For heating and cooling. Invest in year-around comfort by installing a combination heating-cooling TRANE Climate Changer. Heating unit may be oil or gas-fired. Matched cooling units use same ducts for maximum economy.

2. To add cooling. You already have the major part of a cooling system if you have a warm air furnace—so just add a TRANE cooling unit. In most cases, this cool air may be circulated through your present ductwork.

3. A separate cooling system. If your heating system is not adaptable to cooling, there's a TRANE Climate Changer that provides independent cooling for your entire home. Tucks away in attic, basement, utility room or closet.

4. Complete electric heating and cooling. Find out more about the TRANE air-to-air Heat Pump which operates electrically for heating and cooling an entire home. Uses no water, requires no fuel, needs no chimney. Sizes for any home.

THIS IS THOMPSON, MANITOBA TODAY, a fully integrated nickel production facility employing over 2,000 people . . . a facility that created a modern community for 8,000 residents.

IN OCTOBER, 1957, the horn of the first diesel was heard at Thompson. It meant an increasing flow of supplies. A 30 mile spur had been completed to link the site with the Canadian National Railways.

IN 1958, THE HEADFRAME for the 2,100 foot production shaft towered above the surrounding forest. The way was now clear for the development of the new Thompson mine.

IN EARLY 1960, POWER for the integrated mining complex began to flow from the hydro-electric facility built for this purpose on the Nelson River, 53 miles to the northeast.

INCO-CANADA UNLOCKS NICKEL RESOURCE IN NORTHERN MANITOBA

New Inco project starts producing Nickel at annual rate of more than 75,000,000 pounds!

PURE NICKEL STARTING SHEETS being loaded in electrolytic tanks of the refinery, where production will reach an annual rate of more than 75,000,000 pounds in 1961.

Deep in Manitoba, on the edge of Canada's northern frontier country, now stands a major outpost of modern science and technology. It's the world's first fully integrated plant for producing refined nickel—the Thompson Project of International Nickel.

The new Thompson development will increase Inco-Canada's total nickel capacity by 24%. This multi-million-dollar production complex represents the largest single private investment ever made in Manitoba.

The Thompson Project is another major step in Inco-Canada's continuing program to seek out and develop the nickel resources so important to free countries everywhere . . . and with economic progress, an increased need for nickel has been developed in many industries, many markets. For full details on this great nickel operation, write Dept. I-61 for the free booklet, "The Thompson Project." ©1961, INCO

ST. CLAIR COUNTY JURY HEARS 2 IN OFFICES INQUIRY

The St. Clair county grand jury heard two members of the county board of supervisors yesterday in a county offices investigation sought by the board.

The two witnesses were James Krause of East St. Louis and Al N. Young of Stookey township.

Krause had asked for an investigation of the office of County Clerk Elmer Touchette after it was charged that Touchette had failed to turn over about $43,300 in fees to the county treasurer. Touchette said he welcomed the investigation of his office.

Young amended the motion for an investigation to include all county offices in an effort to determine how they might be operated more efficiently. Terming the charge against Touchette "politically inspired," Young said: "If we uncover any wrongdoing, we will take appropriate action."

Young and Krause had been invited to appear before the grand jury by State's Attorney John M. Karns Jr., who told reporters the supervisors' testimony had been exploratory.

The grand jury was given the findings of a study conducted by the board of supervisors' finance committee, which is headed by Krause.

THREE AREA STUDENTS WIN SCIENCE FOUNDATION GRANTS

Three St. Louis area students have received fellowships from the National Science Foundation for post-graduate study next school year at Washington University, it was announced today.

Krone, 9200 Halls Ferry road, Jennings, rejected the fellowships to accept jobs.

The co-operative fellowships provide tuition, fees and a stipend ranging between $1650 and $2200. Receipients are selected by the foundation and the universities. A total of eight such fellowships have been awarded for study at Washington University next year.

BOASTS ABOUT ROBBERY, IS ARRESTED IN STOLEN CAR

William B. Mohr, a former convict, was arrested in a stolen automobile near Litchfield, Ill., yesterday after he had boasted to an East St. Louis filling station attendant about a robbery he had just committed in St. Louis. The attendant notified police.

The automobile belonged to George Heagy, building cleaner, 2219 Pestalozzi street. Heagy said Mohr threatened him with a knife in the men's room of a tavern at 1106 South Fourth street yesterday and robbed him of $8, a watch and a ring.

Mohr later admitted to police that he then took Heagy's automobile and drove across MacArthur bridge. He was arrested by Illinois State Police and returned to St. Louis. Mohr, 30 years old, of the 1900 block of South Broadway, told police he had been drinking. Police said he served prison terms for robbery and stealing.

Otto W. Scheiterle, campaign director of the Lutheran Laymen's Movement and former administrative assistant to President Girard C. Varnum of the St. Louis County Chamber of Commerce, died yesterday at Evansville, Ind., where he had gone on a business trip.

Mr. Scheiterle, 56 years old, former executive secretary of the Clayton Chamber of Commerce, died in his sleep, apparently of a heart attack. Surviving are his wife, the former Mary Ellen Wildrick; two daughters, Mrs. Jack H. Parker, Glasgow, Mont., and Miss Diane Scheiterle; a son, Robert Rollin Scheiterle; a brother, and two sisters.

TELEGRAPH OFFICE CLOSING SOUGHT IN WEBSTER GROVES

The Western Union Telegraph Co. will ask the Federal Communications Commission for permission to close its branch office at 16 North Gore avenue, Webster Groves, company officers said yesterday.

The action is being taken because of declining business at the office, a spokesman said. Many firms which formerly used the telegraph service for fast communication have installed private communications systems or conduct more business by telephone it was said.

In the last two years, revenues from the Webster Groves office have been only about 80 per cent of operating expenses, the spokesman said.

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITIES 94

EXCLUSIVE PAINT FRANCHISE
One of America's fastest-growing paint firms, Mary Carter Paint Co., is offering exclusive single or multiple unit retail franchises to qualified individuals. Over 600 stores are already operating successfully in 35 states.
The success of our franchise is due largely to specific dealer advantages: No franchise fee — FREE delivery service—unlimited 50-50 co-op that is not predicated on purchases—a skeleton stock inventory of only $5450 (or $3000 in smaller communities, in conjunction with an existing business) is permitted—an exclusive franchise is granted—only 5% of your capital is in non-saleable inventory (fixtures, equipment)—there are no hidden costs. Your total investment, including operating capital, is as low as $6500. A turnover of 8 to 10 times per year is average for our retail branches.
Our unique, continuous FREE PAINT OFFER is a key factor in producing this exceptional volume. Consequently, immediate profits are common-place with a Mary Carter franchise.
The promotional success of this advertising appeal enables you to operate a low overhead, cash, supermarket type operation. We share your advertising costs 50-50 based on what you want to spend—no tie-in with purchases or percentage of sales.

Nixon Thinks U.S. Must Develop Guerrilla Forces to Smash Reds In Cuba, Laos or Latin America

He Backs Kennedy in Supporting Anti-Castroites but Feels It Was Mistake Not to Have Alternate Plan — His View on General Situation.

By WILLIAM THEIS

WASHINGTON, April 25 (UPI).

RICHARD M. NIXON thinks the Cuban invasion fiasco means the United States must develop strong guerrilla-type forces to smash Communist subversion in Cuba, Laos or Latin America.

The former vice president strongly supports President Kennedy's decision to aid the anti-Castro rebels, but he feels it was a mistake not to decide in advance what the United States would do if the invasion failed.

It can be stated that Mr. Kennedy's unsuccessful G.O.P. presidential challenger now is convinced that:

This Government must find legal ways to act unilaterally with its own para-military forces when Communist subversion threatens freedom, particularly in this hemisphere. One such device might be to assert the right to act as a "trustee" under an existing pact until other allies join such anti-Communist efforts.

The intelligence and actual counter-subversion activities of this country must be divorced, either inside or outside of the Central Intelligence Agency.

Laos should not be written off as lost to the Reds, but a complete shift of direction is necessary to save it. United States support for a strong leader might work, as it did in South Viet Nam.

The Cuban invasion failure must not be allowed to frighten United States officials from developing covert forces to meet future crises brought on by the Communists. It is a case of not doing less but doing more—and doing it better.

Multilateral action is impracticable and mere economic assistance will never halt Communist subversion in Latin America. Many Latin American leaders, he feels, will hesitate to act because of fear of Castroism and the threat of mob rule.

Mr. Kennedy has displayed great courage and leadership in facing up to the Cuban threat and will not be frightened away from taking a firm future stand.

Russia's Nikita Khrushchev, with all his bluster, will not risk a world war over Cuba—or Berlin. Nixon thinks he might try a coup in Iran or elsewhere.

As an Eisenhower Administration official who early recommended unilateral action against Communist subversion, Nixon has expressed his views to Mr. Kennedy and promised him his support.

ALTHOUGH NIXON will begin criticizing the new Administration in a speaking tour early next month, he was pictured as having assured Mr. Kennedy he need not be inhibited on future foreign policy moves by any fear of political criticism.

Nixon clearly thinks the United States should talk less loudly and act more aggressively against Red subversion. This means, it was said, that this government must be prepared to commit maximum United States power when United States prestige is at stake.

That was the determination, it is understood, underlying President Eisenhower's decision to send United States Marines into Lebanon.

At the end of a National Security Council session at which Eisenhower reached that decision, the then President was said to have asked Secretary of State John Foster Dulles: "'Foster, are you to ready to take the 'second step?'" Dulles, it was said, nodded.

In the case of Cuba, the second step presumably would have been direct use of American forces to make sure the invasion succeeded.

Nixon thinks a firm stand is particularly important in Latin America. The then Vice President was spat on and stoned in South America in 1958 in his Communist-marred good will tour. He reasons now that winning is respected and failure despised in Latin America — hence firmness should be this government's policy.

WHEN FIDEL CASTRO addressed the American Society of Newspaper Editors two years ago, the Cuban premier conferred privately with Nixon.

Nixon later wrote a three-page memorandum and circulated it to key departments and some reporters. It tagged Castro as a "captive of the Communists" who was, in a sense, worse than an outright Red because he disavowed that allegiance.

At this period, Nixon's view as a minority one—the State Department view being that Castro could be "saved." But by March 1960, the Eisenhower Administration had moved to Nixon's view. At this point, it was understood, top officials approved the training of guerrilla forces with United States support.

SOME OF NIXON'S views met sharp opposition today from Democrats.

Senator Wayne Morse (Dem.), Oregon, chairman of the Senate subcommittee on Latin America, was as critical of Nixon as he was of the Kennedy Administration for helping the ill-fated invasion.

To Nixon's belief that this government must find legal devices to enable it to use para-military force against Communist aggression, Morse replied in an interview:

"Mr. Nixon's proposal would bog us down in brushfire wars for years. I am satisfied the American people will see the implications of this and reject it."

Senator Hubert H. Humphrey (Dem.) of Minnesota, another member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said: "We've got to be very careful with loose talk about military intervention." He said that the United States would be wiser to meet the "real need of social reform" in Latin America.

HUMPHREY SAID he felt the State Department pays too little attention to labor unions, cooperatives, farmers, teachers and students in its efforts to win friends in Latin America and elsewhere.

"We're always talking to the wrong people," he said. "We talk to the landowners, the industrialists and the rich. I don't think all the money in the world will save Latin America until among the ruling class there is a willingness to share the wealth."

France Conducts Fourth Atomic Test, May Have Portable Bomb

PARIS, April 25 (AP).

FRANCE conducted its fourth atomic test in the Sahara today, and a government announcement aroused speculation that it has succeeded in constructing a portable atomic bomb.

The French scientists have been trying to achieve a bomb capable of being transported by air, thus giving France military atomic capability.

The announcement said the explosion was the last of the above-ground atomic tests of the French program in North Africa. This was taken as an indication that the program had been successful.

Government sources said the explosion at Reggane, deep in the Sahara, was another tower shot of weak power. They said that "all precautions have been taken so that radioactive fallout poses no danger to populations."

Announcement of the blast startled Frenchmen absorbed in the Algerian crisis. Reggane is 600 miles south of Algiers and easily accessible only by plane.

Moscow radio charged today, in a broadcast beamed to Africa, that the atomic explosion was a crime against Africans.

The broadcast said, "This act of the ruling circles of France cannot be appraised otherwise than as a challenge to world public opinion, upsetting an agreement on ending nuclear tests."

Since the first atomic test was carried out Feb. 13, 1960, President De Gaulle has been pressing to develop for France an independent nuclear striking force. Each explosion has brought additional criticism from other African nations, and the testing now may shift to another area. One possibility is the Kerguelen islands, in the Indian ocean 3000 miles southeast of Madagascar.

Since the first explosion, France has moved ahead quickly.

The second test was April 1, 1960, and the device was officially announced as of weaker power than the first. The third explosion was set off Dec. 27, 1960.

Russia Insists on Veto Demand in Test Bar Talks.

GENEVA, April 25 (AP)—The Soviet Union insisted today on a veto demand that threatens to wreck the three-power nuclear test bar conference.

Soviet Delegate Semyon K. Tsarapkin referred to his proposal that the test bar control system be administered by a three-man council of one Westerner, one Communist and one neutral. Its decisions would have to be unanimous, thus giving the Communists a veto.

He told Arthur H. Dean of the United States and Britain's Sir Michael Wright that the Soviet government "simply cannot accept" the Western view that the system be headed by a single administrator.

Cuba Lays in Needle Supply.

MIAMI, Fla., April 25 (AP)—Cuba stocked up on needles today. A Havana broadcast heard here said 9,000,000 needles for sewing machines were bought from the Soviet Union, and 47,000,000 for use by hand from Red China.

Kennedy and Sukarno Back Neutral Laos

They Urge New Nations to Guard Against Imperialism.

WASHINGTON, April 25 (AP).

PRESIDENT KENNEDY and President Sukarno of Indonesia joined today in pledging strong support for a neutral and independent Laos.

They said also the disarmament problem "must be considered in relation to the general world situation," and that agreement on a treaty ending nuclear tests would be a most significant step in solving the problem of disarmament.

In a communique issued at the end of Sukarno's Washington visit, the two Presidents said new countries must be alert to any attempt "to subvert their cherished freedom by means of imperialism in all of its manifestations."

They reaffirmed "the spirit of cooperation and confidence which has characterized the relations between the two countries."

Mr. Kennedy said the Indonesian eight-year development plan provides further opportunity for the two nations to work together. He offered to provide the services of a United States economic team to consult with Indonesians regarding the best way in which the United States might assist in achieving the goal of the plan.

Sukarno paid a farewell call on Mr. Kennedy, then left by helicopter for Andrews Air Force Base in nearby Maryland. Mexico City is the next stop on his world tour.

Mr. Kennedy escorted him to the helicopter on the White House grounds.

The Kennedy-Sukarno conferences failed to come up with a formula for cooling off the Dutch-Indonesian dispute over West New Guinea.

They did agree that there should be further exploration of the problem in talks in the next two days between Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Dr. Subandrio, Indonesian foreign minister.

The Netherlands holds the territory, but Indonesia claims it.

British House Sends De Gaulle Message of Friendship, Support

Rare Unanimity — Envoy Delivers Macmillan's Personal Assurances of Good Will to French President.

By DREW MIDDLETON

LONDON, April 25.

THE HOUSE OF COMMONS, in a rare example of unanimity, expressed to President De Gaulle and the French people yesterday Britain's "friendship and encouragement" in the present crisis.

To the accompaniment of cheers, Joseph B. Godber, undersecretary for foreign affairs, declared "a strong, united France is vital to the freedom of the world and anything which weakens or divides France must be regarded with profound regret in this country."

Prime Minister Macmillan sent a personal message of good will and friendship to President De Gaulle last night. The message was delivered in Paris by Sir Pierson Dixon, the British Ambassador.

Government officials and diplomats at the French Embassy were moderately optimistic as the day waned without the rebellion spreading to metropolitan France. British and French diplomats thought De Gaulle's plan of a moral, psychological and physical blockade of Algeria was better suited to the circumstances than punitive attack against the rebels.

YET THE ELEMENT of doubt remained. Qualified sources pointed out that the blockade would be effective only if the French navy in the Mediterranean remained faithful to De Gaulle.

Another disturbing point is the uncertainty about the reliability of the French army in metropolitan France. The possibility that it might take steps to aid some form of invasion from Algeria was not discounted by military sources.

Some action in France is necessary if the rebels are to have a chance of success, these sources said.

They pointed out that the number of troop-carrying aircraft available to the rebels is too small to enable them to mount decisive airborne operations without assistance from a rising in France.

THE CONCLUSION reached by intelligence agencies here was that, unless the rebels are able to expand their movement across the Mediterranean to France in the next 48 hours, they will have to abandon hope of unseating the De Gaulle government.

To make an impression in France, these sources suggested, the rebels must present public opinion with leaders more convincing than retired generals. If the rebellion is to have a next stage, they predicted it would be marked by the emergence from obscurity of some of the politicians of the Fourth Republic.

British sources said recent reports from France had described the restiveness of a number of former ministers, who complained at a private meeting that De Gaulle had failed to do what he had promised.

The President had been given power, these politicians were reported to have said, to solve the Algerian problem. Thus far he had failed to do so and his policies toward the North Atlantic Treaty Organization had damaged France's relations with the United States and Britain, her principal allies.

Adenauer Cites Threat to NATO in French Crisis.

COLOGNE, April 25 (UPI)—Chancellor Adenauer was quoted today as saying NATO would be weakened if France was weakened by events in Algeria.

The Chancellor made the statement to a meeting of his Christian Democratic party's executive here, a spokesman said.

Adenaur said the Algerian situation was serious and expressed hopes it would be stabilized shortly.

Hope for Rapid Transit

Taxpayers are paying a billion dollars every year to build expressways and yet traffic jams get worse. Cities all over the country are looking to an alternative method of transportation, mass transit.

This growing national interest in mass transit as a means of coping with rapidly worsening traffic congestion is indicated by the introduction of two bills in Congress, the most recent of which would authorize the Federal Government to guarantee up to 50 per cent of the principal and interest payments on bonds or other obligations issued by public transit authorities to finance mass transportation projects.

Matching guarantees by state or local agencies would be required, and the aggregate amount of payments which the Federal Government could be required to make in any one fiscal year, under contracts with public transit authorities, could at no time exceed $50,000,000. This bill (H.R. 5761) was introduced by Representative William S. Moorhead of Pennsylvania.

The loan guarantee feature makes the Moorhead bill somewhat broader in scope than a bill (S. 345) previously introduced by Senator H. A. Williams of New Jersey. The latter bill provides low-cost, long-term loans to state and local agencies up to $100,000,000 in the first year with additional loans up to $150,000,000 in subsequent years, to improve mass transit facilities. Both bills have the same objective.

Let us hope that this growing concern at the national level may result in appropriate legislation to provide financial aid necessary for the construction of rapid transit roadways and structures in St. Louis and other major cities.

Senator Goldwater's Advice

I think the position taken by Senator Barry Goldwater of Arizona is the most sensible approach to the Cuban problem and United States intervention.

He states that we should blockade Cuba and prevent Soviet arms from infiltrating the country. We have to draw the line somewhere and stop giving ground to the Russians.

Jim Moores

The Errand Boys

Gravois Township Republican made some very timely remarks in this space recently in regard to the power the public utilities have over our state legislators. He said, "The utter disregard of the welfare of Missouri, by the present managements of the public utilities, is a state scandal."

I think he missed the most important point. The fact that the state legislators, who are elected by the voters back home, can show such utter disregard for the welfare of Missouri, is more of a scandal.

The managements of the public utilities are concerned with only one thing, to show a profit. But our state legislators come to the voters at election time and promise to do a good job for them in Jefferson City, if elected.

The vote on the Blackwell bill, HB-380, reveals the members who apparently meant what they said and the ones who did not.

Thanks for your timely editorial, "41 for the Public." This was a true public service. Keep it up. Maybe some of us voters will remember.

Buying on Installments

Recently I bought a breakfast set at a store on Franklin avenue for $59.95, plus $1.20 sales tax, making the total price $61.15, less $5 for being a "preferred customer," which left me owing $56.15.

I planned to pay for the set in 90 days. But just in case of an unforeseen obligation I had the papers made out to carry the payments out for a year.

I was amazed when the set was delivered to learn I was being charged $10.50 for interest for the $56.15 to be carried for 12 months, thus making the interest rate over 18 per cent.

I was shocked to learn from the Better Business Bureau that Missouri has no control over the rate of interest charged by stores for deferred payments. However the state does have control over the interest rates charged by banks in Missouri.

A Look at the CIA

President Kennedy has moved promptly in the wake of the Cuban fiasco to find out what is wrong with United States intelligence services. He has asked Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, former Army Chief of Staff, and Attorney General Robert Kennedy to look into the activities of the Central Intelligence Agency, and also into this country's capabilities in fields short of formal warfare.

This is a matter of the greatest urgency. The CIA, which is headed by Allen Dulles, brother of the late Secretary of State, helped organize, train, finance and arm the Cuban refugees who undertook the abortive invasion of their country. Many rebels accuse the CIA of monumental mismanagement. They say the CIA precipitated the attack without adequate co-ordination with the Cuban underground and without including groups experienced in guerrilla tactics. The whole operation was based on the false assumption that a popular uprising against Premier Castro would follow the first landing.

In short, the CIA failed, and Mr. Kennedy realizes the urgent necessity of finding out why. An unreliable intelligence agency is worse than none at all, and the public record of the CIA is not good. It may be that the unreported successes of the hush-hush agency more than balance the failures, but there have been too many known failures and too much known bungling. Mr. Kennedy is to be commended for making it plain he is not seeking a scapegoat. Nevertheless, the security of the nation is involved and it is the President's duty to protect it.

This question might not have arisen at all if Congress had accepted the proposal made more than five years ago by Senator Mansfield of Montana and 32 other Senators. This was for a joint watchdog committee to supervise the operation of the CIA much as the joint committee on atomic energy supervises the activities of the Atomic Energy Commission.

Such a committee might, over a period of time, bring about a new definition of the duties of the CIA. Mr. Dulles has always maintained that the CIA "is not a policy-making agency; we furnish intelligence to assist in the formulation of policy." But charges have become more frequent in the last few years that the CIA has been departing from this role and competing with the State and Defense Departments in the implementation of policies its intelligence estimates suggest.

It appears to have the statutory authority for this. It was created in 1947 to exercise broad functions in the intelligence field, but was also given authority to perform "additional services" and "other functions" under the direction of the National Security Council. The gathering of intelligence and the conduct of subversive activities are two separate things. We need and must have an intelligence agency; it should be the world's best. There may be a question as to whether the United States should have an agency ready to undertake a job like that the CIA attempted in Cuba. If, for self-protection, this must be done, then that agency cannot fail.

The problem that has not been solved, and which President Kennedy told the American Society of Newspaper Editors he was studying, was phrased this way recently by James Reston of The New York Times:

"How an open, non-conspiratorial society, with a free press that is skeptical of secret government activities and power, can compete effectively with a secret and conspiratorial society using all the instruments of subversion without having to answer its own public opinion."

This is a question that cannot very well be threshed out in public debate. But it is in a field in which a congressional committee would be useful. Appropriations for the CIA are concealed but the agency reportedly spends as much as a billion dollars a year; it is said to employ 12,000 to 18,000 persons. Such an agency should be subject to a greater degree of supervision by the elected representatives of the people.

This would not be for the purpose of embarrassing the CIA but to help it follow better the imperatives of national policy. Certainly nothing like the Cuban bungle must happen again.

Two Appeals to Voters

Gov. Dalton urges Missouri voters to "rise up" in demanding that their legislators defend his highway program against the oil lobby. Yet that lobby is strongly pushing its program to "give the public an opportunity to vote on the issue." Whom should the voters support?

The answer is: not the oil lobby. What it proposes would not give the voters a real choice. The lobby proposes wrapping up state highway aid, state aid for local roads and abolition of city gas taxes in one package. Voters who think state highways come first would have to accept less important and more questionable projects on an all-or-nothing basis.

This plan offers something more akin to blackmail than a fair choice. The fair choice is what the Governor proposes: to divide the package. The Legislature ought to increase the gasoline tax for the main state highways, as the voters long ago authorized it to do. Then the people could vote on a constitutional amendment involving state aid to local roads and a prohibition on city gas taxes. Each question ought to be decided on its merits, not tied together.

The voters ought to support the Governor, whom they elected. They did not elect the oil lobby.

Cuba and Formosa

Among the many effects of the crisis in Cuba may well be a fresh understanding of a situation on the other side of the globe. That is the China problem. Americans are now fully alert to the danger of an armed Communist-oriented regime on an island 90 miles off our shores. President Kennedy has made it plain the United States will not tolerate Russian intervention in Cuba.

Consider our ally in the Far East, the Chiang Kai-shek regime on Formosa. Formosa is an island about as far from mainland China as Cuba is from Florida. It is an armed camp, backed by the power of the United States. Further, Formosa controls Quemoy and Matsu, islands within easy artillery range of the mainland. Is it any wonder that the Chinese Reds should demand that the United States get out of Formosa?

The United States has a treaty with Formosa and cannot abandon it, of course. But more Americans should now understand that Communist China cannot accept the present status of Formosa any more than the United States could accept a Soviet base in Cuba. Thus the Formosa problem is more clear, though a solution is no easier.

County Democrats Boot One

Members of the St. Louis County Democratic Central Committee have displayed questionable judgment in their handling of the Revenue Department matter. Their decision to circulate petitions for repeal of the Charter amendments establishing the Department and setting up a merit system for its employes was neither sound nor prudent.

The decision was unsound because it runs directly contrary to the will of the people twice expressed at the polls in a little over eight months; having lost twice, the Democratic leaders are seeking still another chance. Voters turned down the spurious Democratic revenue department plan at the August primary last year, 25,522 to 49,124. That plan was designed to maintain and to concentrate in one office the courthouse patronage jobs involving tax collecting.

Three months later, at the November general election, the people turned around and approved the present Revenue Department organization by a plurality of some 25,000 votes. This set up a merit system for revenue workers and for the Assessor's and Collector's jobs. Drafted by a Citizens Committee and submitted under the initiative process, it was fought tooth and nail by the township politicians but adopted anyway.

The Democratic Central Committee's decision to co-operate with a conservative group's effort to overturn the results of the two elections is not particularly prudent, either. Not only does it put the committee in opposition to the majority of the people; it stamps the committee as reactionary, patronage-hungry and essentially selfish. Consequently it will tend to debase the value of the committee's views on local affairs generally.

But most important, the decision runs generally counter to the overriding public interest in establishing efficiency and nonpolitical administration as hallmarks of the county government. So long as the county layer of government continues to exist as a sloppy patronage trough, it will be looked upon with suspicion by the people of the municipalities. They will tend to continue opposing the necessary and proper centralizing in the county government of authority for the administration of area-wide services.

People do not now want to give the county the kind of area-wide responsibilities it should have because of its demonstrated inefficiency. This grows directly from its dedication to patronage and partisanship. The Democratic Committee's attitude will tend to harden this feeling, and the county is bound to suffer.

For a New Lease

As evidence that the Kennedy Administration intends to ask Congress to extend the life of the Civil Rights Commission, the President has named two new members to the group. They are law school deans Erwin N. Griswold of Harvard University and S. W. Robinson III of Howard University. The appointments are expected to give the six-member commission a majority strongly favoring the advancement of Negro rights.

The Administration is committed to such a course, but so far the President has held up major civil rights proposals while seeking legislative support for other parts of his legislative program. The Civil Rights Commission, however, is not expected to encounter strong opposition. It has performed a valuable service since 1957. Granting it a new lease on life ought to be the first civil rights action of this Congress if not the last.

The 1964 Model Phone Booth

The American Telephone & Telegraph Co. deserves commendation for redesigning the telephone booth, which has come to be popularly regarded as the last word in cramped quarters. Its new booth, which is being readied for the New York World's Fair in 1964, is described as looking something like a glass space rocket in takeoff position, a factor which may alienate some prospective customers who are less bent on telephoning than they are on not being catapulted into space.

Since the company is reported still of an open mind as to what is wanted in a phone booth, we would suggest (a) a place to put the phone book while looking up the number, (b) air and (c) light, in that order. The designers are attending to (b) by installing air conditioning, but may this not be bringing the booth as much too far forward as it has previously been backward? If long-winded customers begin using the booths to cool off as well as to sound off, there is simply no telling how long the next in line may have to wait. We recommend enough air for survival but not of a quality to encourage dalliance.

A place to read the phone book is, to our mind, the supreme necessity. Holding it up against the instrument or the side of the booth with one hand while inserting the coin and dialing the number with the other has never seemed to us the full solution of the problem. There should be a shelf large enough to open the book out on, and close enough to the telephone for ready reference when the operator inquires what number one is calling, please. If the book must be chained—and apparently it must, from the number of bookless booths we have encountered—the chain should be long enough to allow it to be moved to the reading shelf: a point frequently overlooked. The print being as fine as it is, the lighting should be little short of elegant. Let A.T.&T. give us such a booth, and we will hardly be able to wait for 1964.

Why Not the Airlines?

Anything that can be done to reduce the airways congestion near major airports during peak traffic hours would further air safety. It was suggested last February at the Senate Aviation Subcommittee hearings that the Federal Aviation Agency and the Civil Aeronautics Board should arbitrarily spread out schedules to lighten the load at peak traffic hours. Is there any reason why the Air Transport Association, made up of all the scheduled airlines, could not work out readjustments for itself? If the ATA should tidy up its own house in this respect it would be better than having a regulatory agency step in and do it.

Negroes and African Nationalism

Free Africa Encourages American Negro, Should Encourage U.S. in Work for Human Dignity

John H. Hicks of the Post-Dispatch Staff in Social Order, Jesuit Monthly

Fifteen former African colonies won their independence and entered the United Nations last year. The Congo promptly became a cockpit of opposing factions and the scene of an East-West power struggle. In America, the most dramatic and favorable change in race relations recently resulted from the successful sit-in demonstrations by Negro youths.

Although books and periodicals have pointed out the basic goals of the African and American Negroes' drives, they have, by and large, missed the apparent essence of the two struggles by viewing them as separate.

The Mirror of Public Opinion

The emergence of independent African nations has encouraged the American Negro in his drive for first-class citizenship. This feeling of the American Negro—that his fate is inextricably connected with the fate of colored people throughout the world — has been mounting increasingly since the end of World War II. This has happened because he can now point with pride to the achievements of other colored people in breaking their bonds of oppression.

A group of American Negro scholars, artists and writers have joined together to form the American Society of African Culture. It is affiliated with the Society of African Culture, an international movement launched by Negro intellectuals in France. It is significant that a group of 23 American Negro scholars contributed papers to a review under the title "Africa Seen by American Negroes." And Alioune Diop of Senegal said in the preface:

"It is not without emotion that we welcome this evidence of solidarity between Negro intellectuals of America and Africa. . . . Presumably, those people in the United States who are racists would like to foster Western imperialism and help push Negro nations from the area of security and human dignity. African intellectuals (and their compatriots in so far as they can be informed) are passionately united with Negro Americans in their fight against racism and for the equality of all Americans within a nation which Negroes also have helped make great — and which will become truly democratic only with the granting of first-class citizenship to the entire colored population."

At the opposite extreme of the group of American Negroes who see a worldwide movement in struggle for freedom of colored people is an anti-white, racist sect of Black Muslims led by Elijah Muhammad of Chicago. This group completely rejects a racially integrated, racially equalitarian society and instead demands the complete separation of the two races. It is only in this way, so the Black Muslims claim, that the black man will achieve his goal of freedom.

This group preys on the emotions of the disillusioned and uneducated Negro. The Black Muslims — they are disavowed, incidentally by the true Moslems—are unlike the young intellectual Negroes who feel a part of the larger struggle in which the United States' ideals are proclaimed to the world but denied to many colored people in America.

The growing sense of unity among American Negroes and Africans, however, still is confined to a minority of the two groups. A great many Negroes in the United States continue to be victims of a stereotype of Africa as a continent of wild animals and wild people.

The fact of African origin, moreover, has burdened the American Negro. They have been made to feel ashamed of their color; they have been made to feel unwanted in a democracy because they cannot enjoy the privileges which white persons regard as their natural right. Reacting to these feelings takes no small effort.

Stereotyped thinking about Africa and of colored people has been functionally related to the defense of imperialist interests and to rationalizations of slavery and caste. These stereotypes, many of them based on lack of knowledge of African culture and on misinformation about American Negroes, will be modified or abandoned by changes of political and social structures.

The fundamental structural change under way now is that, as colonial powers grant independence to African nations and these nations in turn become members of the United Nations, the West and the United States must accept them as equals. By this acceptance, America tacitly admits that color is no criterion for equality of people. This also would imply that color is not a criterion for first-class citizenship of its own Negro minority.

To align these uncommitted new countries to the cause of democracy and freedom or to win friends in the fight against Communism, the United States must prove by example rather than by dissertation that this nation believes in and is working toward the goals of human dignity as described and defined in the Constitution and Declaration of Independence. The eyes of the colored world, comprising two thirds of the world's population, are upon the United States.

Run or Stand Still

From The Detroit News

Those Michigan Republicans who seemingly prefer defeat to progressive leadership today can remove their heads from the sand and study the New Jersey election returns.

Former Labor Secretary James P. Mitchell, a bearlike man of 60 who talks to voters as Americans and not as laborers, investors, racial groups, business managers and nationality alliances, upset the party machine to race away with the G.O.P. governorship nomination.

Mitchell was the candidate of New Jersey's liberal Republican, United States Senator Case. Case, then a Congressman, wanted to run for the governorship in 1952. G.O.P. finance men told him he would get no money. So Case withdrew. The New Jersey G.O.P. trotted out an acceptable hack, and Meyner has held the governorship since. Case, a former head of the Ford Foundation's Fund for the Republic, first ran for the Senate in 1954.

A lawyer, a public servant and a man with a conscience, he had the courage to defy the late Senator Joe McCarthy, was smeared by a false charge of "guilt by association" in the last hours of the 1954 campaign. He won by a hair's breadth.

In 1960, Case ran for re-election, spent much of his time campaigning for Richard M. Nixon for President. Nixon lost New Jersey by 121,000. Case, with little help and less money from the G.O.P. machine, carried it by 344,000.

There now will be a resurgence of Republicanism in New Jersey. The party in Michigan could have been successful behind Paul D. Bagwell last fall, if state Senate Republicans and their ilk had realized that for a party to stand still is for it to die.

Republican conservatives agreed in a 1949 Lansing meeting that they would start winning again "when we back candidates the people like." They have yet to try their own recipe.

Between Book Ends

THE CROWS OF EDWINA HILL, by Allan R. Bosworth. (Harper, 214 pgs., $3.50.)

With C.P.O. Doc Doolittle's propensity for getting into trouble it was no trick at all for him to fall for a beautifully rebellious American-born Japanese, to borrow a Navy jeep, lose it in mile-deep water, and start an international incident trying to recover it and save the life of a little Jap with the bends. Such bare bones of a story can give little of the real gaiety or, at times, real sincerity, of this second Bosworth novel about Americans in postwar Japan. (His first, also reviewed here, was a charmer, "The Lovely World of Richi-San.")

Capt. Bosworth knows the picture intimately, having served in the Far East and his observant eye and unfailing phrase for the situation at hand make his stories live as he lived them. His expert characterization of Navy types from admiral on down will delight all who know the junior service, and certain of his Japanese, sympathetically yet surely depicted, are extremely touching. His sure hand has been developed by years of writing for the Saturday Evening Post, Liberty, Collier's, Ladies Home Journal, Esquire and many others, which have published over 500 of his stories.

Dictatorship Predicted for France

PARIS.

WHEN GEN. DE GAULLE was projected back to power he saw he must accomplish three things before order could be restored to France and peace to its blood-soaked Algerian appanage. He had to shrink Communist strength. To a degree he succeeded in doing this although, deprived of open constitutional vigor, the party remains firmly organized.

He had to fragment the extreme political right which he has largely achieved. And he had to purge the army of activists and reassert the discipline of civilian authority. Here the General sadly failed. The hard-bitten professional officers corps, at no time particularly Gaullist, disgruntled by 21 years of unsuccessful fighting in Europe, Indo-China and North Africa, divorced from the main bloodstream of normal French life, has again risen. Although Algeria is the battlefield, the struggle is between France and its own army.

De Gaulle

This is the gravest crisis since that which murdered the Fourth Republic. French soldiers are principally civilian conscripts, but they are tightly commanded by some 40,000 professional officers and N.C.O.S. It is hard to imagine these splitting into "loyal" and "disloyal" factions ready to fire on each other.

Deceptive Appearances.

Two things are clear. Algerian peace prospects have been retarded perhaps indefinitely. And France's political structure, no matter who wins this grim contest, must change.

The mutinous generals and colonels know they can expect no quarter. Paris will see some form of dictatorship before this ghastly quarrel ends—as implied by De Gaulle's emergency measure Sunday night.

Appearances in the lovely capital are deceptive. There is utter calm and no emergency police dispositions. Those few suspects arrested were picked up with discretion. Even the multiplication of horrid plastic bomb explosions still seem trivial.

Nevertheless, this conspiracy is more cleverly and efficiently planned than its predecessors. It was originally timed for Monday. However, when the Government sniffed trouble, Col. Godard, a veteran of other plots, triggered this one prematurely.

The secret societies, including remnants of the prewar Cagoulards, wartime Fascists, anti-Gaullist zealots, frustrated officers and Algerian settlers, reorganized some weeks ago in a new Secret Army Organization or O.A.S. This body, working through agents in Geneva, Madrid and Germany, brought together dissatisfied officers.

The Pretorian Guards were the Foreign Legion and paratroopers. Their colonels attracted several generals, including Challe, Zeler, Jouhaud and Salan. Certain other commanders on active duty have since been locked up.

There seems little imminent likelihood of open warfare. De Gaulle appears intent on quarantining and starving out the rebels and they hope to topple the government from afar. But, as in previous conspiracies, the Rebels may have a desperate contingency plan.

American Parallel.

This could aspire to establish an armed stronghold in the Southwest, around the airborne garrison towns of Pau and Toulouse; persuade disaffected French commanders in Germany to back the revolt; and then, if truly rash, land troops in Paris hoping they wouldn't be opposed.

The personality of France is riven. Imagine a quarrel between the American government backed by an overwhelming popular majority, and the entire Marine Corps, aided by Army units, based in Puerto Rico, encouraged by the John Birch Society and sponsored by famous retired five-star generals. In terms of logic, a quality the French worship but rarely practice, such is the situation here.

De Gaulle, unfortunately, misjudged his officers. Once he told me: "The army in France has no political force. It is, of course, always for order and la patrie. It is also always against weak governments. But that does not suffice for the army to wish to be the state. No revolution in French history was ever made by the army."

ASSERTS HIGH TAXES PENALIZE INCENTIVE

Harvard Dean Says Stiff Rate in Upper Bracket Is Detrimental to Business.

The present high income tax rate in the upper brackets is detrimental to business and industry because it stifles incentive, Stanley F. Teele, dean of the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration, said here yesterday.

Teele said the Government has done business a great disservice by reducing incentive for extra effort. "The more a man works, the more he is taxed," Teele declared.

He spoke at a meeting of the Harvard Business School Club of St. Louis.

Russia does not penalize incentive, Teele stated. To compete successfully with the Soviets in the years ahead, Teele said, this country must develop more flexibility and "all of us must work a little harder."

Dan J. Forrestal, director of public relations, Monsanto Chemical Co., was elected president of the club. Other new officers are Juilan I. Corvair 700 Club Coupe

"WHICH CHEVY CORVAIR?"

If you'd been able to watch the 1961 Corvair walk away with first place in the 1,265-mile Canadian Winter Rally, you'd know exactly where to find those things we mentioned. But since Corvairs come in lots of different models, you still have to decide which fits your needs best. The Corvair Monza 4-Door? You'll love the way it handles—and the handsome way it looks. (Bucket-type front seats are optional at extra cost.) Maybe you go for the 700 Club Coupe, though. It captures you with its thrift, not to mention its thoroughly agreeable style. The only way to make up your mind, really, is to see them both at your Chevrolet dealer's.

That's Baseball

Minnesota beat Washington and it wasn't even football, let alone the Rose Bowl game. Los Angeles was first in one league and last in another. A lefthanded hitter had hit more home runs over a left field fence than the next two sluggers had totaled anywhere. A pitcher with an aching back struck out 17 men — and a big league ball game was played in one hour and 45 minutes.

Broeg

The above represent just a sample of the first two weeks in a major league baseball season that merely has to follow the pattern of the first fortnight to be most interesting.

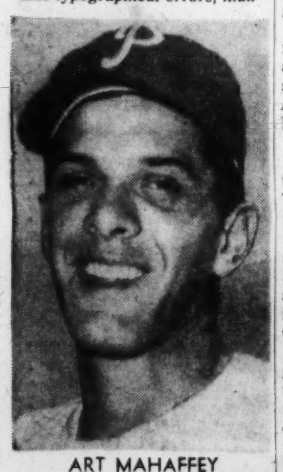

The fastest game was played at Los Angeles, where the Dodgers, even faster afoot, have sped to the front on the sensational homer-hitting of Wally Moon. The Bums' new neighbors, the Angels, are so far back, by comparison, that they might be the first club mathematically eliminated from the pennant race before they've played their home opener.

The Senators, re-christened the Twins and playing like the Gophers, lost their losing complex in the hyphenated communities, Minneapolis-St. Paul. And Detroit, figured to finish fifth or worse in the American League, again started as the hottest team in the majors.

The Tigers, who won their first five games a year ago, are 8-1 now. And if only that questionable young infield will hold up, Bob Scheffing might be glad P. K. Wrigley decided nine managers were better than one.

Phillies' Fooler

The Cubs' first 1961 manager . . . er, head coach . . . Vedie Himsl, whose names still look like typographical errors, managed (or coached) one day too long. The Wrigleys went 18 innings without a run at Connie Mack Stadium Sunday.

And it was against the chicle-and-chew-cellar candidates that Art Mahaffey, the young man with the bad back, came within one of the major league strikeout record, 18.

Larry Jackson, Julian Javier and the rest of the Cardinals' convalescents can take heart from the case of magnificent cripple Mahaffey.

During spring training he was bothered by after-effects of surgery for a double hernia and couldn't get his proper conditioning. Then he suffered a pulled back muscle that was aggravated as he lost a three-hitter last week at San Francisco.

So he fanned 10 men more than he had previously in a big league game, shaking up pitching coach Bob Lemon almost as much as the Cubs' hitters.

"This ruins all my theories about pitching," Lemon said. "Mahaffey did it with a bad back and without any running to keep his legs in shape."

The 22-year-old righthander relied almost entirely on a live fast ball and sharp control, he said, explaining that he used no change-ups and only about 10 curves. He threw so few breaking pitches that the hook became such a surprise he fanned five with it.

Same, But Different

Mahaffey's performance might have been the most impressive since Dizzy Dean fanned 17 Cubs in 1933. Bob Feller's 18 against Detroit came the last day of the 1938 season when the homeward-bound Bengals weren't about to get maimed by the wild young buck with the blazing fast ball. And both the batting background and lights are poor at the Coliseum, where scatterarmed Sandy Koufax struck out 18 Phillies in a night game two years ago.

Any resemblance, however, between the 1933 and 1961 Cubs is in the name.

Eighth Straight For Tigers

PITTSBURGH, April 25 (UPI) —It took just one swish of Bill Mazeroski's bat to make the Pittsburgh Pirates and their fans tingle with World Series excitement again today.

Mazeroski, whose average had dwindled to .179, connnected against Moe Drabowsky last night to lift the Pirates to a 7-6 victory over the Milwaukee Braves and into a three-way tie for second place in the National League. It was Mazeroski's first homer since his historic smash gave the Pirates their ninth-inning 10-9 triumph over the New York Yankees last Oct. 13.

The blow rose in a high trajectory and soared over the fence only about 30 feet to the left of the "big one" Mazeroski hit off Ralph Terry. It sent the Pirates in front, 5-4, and enabled Bob Friend to gain his third straight win of the season with the relief aid of Clem Labine in the ninth.

No. 8 for Tigers.

It was the only National League game of the day or night but the Detroit Tigers ran their winning streak to eight games with a 4-3 decision over the New York Yankees, the Cleveland Indians whipped the Baltimore Orioles, 5-1, and the Minnesota Twins beat the Kansas City Athletics, 10-6, in 10 innings, in American League action.

Friend yielded seven hits, three walks and four earned runs before Labine went in to choke off the Braves' two-run rally in the ninth. Pinch-hitter Johnny Logan, who had doubled home the Braves' sixth run of the game, was left on the basepaths when Labine retired Roy McMillan on an infield out to end the game.

Gino Cimoli led the Pirates' 13-hit attack with three hits and also scored the decisive run in the eighth inning when he slid in under relief pitcher Don McMahon's tag after a single by Dick Groat.

Mazeroski, Friend, Dick Stuart and Roberto Clemente contributed two hits each as the Pirates gained their sixth victory in 11 games.

Frank Lary raised his lifetime mark against the Yankees to an almost incredible 24-8 with a seven-hitter that stretched the American League champions' losing streak to three games.

Homer for Norm Cash.

Norm Cash put the Tigers in front, 3-2, with a homer off Bob Turley in the fourth inning and the Tigers added their final run in the fifth on Al Kaline's double and the second of three hits by Steve Boros. Lary has now scored three straight victories, including a one-hitter against the Chicago White Sox.

Bubba Phillips hit the first grand slam homer of his career to provide Cleveland's Jim Perry with his second straight win of the young campaign. Perry, yielding seven walks and seven hits, was rescued by rookie Frank Funk, who pitched perfect ball over the last 1 1-3 innings. Tito Francona and Vic Power supported the Indians' attack with two hits each.

Earl Battey's three-run double and Reno Bertoia's double that followed produced four tenth-inning runs and gave the Twins their eighth victory in 10 games.

Marv Throneberry's three-run homer in the eighth gave the Athletics a 6-3 lead but the Twins tied the score in the ninth on singles by Battey and Bertoia, an infield out, Zorro Versalles' single and an error by shortstop Dick Howser. Ray Moore received credit for the win and Bud Daley suffered the loss in relief.

Tatum Fined $100 For Striking Referee

HENDERSON, Ky., April 25 (UPI) — Harlem Globetrotter star Roscoe (Goose) Tatum was fined $100 and costs in Henderson police court yesterday for striking a basketball referee here Friday night.

Tatum's attorney, William L. Sullivan, said Tatum would make a public apology for his unsportsmanlike action.

Beating Yanks Is Such Fun

Three Detroit Tigers rejoice in clubhouse after team's eighth straight victory. FRANK LARY, center, gained his third decision in 4-3 triumph over New York Yankees in Detroit. Third baseman STEVE BOROS, left, drove in two runs and first baseman NORMAN CASH, right, smashed a home run. Lary has a career record of 24-8 against the Yanks.

Bears, S.I.U. Will Tangle Tomorrow

Washington U., understandably chesty after splitting series with Missouri and with Bradley, tomorrow will oppose another strong team in Southern Illinois University.

The game postponed from today because of wet grounds, will be played at Liggett Field.

The baseball game scheduled today between St. Louis U., which has lost seven straight games, and Concordia Seminary, which holds one of the victories over the Bills, was postponed because of the weather and will be rescheduled at a later date.

Tomorrow the Bills will play Illinois at Champaign and Friday they will oppose Southeast Missouri State at Cape Girardeau, both single contests. The Bills will meet Harris at Maplewood Park at 2 p.m. Saturday.

Ron Zetcher, who relieved Tom Eckelman, the winning pitcher in the 5-3 triumph at Bradley last Saturday, probably will work for the Bears, now 8-5. Zetcher has a 3-1 record.

S.I.U. has been impressive in whipping St. Louis U., 16-0; Eastern Michigan, 5-0, and Evansville, Ind., 17-1 and 8-3. The Salukis split a doubleheader with Cape Girardeau, losing the first game, 5-4, but taking the second, 13-1.

Several St. Louis area athletes have been starring for the Salukis. Mike Pratte, Bonne Terre, Mo., a standout defensive catcher who has been hitting above .400, had a triple in S.I.U.'s four-run rally in the first inning of the first game against Cape.

That same rally was started by Bob Hardcastle of Beaumont High, who singled. Charles Sutton tripled. Mel Patton of Belleville High, walked. Then came Pratte's wallop.

Harry Gurley of Ritenour High was the second-game winner. Gerald Martin also is from Ritenour, while Larry Tucker hails from Lemay.

Jackson Tells Hemus He's Ready to Pitch; Braves Open Stand

By Neal Russo

Larry Jackson dug into his dinner as if it were his last meal. He had ground sirloin steak, rice pilaf, cottage cheese, crushed fruit salad and a thick, creamy soup. For four weeks he had been on a liquid diet. Yesterday he could celebrate his liberation.

After the big meal, the Cardinal pitcher said, "I'm ready to pitch now. I'm eager to get started."

Manager Solly Hemus will grant Jackson's wish probably with a start against the Milwaukee Braves at Busch Stadium tomorrow night.

Even though Jackson just had the wires removed from his jaw yesterday, he was ready to go to work. Larry has been throwing in batting practice and tossing on the sidelines regularly since his jaw was fractured March 27.

However, Hemus will open with Curt Simmons when the Braves come in for the opener of an 11-game Cardinal home stand tonight at 8 o'clock. Lew Burdette is scheduled to start for Milwaukee, which has a 3-4 season record. St. Louis is 6-5.

Warren Spahn, who seldom misses a series with St. Louis, pitched Sunday, so he isn't likely to be used against his cousins on this short visit. Following Thursday's open date, the Phillies move in for a weekend series.

After Dr. I. C. Middleman, the Redbirds' surgeon, removed the wires, he turned Jackson loose for full-time baseball duty.

Soft Diet for 10 Days.

"I'll be on a soft diet—no steak—for about 10 days," said Jackson, who has been limited to things like milk shakes and thin soups since March 27. On that day in Florida, Jackson was struck on the jaw by fragments of a bat that flew from the hands of the Dodgers' Duke Snider.

Jackson's net loss in weight since the injury has been only a few pounds. He weighs about 185.

While Jackson was on the liquid diet, teammates seldom tantalized him with their steaks, Larry said.

"Kenny Boyer would ask me once in a while, 'Would you like a bite of this steak?' but most of the fellows felt sorry for me," Jackson said.

Jackson, who had an 18-13 record as the No. 1 workhorse of the National League last season with 282 innings, said this was his first baseball injury. He never had missed a pitching turn because of injury or illness.

If Jackson doesn't start tomorrow, Ray Sadecki will open for the Cardinals, Hemus said. Jackson threw for 25 minutes in San Francisco Sunday and did some running at Busch Stadium on yesterday's open date.

Hemus took advantage of the warm weather by holding special batting practice at Busch Stadium. On hand were Stan Musial, Hal Smith, Boyer, Bill White, Curt Flood, Bob Nieman and Don Taussig.

Flood will continue in center field but Julian Javeir, who suffered a knee injury Sunday, is a doubtful starter tonight, Hemus said. Red Schoendienst is ready to take over at second base again.

Another infielder, Daryl Spencer, has impressed coach Johnny Keane with his defensive work as well as his big bat. Big Dee hasn't made an error in the club's 11 games this season.

"Spencer is much steadier this year," Keane said. "It seemed that his main trouble last season was on routine grounders. He has worked harder and his hands seem surer. He's getting the ball away much better."

Keane said that in practice the coaches changed speeds on ground balls hit to Spencer in an effort to improve his fielding.

"Spencer has worked hard on the plays to his left, too," Keane continued. "He's worked so hard we've had to restrain him in practice. He's finally coming around to being a pretty good shortstop. He played a lot of second base, so it took him about a year to get used to shortstop."

Hemus said that Spencer became irritated at being taken out for defensive reasons in the late innings last season.

Golf

By Robert Morrison

Free Ride

Golf is not an easy game in which to get started—especially for the young who may not have enough money either to start or stay with it.

That's why the free golf lessons offered by the city under the supervision of Forest Park pro Bob Riley should be popular.

Morrison

For some reason, the response has not been as great as might have been expected.

"It seems the teen-age deal is turning into an operation for older people," said Riley. He reported that at the opening session last week about 90 in a group of 135 were persons beyond school age.

Each Tuesday for the next five weeks at 7:30 p.m., Riley will conduct general golf instruction classes for all ages at the Field House in Forest Park.

"It won't be too late any time for the teenagers to begin these classes," he said. The first six weekly instruction periods are mainly classroom sessions that include basic education in equipment, etiquette, rules, grip, stance and swing.

"A lot of people, I think, are afraid of this game, so we try to cover even such things as how to put on a golf glove," said the park professional.

"As for the youngsters, we'll supply the clubs and balls, and the instruction is absolutely free. After six weeks, they can play the nine-hole course in the park free of charge on Mondays. I think maybe a lot of kids have been missing this because they just don't know about it."

Big Season Ahead

"It looks as if this will be one of the biggest seasons ever for golf play," said Jack Burns, president of the Eastern Missouri P.G.A. and proprietor of the Creve Coeur fee course. . . . "I'm judging that from the way golfers turned out at Creve Coeur the past weekend despite the rains that put the course in poor condition. . . We had over 500 on Saturday and Sunday. . . . But this is still a Saturday, Sunday and holiday town for golf. . . . Weekday play is mainly in organized twilight leagues."

The nature of golfers has changed, said Burns, who can remember the 1920s and 1930s. . . . "There are great numbers of poorer golfers now," he said. "The ones in the past took lessons and knew a lot about the game. Now they take one lesson and that's it. They watch the pro players on television and begin to think that they have to measure every putt. . . . Their latest game is 'rabbit' — in a foursome the player that wins the most holes on the first nine wins a 'rabbit' and the same goes for the second nine, and if the same player takes two 'rabbits', he automatically wins a third. . . . It's a bonus wager that can be added to the game of skins, which is based on the number of holes won in excess of the number won by any other player."

Control Master

The swing of Jay Hebert, reigning P.G.A. champion who won the Houston tournament playoff from Ken Venturi Monday, is analyzed by veteran St. Louis Sunset professional Jim Fogertey in the current issue of Golfing.

"I can't agree with the sportswriters who call him the Bayou belter," writes Fogertey. "Jay puts plenty of persimmon to that ball, all right, but in my book he's a precision hitter."

In the magazine article Fogertey uses a sequence of photographs to point out the elements of control which Hebert (pronounced A-Bear) shows throughout the swing — "a strong left hand and left arm position, keeping the right hand out of the shot until the last moment in the downswing."

Briefly reviewing Hebert's progress on the tournament circuit since 1953, Fogertey notes that this player's earnings have constantly increased. Because of this "controlled progress" and Hebert's Louisiana antecedents, Fogertey says a better name for the Bayou belter would be "Cajun Control-Master."

Hebert Beats Venturi on 19th Hole for $7000 Prize

Hebert Captures Houston Playoff

HOUSTON, Tex., April 25 (UPI)—Jay Hebert, the pride of Lafayette, La., said he felt at home yesterday as the warm gulf wind shook the tops of the pines along the Memorial Park course and he parlayed the "homey" feeling into $7000 top money in the Houston Golf Classic.

Hebert, who lived in Houston for a year after starring at Louisiana State University, beat Californian Ken Venturi in a sudden-death playoff after the pair went around their scheduled 18 holes with identical 69s.

Venturi, who was once three strokes down during the match, applied the pressure and caught Hebert on the eighteenth with a birdie 3 while the Louisianan was three-putting for a bogey.

They moved on to the nineteenth hole where Hebert dropped a 10-foot putt to win top money. Venturi missed his putt for a birdie from about 12 feet.

The win put Hebert's official earnings at $14,457.50. It was his sixth major P.G.A. victory. Venturi's winnings rose $3600 for his second-place finish to a total of $13,767.50 .

Hebert, a 38-year-old bachelor, could smile after the harrowing last two holes. He admitted he let up on the eighteenth because he felt Venturi could not tie him.

"But Ken had other ideas. It was a 20-1 shot, but he made that putt and I had to go back to work," Hebert said.

Venturi had sunk a 15-footer on the eighteenth and Hebert had only to drop in a three-foot putt to win. But the tension "blanked" him out, he said, and he left the shot inches short and tied up the match.

NCAA Moves to Regulate College All-Star Games

WASHINGTON, April 25 (UPI)—Each year there are more and more College All-Star basketball and football games, and they've been taking too many athletes away from college classes.

This is the reason that the National Collegiate Athletic Association council moved yesterday to regulate College All-Star games for the first time since it started enforcing rules nine years ago.

N.C.A.A. executive director Walter Byers told UPI that the N.C.A.A. council feels that College All-Star games are "mushrooming" to the point that it is time to bring them under the N.C.A.A.'s wing.

Limit Games to Seniors.

The proposed regulations mostly would affect competing athletes. They would limit all-star games to college seniors who are academically eligible for sports under the rules of their schools. This would keep students who are behind in their studies from going to all-star games when they could be catching up on their school work.

In line with preserving classroom time, the regulations would confine all all-star game dates, practice periods and traveling time to vacation periods, when no classes are being held.

The regulations also would restrict each college athlete to participating in one all-star game a season—an obvious move to keep students on the campuses.

The regulations also would curtail expense and entertainment allowances. They would be limited to $5 a day, up to 10 days.

The 10-day minimum would apply mostly to football competition, where more time for practice is needed.

Proceeds to Charity.

Promoters of all-star games would have to get their contests certified by the N.C.A.A. Special Events committee, and net proceeds of the games would have to go to charity.

All-star promoters would also have to obtain permission from a school's athletic director before even approaching an athlete to invite him to compete.

The proposed regulations, after final drafting, will be submitted to a vote by the 565-member N.C.A.A. at its convention next January.

Kirkwood's Willis Hurls A No-Hitter

Ron Willis of Kirkwood pitched a no-hit game in beating Ladue, 4-0, in a non league high school baseball game yesterday. In other pitching highlights, Bob Tepe yielded only one safety as St. Mary's defeated Lutheran South, 9-1, and Chuck Gullichsrud shut out Madison, 11-0, in a Southwestern Conference contest on a one-hitter.

One batter reached first base against Willis on an error and he struck out 11. Gullicksrud whiffed 11 and Madison's only base runner was cut down trying to steal.

In state high eliminations, St. Charles beat Elsberry, 3-0, on Orville Hollrah's two-hitter; Festus beat Ste. Genevieve, 10-1; Crystal City defeated Desloge, 14-10, and Hillsboro won from St. Pius of Festus, 5-4. Bill Bradley, Crystal's basketball star, had three hits and drove in four runs in his team's victory.

East St. Louis made only one hit, but scored four unearned runs in the sixth inning to beat Wood River, 4-1, in a Southwestern Conference contest. Irvin Wood, East St. Louis's leadoff batter, opened with a single, but that was the only hit off loser Bill Heck. Gary Stokes of the winners, yielded three safeties.

Assumption's Catcher Shows 'Stuff' on Mound With Two No-Hit Games

By Bob Posen

Charley Stufflebean started the season as catcher for Assumption High School of East St. Louis, but from now on he gets a turn as one of the baseball team's pitchers.

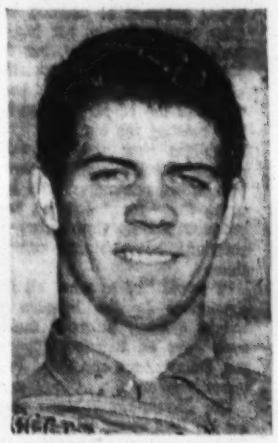

The reasons:

He's pitched two no-hitters in the space of 13 days.

In 17⅓ innings of hurling this spring, he has allowed just one hit, struck out 20 batters and walked nine.

"He's my regular catcher," coach George Martz said; "I was just using him as my spot pitcher." Now Martz is counting on Stufflebean for the starting role in Assumption's inter-city game with Lincoln on Thursday.

Stufflebean, a 16-year-old junior, stands 5 feet, 9½ inches and weighs 180 pounds. Martz says he has a good, moving fast fall and a good curve and is just wild enough to keep batters from digging in.

CHARLES STUFFLEBEAN

Tried Curve Only Recently.

"I never did work with the curve much until the last game (his second no-hitter)," Charley said. "They told me I was pretty fast and to rely on my fast ball."

Although he had pitched about 15 games in a Jaycee league for 14 and 15-year-olds last summer, Stufflebean did not figure in Assumption's mound plans for this season.

"I was pretty wild," he explained, "and the team has four other pitchers." One of them is Paul Bauer, nephew of Hank Bauer of the Kansas City Athletics.

Besides, Stufflebean hits well enough to be in the regular lineup. For the Pioneers' first 11 games, he had a .333 batting average. His 13 hits included two homers, a triple and three doubles. He scored 12 runs and batted in 12 while the team compiled a 7-4 record.

Three of those victories were credited to Charley when he pitched. After one inning of relieving against Collinsville, he hurled a six-inning no-hitter against St. Paul of Highland.

Wildness Returns.

His wildness returned when the Pioneers faced East St. Louis High. Although he fanned three and gave up only one hit in 3⅓ innings, he hit one batter and walked three, the third walk forcing in a run and sending Charley to the showers before he was credited with the victory.

He came back with his seven-inning no-hitter last Wednesday against Mascoutah, fanning seven, walking two and hitting two batters, with just three balls being hit farther than the infield.

Although just a junior, Stufflebean has some definite ideas about his future. He would like to try professional baseball (the Pirates are his favorite team), but college should come first.

He has no particular school in mind—"where ever they will take me, where ever they have a place where I can get a good education.

"I've been looking forward to (professional) baseball since I started playing about five years ago," he said. The last three years he has been on organized teams, as a catcher most of that time.

Sits Out One Year.

Charley had to sit out a year of athletics at Assumption because transferring from Rock Junior High made him ineligible. When he turned eligible this year, he became a fullback on the football team and played on the basketball team.

He didn't join the basketball team until the middle of the season, planning at first to work after school. "Then I decided to get in shape for baseball, so I quit my job."

His success as a pitcher surprise him, he said. "Even the coach was surprised. 'You were noted for your wildness,' he told me, 'but I don't see why now.'"

Does Charley have an explanation for his pitching success?

He shook his head negatively. "I couldn't say."

But as an afterthought, "It might have been because my arm developed. I'm a lot faster this year than I was before."

That speed, or his last name, or perhaps both, may account for the nickname his teammates have given Charley.

"They just call me 'Stuff,'" he said.

Johnson, Kayo Winner Over Clay, Will Stick to His Class

Says He'll Wait on Heavies

PHILADELPHIA, April 25 (UPI)—Harold Johnson's two-round conquest of vaunted Von Clay made him a hot heavyweight prospect today, but the National Boxing Association champion wants undisputed leadership of the 175-pound class before meeting the big boys.

Jubilant over the successful defense of his title with a three-knockdown automatic kayo last night, the veteran Johnson said he would bide his time before re-entering heavyweight competition.

"I would like to meet all the contenders in the light-heavyweight division before I tackle such guys as Ingemar Johansson, Sonny Liston and Floyd Patterson," he said.

The 32-year-old Johnson may get his first opportunity to start cleaning up his 175-pound competitors on June 10. That's the day Archie Moore, holder of the New York-Massachusetts version of the light-heavyweight title, defends it against Italy's Giulio Rinaldi in New York.

Suggests Standby.

However, Teddy Brenner, matchmaker for Madison Square Garden, fears Ole Archie may not make the weight. He sounded out Pat Olivieri, Johnson's pilot, about having the N.B.A. king waiting in the wings, just in case.

Olivieri said that if a substitute for Moore is needed, Johnson would be available for 40 per cent of the purse and $5000 for expenses.

"We wouldn't give anything to Moore," Olivieri said. "Archie's been giving Harold the run-around for years."

Hungry Harold, who has been boxing for 16 years, picked up more than $12,000 for less than six minutes work against Clay last night.

The sweetest compensation, however, was the manner in which his usually hostile Philadelphia fans went wild with joy over his precision blasting of Clay, another hometowner.

Johnson From the Bell.

It was Johnson, though, who supplied the fireworks at the start, almost dropping Clay to his haunces with a left hook to the jaw. A long overhand right bounced Clay across the ring for a count of two as the bell sounded.

In the second, coolly biding his time, Johnson crossed two quick rights which pitched the challenger face forward to the canvas. Clay got up groggy at nine and was maneuvered into his own corner, where the champion battered him to the floor again.

Clay took a mandatory eight count. Johnson then set him down for the third time in the round.

Referee Dave Beloff waved the match to a halt. Under Pennsylvania rules a fighter is awarded an automatic TKO when he scores three knockdowns in any given round, even in a championship bout.

SOCCER SHOTS
by Dent McSkimming

College Soccer Here

The selection of St. Louis University as host school for the college soccer finals next fall is further national recognition of the remarkable progress of the Billikens in this sport. Announcement of the choice of St. Louis for the Nov. 23-25 semifinals and final was made Monday by the N.C.A.A. executive committee meeting at Washington.

Bob Stewart, St. Louis U. athletic director, and Bob Guelker, soccer coach, feel sure they will make this the best such final the soccer-playing colleges have had.

"We are thinking in terms of weather, accommodations for visiting players, class of soccer and spectator response," said Guelker, in discussing the meet.

Two years ago when the Billikens won their first of two soccer championships, the weather at Storrs, Conn., was atrocious. The standard of play suffered and the attendance was a huge disappointment. Attendance at the finals at Brooklyn College last fall was not much better.

"We can't guarantee good weather," said Guelker," "but I'm sure that St. Louis soccer followers will turn out in greater numbers even if conditions are as bad as they were at the Connecticut U. campus."

An important factor pointing to success is found in the scheduled dates. Semifinals will be played on Thanksgiving day and the final on the following Saturday.

"We plugged hard for this arrangement with an open date between semifinals and final," said the Billiken coach. "Most coaches agreed that it was unfair to book the teams on successive days, as was done at Storrs in 1959 and at Brooklyn College last fall. So, the tourney here should be an improvement in that respect, at least."

Bears in the Picture

Does Guelker think the question of large attendance here depends on success of the Billikens in reaching the semifinals?

"It will help, of course," he said. "However, Mr. Stewart and I are agreed that St. Louis is a great enough soccer town to assure good crowds even if the Billikens should not go all the way. We are not worried about attendance on that score."

Interesting thought: Suppose the Billikens are eliminated in an early round and a St. Louis U. rival, Washington U., reaches the semifinals. Would this dampen the Billikens' enthusiasm for the promotional aspects of the tourney?

"Certainly not," said Guelker. "We'd dig in to help make it a success for St. Louis soccer and for the national organization, just the same. Besides, the tournament operation is in the hands of a committee, the chairman of which probably will come here from some college not involved in the playoffs."

And the possibility of the Bears going a long way is not so remote. Coach Joe Carenza had a good team last season when the Bears made their bow in the national tournament, and he is adding new strength. Last Sunday the Bears performed well in a practice match against the Meramec Sport Club.

Picking All-Stars

The fact that two parish teams, St. Ambrose and St. Engelbert, have won 16 of the 20 places on the C.Y.C. All-Star team that will play against Scotland's Third Lanark, May 20, has aroused some criticism. One coach whose parish failed to place a single player says he feels that the committee has played favorites. But the selection committee insists that it has only one thing in mind when it picks the squad: the strongest possible combination.

"We don't pay any attention to what team a player is with," said Chairman Guelker. "We would be very happy to be able to select an equal number from each parish to make up the squad. But there are years when one or two teams have gathered a great majority of the better players, and we certainly would not deliberately weaken the All-Star team just to please a parish that had no player of star caliber."

Harris's Rally Nips Concordia

A two-run rally in the fourth inning gave Harris Teachers College a 4-2 victory over Concordia Seminary in a baseball game at the Harris field yesterday.

Singles by Terry Cook and Steve Auberry, coupled with an error and sacrifice gave Harris the deciding tallies.

Concordia tied the score in the fourth on a hit batter, Tom Faszholz's triple and an error.

A game between Harris Teachers and Central College, Fayette, Mo., scheduled for today, was postponed until May 4 because of rain and wet grounds.

Grid Cards Hope to Aid N.F.L. Ticket Rise

SAN FRANCISCO, April 25 (AP)—National Football League executives expect season ticket sales to swell past 400,000 for the 14-club loop despite the competition from the new American Football League.

As general managers opened their two-day prelude to the annual league meeting, optimism held sway with the estimate the season ticket sales would be up 70,000 from last year.

That didn't include the Dallas club where ticket sales are just getting under way. But it did include the new Minnesota team where 24,600 season books have been sold.

Commissioner Pete Rozelle termed the boost an indication of the increased interest in the league. In reference to the A.F.L., which had its first campaign in 1960, he said, "If the A.F.L. is successful at the gate, it won't be at the expense of the N.F.L., but will be on the A.F.L.'s own merit."

Philadelphia showed the greatest percentage boost in season ticket sales following last year's championship. Where only 12,500 were sold in advance in 1960, already 14,700 have been sold and the expectation is 25,000.

Among the other clubs, Green Bay—the western division champ—expects to increase from 31,000 in 1960 to 36,000 this year; Detroit from 35,000 to over 40,000; New York from 36,000 to 38,000; Washington from 18,000 to 25,000 with the same increase at Cleveland and St. Louis from 14,000 to 20,000.

St. Louis is in its second year of operation there after moving the Cardinal franchise from Chicago. Dallas, a newcomer last year, had an advance season sale of only 3000 in 1960.

Chicago, Los Angeles and San Francisco expect to equal their 1960 advance sales when the former two had 33,000 and the latter 37,000.

TKO Victory For London Over Hunter

MANCHESTER, England, April 25 (UPI)—Brian London, who once challenged unsuccessfully for the world boxing championship, opened his campaign to regain the British and Empire heavyweight titles last night with a technical knockout victory over Billy Hunter of Detroit.

The bout was stopped at the end of the eighth round. It had been scheduled for 10 rounds at Belle Vue Stadium.

London, who lost to world champion Floyd Patterson in a title bout on May 1, 1959, weighed 223½ pounds, and Hunter 212¾.

Hunter suffered a deep gash alongside his right eye in the fourth round and was floored for a seven-count in the eighth round when the bell saved him. Hunter then retired from the contest after referee Ike Powell had inspected his injured and completely-closed eye.

Makes all cars run unbelievably better.

the story is so amazing
the results so immediate!

DEVELOPED BY GERMAN SCIENCE, STP is an amazing oil treatment now made in the U. S. for American motorists. When added to the oil, this 100% pure petroleum concentrate blends with the oil and forms thousands of tiny oil molecules that act like little ball bearings. And, they do amazing things. In new cars, when engine parts are snug, they form an oil cushion around close-fitting parts; cling there and reduce friction and wear to almost nothing. In older engines, oil blended with STP expands in and around worn areas to seal in the compression that was escaping. The result—both new and older engines regain that exciting touch-of-the-toe acceleration and that quiet, smooth performance they were built to give.

Perhaps the most amazing part of the whole story is that it will take only a pint—just one pint of STP to actually improve the performance of your car.

• Quiets hydraulic valve lifters.
• Stops leaks and jerky operation in transmissions and differentials.
• Creates a film that increases oil pressure instantly.

At Service Stations and Garages—Add STP to your next oil change. Only $1.35 per pint

Truck-Driver Stevens Again Aims for Big Rides at Cahokia

By Herman Wecke

Wayne Stevens, 35-year-old, 110-pound jockey, is back for another season of campaigning on the St. Louis-area race tracks, starting at Cahokia Downs Friday night.

WAYNE STEVENS

Stevens, who has been among the leaders at both Cahokia and Fairmount during the past two seasons, does all his riding in southern Illinois.

After the close of Fairmount, the rider, who was born at Puyallup, Wash., but now lives in Collinsville, Ill., drives an oil truck. This work helps keep him in good physical condition, and, as a result, he is ready when the 120-day-and-night campaign on the East Side opens.

The veteran is rated as a fine rider by owners and trainers in the district. Last spring at Cahokia he rode 39 winners to finish second to Ray Landing. Then he was fourth at Fairmount with 36 firsts. His grand total of 75 wins placed him eighth among the jockeys who performed on Illinois tracks. In 1959, he won 39 races at Cahokia and had 42 winners at Fairmount. That's a total of 147 firsts in two seasons of campaigning at the two courses.

The winter oil truck driver had his greatest 1960 success at Cahokia June 17 and 18, when he was in the winner's circle six times. On June 17, he won with Means-End, $27.20; Gales Pride, $22.40 and Jovial Miss, $12.80. He came back the next night to finish first with Fervently, $7.80; Brady Lane, $4.20 and Chief Please, $3.80. Another three-winner night came June 10 with Fervently, Kerrville and Jacwin.

Stevens's longest-priced winner came on June 23, when he scored with Princess Affton at $106.40 for $2. He won three times with Chief Please and on each occasion, the horse was an odds-on favorite. The payoffs were $3.80, $2.80 and $2.40.

Moving to Fairmount, Stevens rode three winners on Aug. 3 and Sept. 17 brought in both winners of a double that paid $80.80 for $2—Zeke B and Jimmy D.

With the announcement that Landing would not return to defend his title, Stevens is expected to be in the fight for top honors.

Meanwhile things are shaping up for the opening Friday night when a nine-race program is scheduled to begin at 8:30. It is the eighth meeting at the track.

Bayers Pin Leader

Aided by a handicap of 171 pins, Robert Bayers totaled 690 to take the lead in the Carling singles bowling tourney at the Arena Bowl. Miss Johanna Sturm, who had a 468-pin handicap, is second with 684. Michael Fisher, 682, is third.

United Vans Test A.B.C. Pace-Setters

By John J. Archibald

The team that took over the regular division lead in the American Bowling Congress tournament in Detroit Saturday night, the Cliff Antons, will run into the B.P.A. Champions League's hottest club in a match at St. Charles (Mo.) Lanes tonight. Opposing the Antons in one of the 7:30 matches will be the United Vans, winners of 20 of their last 24 games.

The Antons-United duel will be a battle for third place. Three games separate the Antons (46-32) from the Uniteds (43-35) and there will be one more week of league competition after tonight. That will be a position round.

While the other first division positions are open to contest, the pace-setting Budweisers could clinch the Champions League honors. The Buds (50-28) lead the runner-up Falstaffs (47-31) by three games. Opposing captain Pat Patterson and his Buds tonight will be the seventh place Smith Service team.

The Falstaffs will bowl the Roncaros, in fifth place, while the Willens and the Rabens will be paired in the remaining match.

Dick Weber, who had the league's highest average last season, and Ray Bluth, who was high the previous year, will continue their battle for the new Hugo Mueller Trophy to be awarded to this campaign's top average man.

Bluth has a 212 average and Weber has 210. Both men have shot 66 games.

The Uniteds' Bill Tucker actually has the best average, 214, but he has appeared in only 33 games and is not eligible for the honor.

The Falstaffs' Billy Welu has a 208 average, but he could hardly catch Bluth in the remaining six games.

Chief of Chiefs Wins N.Y. Stake

NEW YORK, April 25 (UPI)—Chief of Chiefs, a speedy son of Roman, scored a surprise victory over April Skies in the sixty-eighth running of the Toboggan handicap at Aqueduct yesterday.

Worthy 2nd opened the day's program of upsets with a $77.30 payoff in the first race. Captain Cook completed the $636.60 daily double with an $11.50 return in the second event.

Chief of Chiefs was in command throughout most of the six-furlong Toboggan. His lead, however, was tenacious. Mrs. Ada L. Rice's Chief of Chiefs was a half-length in front of April Skies at the end of a quarter-mile, lost the lead briefly at the half-mile pole to the runner-up but came back strong to take command for good at the top of the stretch.

Sweet William, third all the way, finished that way.

Judge David J. Murphy will sit in probate court while Judge Thomas A. Boland is on vacation, it was announced.

SAFE CONTAINING $3800 STOLEN FROM TAVERN

A 300-pound safe containing $3800 was stolen early today by burglars who broke into a tavern at 4652 Shaw boulevard, Louis Cirio, co-owner of the establishment, reported to police.

The burglary was discovered at 4:45 a.m. by Patrolman Wilford Wooldridge. He said the front door had been forced open. Cirio was called to the tavern and he said the safe was missing from under the bar.

A man working in the neighborhood later told police he had seen four men place a heavy object in an automobile outside the tavern at 3:30 a.m. The car had been backed to the tavern door, the witness said.

Arrested After Chase.

A man who robbed the Pyro-Sana Laboratory, 710 South Fourth street, of office equipment and other articles valued at $81 was captured by police after a brief chase today. The man was seen leaving the place by an employe as she arrived for work at 8 a.m.

Miss Hilda L. Armbruster, office manager, saw the man with a bag over his shoulder and summoned Joseph S. Kerry, who lives above the laboratory. Kerry struggled with the man and seized the bag, but the man broke away and fled west on Cerre street.

Police were summoned by Miss Armbruster and she accompanied an officer and pointed out the fugitive in the 500 block of Cerre street. He identified himself as Isaac Mayberry, a transient and former convict. Police quoted him as saying he had broken into the laboratory at 5:30 a.m. He led them to a cardboard box hidden nearby containing other loot from the establishment.

Oil Station Robbery.

A robbery of an attendant at a Clark service station at 6600 Easton avenue, Wellston, and an attempted robbery of another at Big Bend boulevard and Laclede Station road, Webster Groves, by three men in an automobile were reported last night to St. Louis county police.

Irwin Aumann, night manager of the station in Wellston, said the men drove up when he was standing in the doorway. As he approached the car, one of the men pointed a revolver at him and told Aumann to give them his coin changer and money from his pocket, the attendant said. After taking an undetermined amount, they drove off, Aumann said.

Basil Dill, night manager at the Clark station in Webster Groves, said he had closed the establishment when the car came to the station. He was called by one of the men who produced a revolver and announced a holdup.

Dill told the man the money was in a safe and the office was locked. He walked about 20 feet on orders from the men and ran to another service station across the street when they told him to come back. The robbers drove away.

Robert L. Baum, a clerk at a Gasen drug store, was robbed of $100 by a man armed with an automatic pistol last night in the store, 113 Lemay Ferry road, Lemay, he reported to police.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon R. Frazier, Conway road, Creve Coeur, were robbed of articles valued at about $2000 by burglars who broke into their home when they were away yesterday, they reported to police.

Frazier, a nursing home operator, told police the loot included a mouton fur coat valued at $495, motion picture camera worth $400, silverware valued at $500, and an assortment of women's and girl's clothing, shoes and linen.

The one-story, seven-room brick house had been ransacked, police said. Entry was gained by forcing the front door.

GROCERY CLERK ADMITS HOLDUP STORY WAS HOAX

R. W. Bradford, a grocery clerk, was arrested yesterday after admitting that his story of an alleged robbery last Saturday night was a hoax, police said.

Bradford, 18 years old, told police Saturday night he was slugged and robbed of $30 by three men who displayed knives in the 5900 block of Horton place. The money belonged to his employer, Thrift Market, 1003 Hamilton avenue, he said. Warrants charging him with larceny and making a false report will be sought, police said.

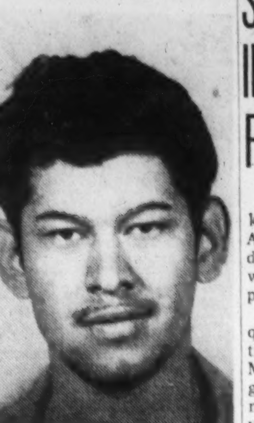

Prof. Thomas Bodkin Dies.

BIRMINGHAM, England, April 25 (AP)—Prof. Thomas Bodkin, British expert on art and archeology, died last night. He was 73 years old.

DECLARES REDS PLAN TO TAKE OVER LAOS

Russia's agreement on a neutral Laotian government is only a step in the Communists' plan eventually to take over Laos, Dr. Frederick C. Schwarz, executive director of the Christian Anti-Communism Crusade, said today.

Dr. Schwarz, speaking at a session of the Greater St. Louis School of Anti-Communism at the Ambassador-Kingsway Hotel, said: "It is insanity to think that the Communists will not take over a coalition government in Laos. To expect them to do anything but deceive is to inhabit the fringes of lunacy."

The speaker recalled that Ambassador-at-Large W. Averell Harriman recently said coalition would work "if the Russians and Chinese will play the game." The Communist game is to dominate the world, Dr. Schwarz said.

Cleon Skousen, former administrative assistant to J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, advocated elimination of veto power in the United Nations in a talk at last night's session of the school.

"Free men are continually frustrated by the legal technicalities which permit the Russian forces to paralyze the machinery of international co-operation intended to protect freedom and suppress war," he said.

The speaker noted that Russia had used the veto to prevent U.N. censure for the attack on Hungary and again when the United States sought a U.N. investigation of the shooting down of an American RB-47 reconnaisance plane.

Skousen said "the transfer of legislative authority from the Security Council to the General Assembly and the elimination of the monolithic vote are two essential changes" that should be made in the U.N. charter.

Dr. Schwarz, speaking at the first night session of the five-day school, said Communism has an intellectual appeal for many university students.

Students are attracted to Communism after concluding that many social evils and inequities cannot be rectified under the capitalist system, Dr. Schwarz, an Australian physician, said.

X-15 SPEED RECORD REVISED DOWNWARD TO 3074 M.P.H.

LOS ANGELES, April 25 (AP)—A downward revision of 66 miles an hour has reduced the X-15 rocket plane's record speed to 3074 miles per hour.

The rocket plane's peak speed in last Friday's research run was given initially as 3140 m.p.h., but detailed analysis of radar tracking data caused a revision, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said yesterday.

Even so, the X-15 topped its former world mark for controlled craft by 169 m.p.h. The plane is designed for an ultimate speed of 4000 m.p.h. and an altitude of more than 50 miles.

SHOT TO DEATH IN ROW INVOLVING FORMER WIFE

Leo Kourtesis was shot and killed last night by Manuel M. Avila, a former convict, in a dispute involving the former wife of Kourtesis, police reported.

The shooting occurred in living quarters in the rear of a confectionery operated by Avila and Mrs. Clara Jaggie at 6021 Michigan avenue. Mrs. Jaggie was married to Kourtesis until two years ago.

Avila, 26 years old, admitted shooting Kourtesis, 44, with an automatic rifle, asserting he fired in self-defense as Kourtesis pointed a pistol at him, police said. He remained at the scene and surrendered to officers.

Avila's brother, Julian M. (Tex) Avila, was shot to death with a shotgun blast last Thursday night in a shoeshine parlor and tailor shop operated by the brothers at 1407 St. Louis avenue. The killing remains unsolved.

Police reported that Manuel Avila and Mrs. Jaggie closed their confectionery yesterday to attend Julian Avila's funeral. When they returned home at 4:45 p.m., they found Kourtesis there.

Mrs. Jaggie said it was the first time she had seen her former husband in more than a year. He had lent her $250 to open the confectionery, she said.

Kourtesis had removed some money from a cigar box which Mrs. Jaggie had hidden in a dresser drawer, she said. The money represented receipts from money orders. She said he demanded repayment of the loan.

Avila told police Kourtesis was drinking wine from a jug and began threatening them. Kourtesis objected to the relationship between his former wife and Avila, and said he planned to obtain custody of his son and remove fixtures from the confectionery, Avila said.

Mrs. Jaggie said she left and made some telephone calls in an effort to obtain money. She was unsuccessful and returned to the confectionery, she said.

Avila said he noticed a handbag on some soda cases in the kitchen. As Kourtesis walked up and down in a threatening manner, he kept edging toward the bag, Avila said.

Kourtesis made a sudden lunge and grabbed a pistol from the bag, Avila related. Avila said he obtained the rifle and the two men faced each other.

"When Leo whirled toward me he was holding the pistol down by his right trousers leg," Avila said. "I shouted, 'Don't.' He started raising it until it was pointing at my belly."

Avila said he pressed the trigger of the rifle. There were four shots and Kourtesis staggered and fell with two wounds in the chest, one in his right side and one in his left side.

Avila ran across the street and asked an attendant at a filling station to call police. He was standing in the doorway of the confectionery when police arrived. As they approached with drawn service revolvers, he dropped the rifle to the floor.

Police found a pistol beside the body of Kourtesis.

Mrs. Jaggie said Kourtesis's last known address was Wittenberg, Mo. He has lived from time to time recently with a sister in the 700 block of North Fortieth street, East St. Louis, she said.

Avila had been in jail on a burglary charge from Feb. 21 until last Tuesday, when he was freed on bond. The charge resulted from his arrest last January when driving an automobile which contained an 800-pound safe. The safe had been stolen from the Plaza Amusement Co., 1912 Washington avenue.

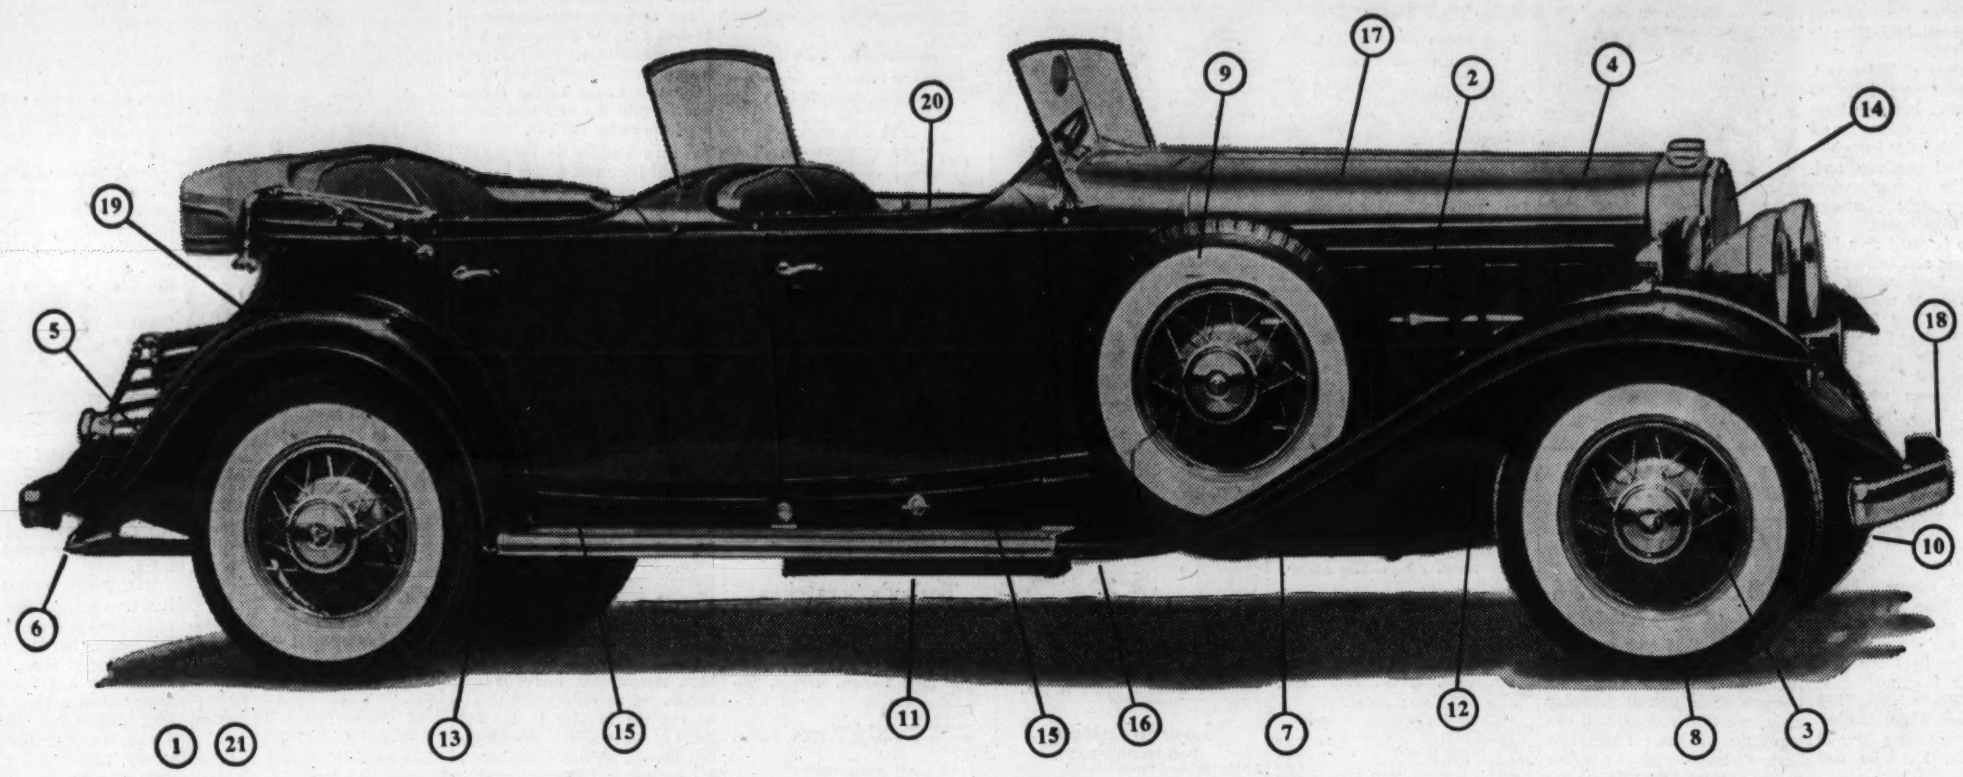

Police records show Avila has been arrested many times. He served a sentence in the Intermediate Reformatory at Algoa for assault to rob.

Shell's automotive experts have developed many ways to make their own cars run better and last longer. The numbers on this classic 1930 V-16 indicate some of the areas deserving attention, as described below.

Shell recommends 21 ways to make your car last longer

Shell scientists dedicate their working lives to the care and feeding of automobiles.

They can offer dozens of tips on prolonging the life of your second biggest investment. Here are some useful samples:

AMERICANS spend more than 2 billion dollars a year on automotive replacement parts. This expense is enough to give every man, woman, and child in the U. S. a $12 birthday present.

With a little care you can avoid much of this expense and keep your car youthful. Here are a few tips from Shell's experts.

1. Break in a new car properly. A long break-in period at low speed is no longer necessary. But manufacturers recommend:

A. Don't accelerate at full throttle or change gears abruptly. Sudden shocks to gears in the rear axle and transmission can cause lasting damage.

C. Try not to stop too suddenly—it can harm brake surfaces.

2. Warm up slowly. Racing an engine to warm it up ages it fast. A short warm-up at moderate speed is good for your car even in summer, and even more necessary during colder months when the oil tends to move sluggishly at first. Never race your cold engine to warm up, though. It may damage critical working parts before lubrication can be fully established.

There's no need for long idling; but drive slowly for the first few minutes.

3. Use your engine to save your brake linings. Anticipate your slowdowns. Use the brake as little as possible.

When you see you'll have to slow down, take your foot off the accelerator early and let the engine's compression do some of the job.

4. Have your engine's spark timing set to proper specifications. The spark timing determines whether your plugs fire at exactly the right instant. With incorrect timing you lose power and cut mileage. Also your car may knock. Chronic knocking can eventually damage your engine.

5. Use a gasoline that controls knock. If your engine persists in knocking, you may need a gasoline with more anti-knock components, for a higher octane rating.

6. Learn to read tail pipe smoke signals. Blue smoke means too much oil is getting into the combustion chambers.

Excessive blue smoke is a warning that piston rings may be worn—and need replacing. Your mechanic calls this a "ring job."

Black smoke is an indication of too much gasoline in the air-fuel mixture. Your carburetor may need an adjustment.

White smoke is mostly water vapor. Don't worry about it. Your engine makes a gallon of water for every gallon of gasoline burned. On cold days some of this shows up as vapor.

7. Have your oil checked whenever you fill up with gasoline. An oil check is a simple safety check for your engine. It is also free, and takes less than a minute.

By the way, oil does not wear out. But it can be lost through leaks or burning. And it does get dirty. Worse yet, oil can become contaminated by combustion by-products—including acid.

To be really safe, use new Shell X-100® Premium Motor Oil. It only costs about $3.60 more per year than regular oils—no more than most premiums.

New Shell X-100 Premium Motor Oil fights engine acid a brand-new way—with an amazing chemical shield that clings tightly to all metal surfaces.

For most cars Shell recommends an oil change once a month in winter, every 60 days in summer—never more than 2,000 miles between changes.

8. Avoid high speeds and save your tires. Every extra mile your tires last is money in your pocket. High speeds increase wear drastically—by as much as 80% over normal wear—so it pays to go easy.

9. Rotate tires every 5,000 miles. Your tires will last longer because they will all wear evenly, and at the same rate. Note: See your Shell dealer for a set of valve caps; they will prevent air from getting out and dirt from getting in around the tire valve.

10. Check wheel alignment and balance. The shock of hitting curbs or dropping into deep holes can cause misalignment.

An out-of-line wheel can increase tire wear as much as 50 per cent. An unbalanced wheel pounds the tire against the pavement, wearing the tread unevenly.

Have an expert check wheel alignment and balance at least twice a year. Proper tire inflation at all times is also essential.

11. Save your battery with 11¢ worth of baking soda. Dirt and corrosion can actually cause current leaks—and can shorten your battery's life by many months. If corrosion is visible, wash the battery off with a solution of baking soda and water. Use a wire brush if necessary. Then rinse thoroughly with warm water. Ask your Shell dealer to check your battery terminals.

Caution: Never allow the soda-water solution to get into your battery; it could neutralize the acid which makes your battery work.

12. Change your oil filter element every other oil change. Abrasive specks as small as 1/1000th of an inch in diameter can shorten the life of your engine. The oil filter element in your car has the exacting task of keeping tiny, dangerous specks of metal and other abrasives out of the engine, while allowing oil to flow freely.

The filter catches and holds these foreign particles until it can hold no more. But when the oil filter is clogged up, it cannot work effectively.

Replacing the filter element every other oil change helps your engine to last longer.

13. Get a lubrication job regularly. Dirt and moisture can work into chassis joints and bushings, causing friction and wear. Grease can also eventually pound out, leaving the parts unprotected.

See your Shell dealer for a Shellubrication. He has the charts, equipment, Shell lubricants for your car, and the skill for a really thorough job.

14. Have your car's cooling system checked twice a year. In time, the inhibitors in your anti-freeze lose some of their ability to prevent rust, corrosion and sediment from forming in your cooling system.

Let your Shell dealer check the cooling system—including hoses and hose connections—no less than twice a year. When he drains and refills he will add a special Cooling System Protector.

15. Keep door and body panel drain holes clear to foil rust. You never see them, but there are little drain holes at the bottom of body panels and doors. They can get clogged so that the panels actually hold water. Rust forms more easily and can eat holes right through the metal.

You have probably noticed this ugly sight in other cars. Make sure drain holes are always kept clear.

16. Keep road salt washed off. Nothing can damage a car's appearance more than the chemicals used to clear icy, snowy roads. They can eat not only the finish, but the body structure itself. Make sure you get it all off—not only from the paint but from the bright metal parts, as well.

17. Use these tips to help your car stay new looking longer. A good coat of polish provides a film that protects your car's finish. But before you polish your car, always wash it—and always in the shade.

Some new car finishes need only a good washing to keep them bright, but others require waxing. It's a good idea to check your owner's manual. Older cars are almost certain to benefit from a good waxing.

18. Protect chrome against rust invasion. Chrome, itself, can't rust. But it actually has millions of tiny holes which can let the moisture right through to the metal beneath. Dirt invites this invasion, so clean the chrome thoroughly and frequently, and wax it for further protection.

19. "Bandage" minor scratches in your car's finish. Small scratches in the finish expose bare metal which can rust. Until you can have the scratches refinished, keep rust from forming with a coat of touch-up paint or even a strip of cellulose tape on the scratches. Use clear nail polish on scratches in the chrome.

20. Pamper carpets and upholstery. Ground-in dirt wears out carpets before their time. Give them a weekly whisking or vacuuming; shampoo once in a while.

21. Let your Shell dealer help your car last longer. Your car may have cost you thousands of dollars. After your home, this is probably your biggest single investment.

Treat it carefully. Feed it well. Let your Shell dealer help you on both counts. You will save money—and increase your driving pleasure, too.

NEW YORK, April 25 (AP).

HARPO MARX HAS a simple cure for tension.

"If the world is pressing in on you and everyone seems against you," he said, "go into a corner and stand on your head.

HARPO MARX

"This will bring everyone around you to his senses—and give you a better view of things, too."

Harpo said he wasn't joking about this. It had worked for him for years. He spoke about that and other things in an interview.

The mute member of the madcap Marx Brothers, famous for his harp, frizzled red wig and honking cane, has broken a long public silence to write his autobiography, "Harpo Speaks," abridged in McCall's magazine.

A recent visit here stirred Harpo to recollections of his poverty-stricken childhood in the Yorkville section of Manhattan. He was the smallest kid in the second grade, and whenever the teacher left the room, he recalled, the other boys in the class fell into the cheerful habit of picking him up and tossing him out the window.

"One day they threw me out, and I decided not to go back," he said. "That was the end of my formal education."

But it led to a 55-year show world career and stardom on both stage and screen. It also led to wealth and personal happiness with his wife, Susan Fleming, a former actress, and their four adopted children.

The zany, irrepressible character he portrays in pantomime bears little resemblance to the real life Harpo. In person he is a gnomish little man, sensitive, kindly, quiet-mannered, and so soft-voiced you have to strain your ears to hear him.

"I'd rather listen than be on," he remarked. "It's a strange thing about most actors—they like to be on. But if you just listen, soon you find they all are trying to talk to you."

It was this quality that led Harpo a generation ago to become a favorite member of the group of wits who gathered nightly at the Algonquin Hotel's celebrated Round Table. He let Alexander Woollcott, Heywood Broun and Robert Benchley do the talking. He did the listening.

Harpo has an Emerson-like belief that every blow in life has its compensation. It worked out that way with the Marx Brothers act.

"We started out as boy singers," he said. "We got our big break when our voices changed. We had to find something else, and we turned to comedy.

"What looked at the time like a misfortune turned out to be our fortune."

Harpo said the harp, which he plays by ear, had taught him the value of avoiding needless worry.

"When you have to handle 50 strings and seven pedals," he said, "you have more than enough on your mind. You don't have time to worry."

Harpo still practices at least two hours daily on the harp and spends about the same time painting. He still gives an occasional concert, but devotes most of his time to charitable causes. He doubts the Marx Brothers ever will team up in another film.

"Billy Wilder, the producer, wanted us to make a picture to be called 'A Day at the United Nations'," he said. "We liked the idea but finally decided against it. It would take us a year and a half to make.

"My big interest now is in relaxing."

Here is Harpo's personal philosophy—and the advice he gives his children:

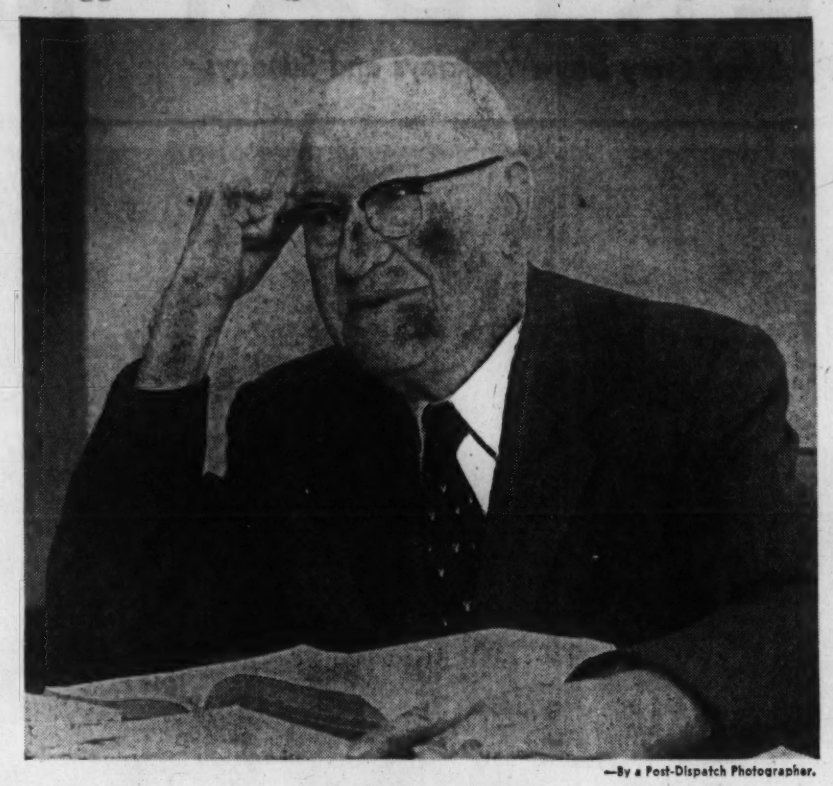

"If there are two things you have to do, and one is important and one is fun, do the one that is fun first.

"The things that seem so important generally turn out to be unimportant—so you might as well enjoy yourself."

Professor Finds the Law Gets Harder

James E. Higgins, Nearing Retirement, Cites Changes in His 39 Years at St. Louis U.

By Clarissa Start
Of the Post-Dispatch Staff

—By a Post-Dispatch Photographer.

PROF. JAMES E. HIGGINS

"IT USED TO BE if a young man could master Blackstone and was a good talker, he'd make out all right as a lawyer," recalled James E. Higgins, professor of law at St. Louis University for 39 years.

"Boys today have a much harder time of it. There are many difficult subjects, more pressures. There is so much taxation and administrative law, so many new governmental agencies that law is far more complex and it takes a lot more training to be topnotch. What's more, the young man who starts his practice in a big city may find out he has to pay his secretary more than he can earn in the beginning."

Despite this situation, law classes are bigger than ever, much bigger than when Prof. Higgins came to St. Louis University in 1922. Approaching retirement at the end of the semester, he was honored on Law Day, last Saturday, for his years of helping in the school's growth.

In the days when he started out, it was possible for a young man to "read law" in some judge's office and go on from there, but Higgins chose to attend the university where he now teaches. Born in Pana, Ill., he was brought up in Bunker Hill and Gillespie, Ill., by his paternal and then his maternal grandmother after his mother's death. As a young man of 19, he had found a job in St. Louis when a friend who had been made postmaster asked him to return to Gillespie to be his assistant.

He served as Gillespie's assistant postmaster for four years but then the ambition to study law won out and he enrolled at St. Louis University in 1917.

World War I intervened and he went into the Army—"the bravest soldier at Camp Taylor, Ky.," he says with a twinkle in his eye. Because of a recent operation, he was given light duty as company clerk, was discharged Dec. 7, 1918, and returned to law school. Graduated in 1920, he practiced law at Mount Olive and Alton, Ill., until 1922 when Dean Alphonse Eberle asked him to come back to teach. He was about to get married and the teaching position looked like a good solid opportunity.

At this time, the law faculty consisted of just two full time teachers, Higgins and the dean. Today there are 14 full-time faculty members plus many part-time instructors. In his student days, commencement exercises were held in the Law School auditorium. Later they were moved to the Missouri Theater and now they fill the main floor of Kiel Auditorium.

Classes which once numbered 25 mushroomed to more than 100 after World War II. About two-thirds of those who start day law school finish, as do half of the night school students. Most graduates conquer the final hurdle of the Missouri State bar examination.

"But it gets harder every year," said Higgins. "When I started teaching, some of the boys took the bar exam in their second year. Now nobody attempts it until he's finished. I think I'd have trouble in some subjects myself."

Making a living at law has become more difficult, too.

"Most of our graduates want to stay in St. Louis," he said. "I keep trying to push them out into the smaller communities. You really amount to something in a small town. I paid income tax my first year of practice and that was something then. There is big money in the cities but expenses are higher and too often respect is lower. People get their ideas from the radio and TV lawyers."

Looking back over the years of teaching, Higgings recalls one incident with amusement. This was the occasion when one of the professors decided to conduct an experiment in "detail recollection." He arranged to have two students engage in a feud. The feud culminated in a fight. One student pulled out a dagger — a rubber one — and stabbed the other, and the catsup flowed down the front of the victim's shirt.

"I can still remember a student, white as a sheet, rushing up to me," said Higgins. "He said, 'There's been a stabbing. Get a priest.'"

When the catsup had been mopped up, the students were called on to testify to what had happened.

"Their testimony was about average for the ordinary layman," said Higgins. "There were two or three different versions of what had occurred. With all their training in observation, in the excitement of battle they didn't see reality the same."

Although he has the same name as the professor in "My Fair Lady," Prof. Higgins has found that he has been more often identified with another Higgins—Pinky, baseball manager of the 1940s. Alumni still write Dean J. Norman McDonough and ask about "Pinky."

Some of the alumni are well known. The late Robert E. Hannegan was a freshman in his classes. John Marzall, who became Commissioner of Patents, Probate Judge Thomas Boland, United States District Judge Omar Poos of Springfield, Mo., and several St. Louis circuit judges were among his students as was David Merrick, who became a New York theatrical producer.

Higgins has taught almost every course in the curriculum with emphasis on real property, torts and equity. He also served as registrar for 23 years. In addition to scholastic work, he served on the Commission for the Selection of Public Defender and the Parole Board Examining Commission. An active Catholic layman, he is past president of the Canisius Conference of the Manresa Society.

A widower for many years, Higgins makes his home with a sister-in-law, Agnes Reilly, at 6149 Waterman boulevard. He has a daughter, Frances, who is married to Hugo F. Brehn.

He has done a great deal of traveling, to Europe, Alaska, Mexico and the Caribbean, and is considering a trip to Ireland and maybe one to the South Seas in his retirement.

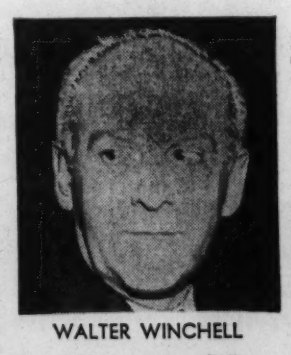

"Also, I may write a book on automobile law," he said. "There's a need to clarify the Missouri automobile law. I intend to keep an office and work on alumni affairs for the university. I might consider some probate practice or my specialty, real estate law, if it becomes known I'm available. Only trouble is," he said with a smile, "my old students have gotten used to calling me up and getting my advice free."

He's looking forward to retirement but with reservations.

"No matter how old you get, you like to teach," he said. "There are times when it's laborious, especially at the end of semester at paper grading time, but you make up for it in meeting the boys and making their acquaintance. That's the real reward you get out of teaching—the friends you make, a new group of them every year."

The hit's New York love-letters will take many ticket brokers out of hock. . . . Broadway is having "John Barrymore trouble" with actors who guzzle too much. Half a dozen attractions have regular desperate routines with foggy players before curtain-time. Black coffee, slap-the-face, cold water, etc. One off-Broadway hit had to refund admission fees when the leading man staggered out into the lobby doing a Brendan Behan.

ZSA ZSA, we hear, will be the highest paid actress in Summer-stock this year, $10,000 per week. . . . "Come Blow Your Horn," starring Hal March, now has an advance sale of $100,000. . . . They had such a tough time getting backers they took on 97 investors at $300 each. . . . Producer Gant Gaither has a specially-made raft on which he peruses scripts drifting around his H'wood pool. . . . Dinah Shore doesn't get her blistered hands fooling around any stove. It's from too much tennis. . . . Show scouts have been to The Living Room a lot lately to evaluate the vocallure of Anne Merlin. . . . The main character in "Venus at Large," a new comedy due on B'way next season, is a thinly-disguised Marilyn Monroe.

THERE'S AN "I Love Lucy" making the rounds that deals with their fifteenth wedding ann'y. Besides the stars—others in the cast no longer wed to each other — are: The Cary Grants, Michael Wilding (and Liz Taylor); Esther Williams and Ben Gage and Dick Powell and June Allyson. . . . The island Spencer Tracy owns off the Italian coast cost him $125. . . . Alan Jay Lerner, who helped father such mints as "My Fair Lady" and "Camelot," never invests money in his own shows. . . . The Crosby Boys who open at the Latin Quarter will launch a chain of bowling alleys. They also own a hunk of the Pittsburgh Pirates and a few oil wells here and there. . . . Seems silly when the mags refer to Debbie Reynolds as Deborah and it seems rude when they call Deborah Kerr Debbie.

CONNIE HINES is an actress with sex appeal — not a sexpot trying to be an actress. She is a delight on the "Mr. Ed" tv click. H'wood producers agree that she is the most refreshing natural comedy talent since lovely Jean Arthur. . . . Previewers of Nat Hiken's "Car 54" (which NBC will star Sabbath eves) call it funnier than Sgt. Bilko. . . . When Montgomery Clift of "Misfits" was asked what he thought about Marilyn Monroe's habit of being tardy on the set he defended: "You can't expect people like Marilyn to punch a clock."

Contract Bridge

By B. Jay Becker

IF SOMEONE AIMS a gun at your head, it is a good idea—as a matter of self-preservation—to disarm him if you can.

An analagous situation sometimes occurs at the bridge table when you are in a position where one particular opponent threatens your chances of making the contract. In such cases you try, if possible, to eliminate the threat.

West leads a spade and you win the ten with the queen. You see that the hand can be made easily enough if West has the king of diamonds. He can be finessed out of it and you will probably wind up with five diamond tricks, after which you can force out the ace of hearts to assure either 11 or 12 tricks.

However, you cannot be sure that West has the king. If you finesse and it turns out that East has the king, there is some danger that a spade return will establish West's long suit and defeat you. This will occur if West has more than four spades and also the ace of hearts.

Since there is a danger that all this will happen if you take a diamond finesse at trick two, you lead the queen (or jack) of hearts instead. The effect of this play is that you remove the threat of defeat.

West is the dangerous opponent, and he is the one who may have a pistol (the ace of hearts) in his pocket. You can disarm him by leading the queen of hearts. If he has the ace and takes it you intend to refuse the spade return and then win the next spade.

Now, when you take the diamond finesse, you are on safe ground. Assume that the finesse loses. Either East will not have a spade to lead (because West started with five of them), or East will lead a spade (because he started with four of them, meaning West also had four).

Either way, the contract is assured by leading hearts first.

Ann Landers

Sharing Holidays

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Five years ago our son married a lovely girl. She is a wonderful mother to their two little boys and they are very happy. Her parents who live 40 miles from here are inconsiderate and demanding. They insist that Delores and Tom and the children spend every holiday at their place. They also have a married son and he and his family must spend every holiday with them, too.

ANN LANDERS

Tom is our only child and we are so lonely at Thanksgiving, Christmas, Easter and so on. We have never said one word to them because we don't want to cause trouble but I'm sure they know how we feel.

I had a heart attack in January and am not feeling very well. It would make me so happy to have Tom and his family with us on Mother's Day. Shall I talk to the other parents about releasing them?—A MOTHER.

Dear Mother: Releasing them from what? Do they have a contract signed in blood? Don't talk to the parents—talk to your son. He must have boiled macaroni where his spine belongs. The fair way to handle such a situation is to alternate the holidays between the two sets of parents. And this procedure should be established early. It saves wear and tear on everyone.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a career girl who has been promoted recently to very fine position. I want to make good, but I have a difficult problem. Most of the women in the department which I now supervise are older than I am. They resent me because I came up from the ranks and superseded them.

Their work habits are sloppy. They get in late and run out early. They waste too much time on the phones, in the washrooms, visiting around the office and on 30-minute coffee breaks.

How can I crack down without making enemies and looking as if I'm bucking for company president?—XYZ.

Dear XYZ: Have a meeting and explain what is expected of the women in your department. Then tell them what will not be tolerated. Be friendly but firm. The incompetents and the loafers should be given two warnings—then a farewell handshake and walking papers.

CONFIDENTIAL TO In-the-Dumps: Well get out of 'em. Who do you think you're going to meet there—besides more Wrong Numbers?

To learn how to keep your boy friend in line without losing him, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Necking and Petting—And How Far To Go," inclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

A Life Awakened Through 'Y' Work

"I CAN NEVER REPAY THEM for bringing me back to life, for helping me to realize what my purpose in life must be, for helping me to have the courage to go out after it. I was asleep and suddenly I am awake."

CLARISSA START

The group which Doris Johnson was crediting for changing her life is the Young Women's Christian Association. Two years ago, Doris was on a dead end street, personally and professionally. Her mother had died while Doris was in high school and she had quit school to go to work. She assumed that, without education, her future was limited. Moreover, the present was pretty dull, too.

Today Doris is a part time college student with ambitious ideas for the future. Her days are filled with fun and activity.

"How did it all come about?"

Doris answered this question in a talk at a recent Y.W.C.A. board meeting.

It started when Martha (Marty) Hughes, the young adult program director at the county branch Y.W.C.A., invited her to the luncheons held every Tuesday at that branch for business girls. It's the "Y" 's practice to have a hot, nutritious, low cost luncheon plus a stimulating program all within the confines of the working girl's brief lunch hour.

"One day I received a call from Marty asking me to serve on the steering committee of the group," Doris continued. "I had no idea what a steering committee was but said I would serve. At the first meeting I was elected chairman of the group."

After her first area meeting, Doris returned home in confusion, trying to transcribe her notes.

"All I have are questions," she said to Marty.

"That's right," said Marty. "You're supposed to answer the questions."

That summer Doris attended her first conference in Estes Park, Colo., another new and educational adventure.

"You room with girls from other parts of the country, girls you have not met before, but you find you have something in common," Doris said. "There are no barriers here, of race, color, religion. Friendships were formed at the word 'Hi.' We met on common ground through the Y.W.C.A. and found that we were alike."

Doris attended workshops ranging from those on balancing the budget to those on balanced diet, learned what the "Y" does in other countries of the world. Coming home on the train, she began asking Marty about her job and how she had qualified for it. They got on the subject of education and Doris admitted with embarrassment her lack of it. Marty asked if she knew about the high school equivalence certificate she could receive by passing a test.

In October 1959, Doris took the test and passed it. In January 1960, she enrolled as a night student at Washington University. Meanwhile she began taking an art course at the "Y" and discovered a talent she didn't know she had. Soon she was the chief poster painter. Now she had a hobby as well as a busy schedule.

The girl who once wondered what a steering committee might be now is a veteran conference planner and hopes to attend the national convention this year to bring back ideas for the "Y" here.

"Suddenly I thirst for knowledge and feel a deep driving force within me which reaches out to others as the 'Y' reached out to me," Doris said. "I feel I am on the brink of a new life which because of the 'Y' will be rich and full and rewarding."

Tall Woman's Problem

DEAR MRS. LOWMAN: I am only 33 but I have the most horrible set of wrinkles you ever hope to see. No matter how I try I still have them. I've used everything except hormone creams. I do have a very thin skin and medium long neck. My neck has so many wrinkles, large and small, that I am ashamed. I try to always wear high-necked garments.

All my life I have been told how tall I am. If I carry my head fairly high and my neck straight, I notice some of the wrinkles disappear. As long as I hold my neck in a tall, stretched manner, these wrinkles are not so bad, but this makes me even taller. Please give me any advice you have.

This is a mistake so many tall women make. They slump, with their heads forward, and walk with knees slightly bent, in order to look shorter. Actually, beautiful posture is more important to the tall person than to any other.

This letter highlights one of the reasons for wrinkles on the neck. Poor posture lines the neck and the lines deepen with age. Good posture is really the number one preventative or corrective measure. This does not mean that you should lift your chin or stick it forward. Your chin should be parallel to the floor while you push toward the ceiling with the TOP of your head.

Dryness is another factor. Sometimes women who lubricate the face faithfully every day fail to give the neck the same treatment. This is important.

Loss of tone and lax muscles also are culprits. Exercise will help this condition. Try this one.

Stand or sit, assuming correct posture. Raise your head and look forward as far as you can to the left (as though you were looking at the stars or an airplane). Lower head. Look up toward the right, over your right shoulder. Lower head to normal. Continue, alternating left and right.

If you would like to have my leaflet "Is Your Chinline A Pain in the Neck?" send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 10. Address Josephine Lowman in care of the Post-Dispatch.

Try and Stop Me

HARRY HERSHFIELD tells about a wealthy widow who boarded a taxicab and announced that she was off for Europe. "Set me down as close to the ship as possible," she ordered. "My tootsies ache."

The driver worked his way directly alongside the liner just as a crane was lowered from the top deck. It gripped the cab and lifted it into the hold of the vessel before either the wealthy widow or the cabbie could say, "Foufel and Poufel."

"Be of good cheer," counseled this merry widow. "Now that I've gotten you into this pickle you can drive me through Europe. Keep the meter clicking. I'm loaded"

So they drove all over the continent, and when they landed back in Gotham, the taxi tab came to about $9000.

"Take me home now," the widow directed, "and I'll pay you in full."

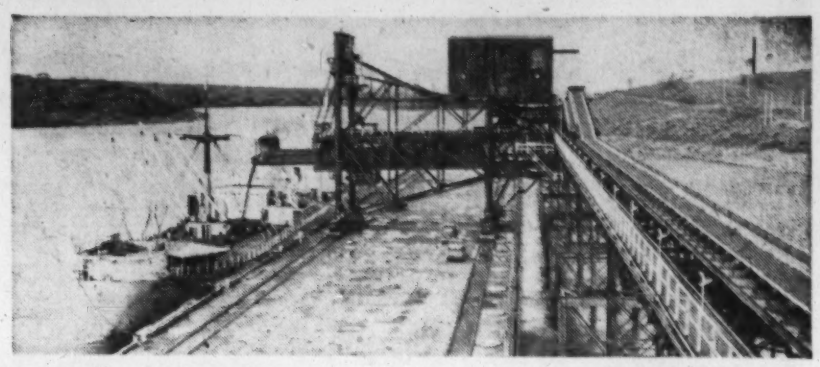

"Where's home?" asked the cabbie.

"Flatbush," said the wealthy widow.

"Not on yer life!" scowled the cabbie. "You never can get a fare back from there!"

Engineering Success by Husband-Wife Team

How Bob and Lorraine McDowell Started Firm on Shoestring, Used Daring Techniques on World-Wide Jobs

Part of the new port at Puerto Ordaz, Venezuela, where the McDowell engineering firm helped build a huge ore mining complex, along with conveyors and specially designed docks.

By Al Ostrow

A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CLEVELAND, April 25.

MRS. LORRAINE McDOWELL, former radio script writer, offers this advice to anyone planning to write an article telling how she and her husband developed a deficit into a world-wide engineering and construction enterprise collecting $50,000,000 a year for its services:

"Just emphasize that we're a couple of screwballs."

This startling personal analysis can be supported by such items as the fact that Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. McDowell started their amazingly successful business partnership on a shoestring when the husband was fired from a construction job 17 years ago.

While they were wondering how to cut a nickel off their personal grocery bills, they made bold bids on multi-million dollar construction projects—and astonished solidly financed competitors and themselves by landing several contracts. Then, using daring techniques, they amassed fat profits and a reputation for ingenious engineering and rapid construction of bridges, ore docks, pipelines and huge mining complexes.

They also became known as the superstitious partners who ended every bid with 33 cents and invited penalty clauses of $1000 a day for failure to complete a job within a specified time—provided they got $1000 a day for finishing up before the deadline. They never lost one of the latter gambles.

Although Bob and Lorraine McDowell are now respectively 48 and 46 years old, they are still known as the "whiz kids" of the engineering world.

They live in the modernistic luxury of the glass inclosed penthouse of a hotel which towers over the Lake Erie shoreline, but are equally at home amid the mud and machinery of a construction project. Bob McDowell likes to scamper along narrow girders, recalling his early years as an iron worker and instructor who taught apprentices of the Bridge and Structural Workers Union how to drive rivets high in the sky.

Both members of the husband and wife team have had the thrill of watching wilderness and jungle transformed into wealth producing mines, mills and ports by men and machinery working under their direction. They have rewarded their crews with millions of dollars in shared profits, scholarships for their children, and such gimmicks as a Christmas party in March for families who were sweating in the tropics on Dec. 25.

Improvisers and innovators in their personal relationships, as well as in their engineering work, they contrived a unique type of present for people who fit the description of "the man who has everything." They developed the custom of presenting a $35,000 swimming pool to a neighborhood Y.M.C.A. in honor of the birthday of a special friend.

The McDowells are ardent theater fans because they credit the footlights with creating their partnership. It happened at the University of Kentucky, where Bob, son of the country storekeeper at Simpsonville, was paying his room and board by washing dishes in a Lexington restaurant and selling magazine subscriptions. He decided to try out for the chorus of "Hit the Deck," a student musical production. One of the student directors was a brown-haired girl with the glamorous name of Lorraine Lepere.

Bob walked with the director to her home, met her parents, and impressed her father, a construction contractor, with an account of how he had worked as water boy for a bridge building crew at the age of 14, and had fired a steam shovel at 15.

"Hit the Deck" rehearsals kept Bob and Lorraine in proximity for a while. Then the engineering student became the most avid audience of University of Kentucky radio station programs written by his favorite girl friend. They were married in 1936, a year after Bob's graduation.

The newlywed engineer seemed to be catapulted into immediate positions of responsibility. He was junior engineer on a flood control project at Paducah, Ky., when the senior engineer quit, leaving him in full charge for several months.

A song, restaurant or resort hotel has special sentimental significance to many married couples. The affectionate attachment of the McDowells is to the Main Avenue Bridge, which carries Cleveland's Memorial Shoreway traffic high above the Cuyahoga river. To them, this massive structure is "our bridge"—Bob's present to Lorraine on her twenty-fourth birthday.

One of the company's projects is reflected in MRS. McDOWELL'S glasses in this on-the-job photo.

Bob, then 26, had been put in charge of a crew of 150 men assembled to erect girders for the river crossing. He arranged the schedule so that the first steel went up on his wife's birthday, which was Armistice Day, 1938.

After working as a construction and machinery installation superintendent, on many major projects throughout Ohio, Michigan and Pennsylvania, Bob found himself back in Cleveland, on the payroll of an employer who didn't approve such personalized planning. He was fired. Fifteen foreman quit the company and informed McDowell they were "going with you."

That was when Bob and Lorraine established their independent partnership, with a capital of $10,000. This money was all gone, and they were deep in debt, before they were rescued by payment for their first big contract—rush repairs to a Republic Steel blast furnace. They could do this work only because their foremen succeeded in rounding up emergency crews for the job.

During the company's years of early struggle, Mrs. McDowell was the entire office staff. She kept the books, made up the payrolls, answered the telephone, swept the floor and encouraged her husband to keep on submitting bids for major jobs—always with the 33-cent trade mark—rather than settling for smaller projects.

One of the early orders that placed them on the road to prosperity was installation of mammoth ore-handling machinery manufactured by the venerable Wellman Engineering Co. A few years ago, the McDowells plunked down nearly $5,000,000 to buy control of Wellman Engineering and merge it with their own McDowell Co. Both firms now have headquarters in the face-lifted Vulcan building near Cleveland's Public Square.

Bob McDowell is president of the global engineering enterprise, and Lorraine serves as secretary-treasurer and employe relations director. Their slogan, a take-off on the song about how "Old McDonald had a farm," is: "Young McDowell had a method."

The method is to do things differently—and profitably.

"Yes," Mrs. McDowell says with a chuckle, "we are a couple of screwballs. Some of the things we did looked daring, and were innovations. But there was really no risk involved, because we knew what we were doing."

For example, there was the time the Tennessee Gas Transmission Co. was in a hurry to have two pipelines strung along a two-mile bridge that crossed the Mississippi river at Greenville, Miss. Somehow, the contractor would have to remove 11,000 tons of weight from the existing bridge.

Other engineers estimated it would take a long time to break up and strip two miles of old roadbed off the bridge and replace in with a thinner coating of concrete reinforced by steel mesh. McDowell contracted to do the job in 150 days, with a $1000 penalty for every 24-hour delay, and a similar bonus for every day before the deadline.

He finished the task in 66 days, pocketing an $84,000 bonus. The trick was to build two special machines which bored through eight inches of concrete, slicing the pavement into huge slabs which were lifted away by a giant crane. As each chunk of roadway was removed, workmen swiftly replaced it with the lighter surface of reinforced concrete.

Incidentally, the McDowell bid for this project was $873,000.33.

Another innovation which enriched the firm's coffers was the successful installation of a big new ore dock at Toledo. Other firms based their bids on the theory that the massive machinery would have to be disassembled into small parts, moved to the site by rail and truck, and expensively put together again.

McDowell moved the mammoth equipment on barges and ships in 30-ton chunks. He reportedly completed the installation for about half the contract price.

The McDowell-Wellman companies publish a calendar which has a photograph of one of their major projects on each monthly page. The projects include the world's fastest coal shiploader at Toledo, unloading towers in the Dutch port of Rotterdam, the biggest ore unloader on the Great Lakes, parts of the Air Force's ballistic missile early warning system (BMEWS), and mechanical monsters which claw 20,000 cubic yards of copper or iron ore an hour from mines.

They helped create brand new ore mining and shipping facilities, each costing more than $100,000,000, in Venezuela, Liberia and northern Canada. They engineered some of the nation's largest and most efficient steel mills. They built the world's largest cement plant at Presque Isle, Mich., and erected the steel skeletons of several major power plants.

The team of Bob and Lorraine McDowell has had a part in over a billion dollars worth of construction projects on four continents.

Their pet project at the moment is development of a new process for manufacturing pig iron. Bob McDowell says the Dwight-Lloyd McWane Process, which his company developed and controls, can produce 500 tons of pig iron a day in a plant costing about $7,000,000 — about half the price of a similarly productive conventional blast furnace. He should know, because he's built conventional blast furnaces for several leading steel companies.

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT C. McDOWELL inspect the control panel of a new type steel mill designed by their company.

Lorraine McDowell, busy supervising the welfare of the company's 2000 employes—she read the riot act and instituted immediate reforms when she discovered unsanitary conditions in a Venezuelan work camp—now finds time for occasional chairmanship of a fashion show for the benefit of a Y.W.C.A. building fund.

The McDowells have come a long way since they "Hit the Deck" together at the University of Kentucky.

Martha Carr's OPINION

He Says Wives Expect Too Much

Dear Martha Carr:

I ENJOY YOUR COLUMN but as a man I don't always agree with your answers. I agree even less with some of the women who write to you. I believe a little more emphasis should be placed on getting along in marriage and less on women's rights. I can't understand how women can get so enthusiastic about projects outside the home but can't work up a little enthusiasm for the most important project of all, the preservation of the home. If a woman has a husband who won't help with the children or who is stingy or who won't show affection, let the wife work on him a little. Isn't a husband worth the effort? Women should quit expecting so much of their husbands and pretend they like what they've got. This will pay off better than the best acting careers in Hollywood. Women should quit thinking only of themselves and start thinking of their husbands. If I had it to do over again I'd go to Europe or the Orient and find a wife. Women in other parts of the world don't have the cockeyed ideas that American women have about women's rights. They know that a husband has a right to love, respect, comfort and dignity as head of the household.

READY TO REBEL.

Nothing makes American women more angry than to be told that women of other parts of the world make superior wives. When the sizzling letters start pouring in Martha will print them as space allows.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

OF NECESSITY these past few years my husband has been what is known in modern lingo as a "moonlighter." In other words he holds down two jobs. Our children and I look forward to having him home with us on his one evening off each week and every other Sunday. Although he has so little time for us and for himself, we have tried to be thoughful of his mother, remembering her with gifts and cards on special occasions and on the few holidays that my husband has not had to work we have tried to include her in our celebrations. She also works odd hours. Except on rare occasions she has turned down every invitation we have offered, often at the last minute. She has made it a point to avoid all gatherings that include my family. Meanwhile, not once in all the years of our marriage has she ever extended an invitation to us where she designated a specific time and date. She is careful to limit her invitations to "stop in sometime." I wouldn't mind so much if she didn't gossip and complain to other members of the family while thoroughly enjoying the role of the pitiful, forgotten mother. In truth she prefers the company of her other children who exploit her but pay through their noses by lettting her put rings in them. What do I do in a case like this?

UNHAPPY.

Continue to invite your mother-in-law to holiday celebrations even though she doesn't come. Keep on sending her cards and gifts when occasion warrants. You will have done your duty and your conscience will be clear. And don't worry about the pitiful, forgotten mother act. If your mother-in-law fancies that role, let her play it. Her other children know that it's just mama playing the martyr.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "Disillusioned Attendant": I am very much interested in your letter. Will you call Martha Carr at the Post-Dispatch, MAin 1-1111? I feel you can help me. Your information will be kept in strictest confidence.

Send a self-addressed stamped envelope for Martha's "Mother-Daughter Party" leaflet, Mother's Day is May 14.

Chronic Fatigue

DEAR DOCTOR: Could you describe the condition neurasthenia, (chronic fatigue)? Is it a disease, mental or physical, and can anything be done for it? MRS. C.L.

Neurasthenia is a psychological disorder. It is not a mental illness in the sense in which we use that term. Although we must agree that a psychological disturbance is more mental than physical, there's a world of difference between mental illness and this sort of problem.

Neurasthenia, while it is psychological rather than physical in origin, has various physical aspects. (Incidentally, "emotional instability" seems to be a current term being used for neurasthenia.)

The emotional development of a person with neurasthenia has somewhere along the way been warped. Among many possible causes are neglect, disappointment or even cruelty.

Neurasthenia sufferers tend to be chronically unhappy, irritable, depressed. They have no ambition, are pessimistic, and have feelings of inferiority or "I can't." They have trouble trying to concentrate.

This projects into physical aspects, on the order of hypochondria; tiredness, listlessness, headaches, poor appetite, digestive disturbances and a variety of other such things, all of which the victim usually worries about.

Before saying a person has neurasthenia (or deciding that you have it yourself) there's one thing that ALWAYS should be done: complete physical examination. All of these symptoms can come from physical causes, perhaps chronic infection, faulty eating or living habits, or some defect in the thyroid. And all such things can be corrected.

As a matter of factual observation, we can easily see how a person can get into a rut in his thinking, believing that something is wrong with him, and failing or fearing to find out what.

If it is neurasthenia, can anything be done? Often, yes. We can do far more than we once could. Sometimes positive reassurance that nothing physical is wrong is enough of a start to get the patient on the upgrade. Sometimes counselling by family physician or a psychiatrist helps the patient out of the depressed stage, and helps him see life from a new, hopeful and better viewpoint. In some cases the newer drugs combat depression very effectively.

Exercise, and regularity of eating and sleeping are decidedly important. The patient must make some effort himself. He must make himself see that being dependent, and focussing his attention on himself is the very thing that contributes to his misery. This change of view may not be easy to bring about, but it CAN be done.

Write to Dr. Molner in care of the Post-Dispatch for a copy of his booklet, "How to Tame Headaches." Please inclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin to cover cost of handling.

'Write Me at Billboard, Baby'

By Joseph Haas

The Chicago Daily News-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch. Copyright 1961.

Chicago, April 25.

IF HOME is where you get your mail, Billboard was home for thousands of the nation's showmen for more than 60 years.

"Write me at Billboard, baby," a roustabout would tell his girl friend as the circus train left town. "They'll know where the show is playing."

Well, the old mailing address has changed. Billboard, the nation's oldest trade journal for showmen, has passed from the scene.

The demise was in name only, however. Two lusty offspring magazines have taken Billboard's place—in coverage and, its publishers hope, in the hearts of Billboard's former readers.

The practice of sending a showman's mail to Billboard began in 1896, two years after the magazine's founding. It became so widespread that in World War II, more "greetings" from Uncle Sam were delivered to Billboard than to any other address except the Seaman's Institute.

"Thousands of showmen got their draft notices at Billboard," said Maynard L. Reuter, vice president of Billboard Publishing Co.

"Someone once wrote 'A showman's home is the world—but his address is the Billboard.'"

When Billboard received a showman's mail, it forwarded it to him at the address he would have on the road that week.

If it lacked an address for him, it would publish the showman's name for two successive weekly issues in the magazine's "Letters" column.

"If we didn't hear from him in three weeks, we returned the letters to the sender," Reuter said. "But 95 per cent of the time we were able successfully to forward the letters."

Billboard's successors—Amusement Week and Billboard Music Week—both continue to carry the "Letters" column.

Amusement Week carries on where Billboard began, catering to news, features and advertising on the outdoor amusement business in all its phases—circuses, carnivals, outdoor theaters, golf driving ranges, swimming pools and so on.

Music Week will serve the music interests which became the major portion of the old Billboard with news of records, disk jockeys, juke boxes, coin machines and so on.

The most colorful part of the old magazine—now incorporated and enlarged in Amusement Week—was its "outdoor" section.

Here were carried the news of the traveling showmen and the colorful ads in outlandish showmen's jargon.

"Want hanky panks?" one ad asked. It offered, not something sexy, but food, photographaic and other non-game concessions.

"Slum for sale" offered, not a filthy firetrap but kewpie dolls and other cheap items to be given away as prizes.

And a "grind show," offered for sale, had nothing to do with strippers—it, too, was a carney term and referred to a game of chance with continuous operation and "a prize every time."

Other ads offered baby elephants at $3000 each, boa constrictors and anacondas at so much per foot in length, fat women, even entire three-ring circuses.

"We keep the jargon in the ads," Reuter said, "but out of the news columns.

"That's not because we don't like showmen's slag—we do. But there are just too many jargons to keep track of—the carney, the circus man, the amusement park operators, they all have their own jargon."

Through the years, Billboard's columns glittered with stories and ads on every phase of traveling show business—but it turned its back on motion pictures.

Reuter blamed the magazine's founder, William H. Donaldson, for failing to move into lucrative movie industry coverage.

Donaldson was a lithography salesman in Cincinnati in 1894 when he decided to start a magazine for billposters.

These were the men who invaded a town in advance of a circus, minstrel, vaudeville or other variety show to plaster its bare spaces with posters to advertise the big attraction.

Donaldson's magazine expanded in 1896 from writing about the billposters to covering the stars their posters advertised.

"Well, Donaldson went to a silent film once," said Reuter, "and stamped out moments later saying, 'That's not entertainment.'

"He stomped over to a vaudeville house, and later that day ordered all movie reviews removed from the paper. He didn't think movies would last."

Reading old copies of Billboard evokes scents of grease-paint, the spring of sawdust on a midway.

A November 1929, story tells how a "youthful entertainer," Bob Hope, was discovered in WLS radio's "Showboat Revue," and signed by the RKO vaudeville circuit.

A June 1918, story told how 85 were killed and 150 injured when the Hagenbeck-Wallace circus train crashed into an empty equipment train near Hammond, Ind.

In July 1944, Billboard reported the circus business' worst disaster—the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey big-top blaze in Hartford, Conn., in which 152 persons were killed.

Perhaps no better archives exist of show business in America than the files of Billboard magazine.

If Billboard was "home" for many traveling showmen, it was also the letter from home for them, too.

Life on Planet Mercury?

The seventh grade, South Middle School, Saginaw, Mich., is awarded a set of the World Book Encyclopedia by Uncle Ray for their fine questions. Pupils in fourth through twelfth grade classes in public, parochial or private schools, may win a complete set of the World Book Encyclopedia for their classrooms by submitting questions to Uncle Ray. Ask your teacher to choose the best five questions submitted by your class on history, science, biography or geography and send them to Uncle Ray, in care of the Post-Dispatch.

By Ramon Coffman

A QUESTION about possible life on Mercury has come from an eighth grade science class:

"It has been estimated that the lighted side of Mercury has a temperature of 600 degrees above zero Fahrenheit, and that the dark side is 450 degrees below zero. Could there be life where those temperatures meet?"

Mercury appears to turn around only once while making a complete trip around the sun. For this reason, astronomers believe the planet keeps the same side toward the sun at all times.

The estimates of temperature in the question agree with those held by most astronomers. No human being could exist in the intense heat on one side, or the terrible coldness on the other.

The question deals with what might be the case in the twilight zones, where light and darkness meet on either side of Mercury. I hesitate to give an answer because there are important "ifs."

To have plant or animal life, Mercury would need both air and water. No proof has been found that there is either air or water on that planet.

If we suppose that Mercury could obtain (and keep) air and water, there would be a "sporting chance" for life to exist in the twilight zones. We must suppose that the water in those zones would be above the freezing point, and well below the boiling point.

All forms of life on earth must have oxygen. There would need to be oxygen in the air of Mercury, for the air to be of service, but some other "good" gas might take the place of nitrogen.

At the meeting places of hot and cold air on Mercury, I would expect high winds, probably with tornado force. Such winds might keep any form of plant or animal life from flourishing in the twilight zones.

"Prehistoric Animals'" is the new leaflet by Uncle Ray which tells fascinating facts about Dinosaurs and contains 12 illustrations of these great animals. To get a copy send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Uncle Ray in care of the Post-Dispatch.

How to Fix It Yourself

By Hubbard Cobb

CHANCES ARE that there is some aluminum used around your home either in the form of windows and frames, screens and storm windows, gutters, downspouts or maybe even exterior siding. Now as we've said before, unlike certain other metals, aluminum does not rust. This means that even when it is exposed to the weather it does not require any protective coating. On the other hand, aluminum does oxidize and in the process of oxidation, a sort of grey film will appear on the surface. This is a protective film but it does not always look very pretty.

You will usually have more trouble on this score where the air to which the aluminum is exposed contains a lot of industrial fumes or perhaps salt which is a common problem near the seashore.

When and if aluminum starts to look dingy there are several things to be done. The simplest, of course, is to paint and this can be done easily enough by first wiping the metal clean and then applying a coat of zinc chromate primer. Once this is dry you can apply any sort of finish coat of paint that you want.

Another thing to do is to remove the film caused by oxidation so that the metal is again nice and bright. This is done by rubbing with fine steel wool. Of course, the metal isn't going to stay bright for long unless you give it a protective coating to keep the air away from the metal. On interior work, wax makes a pretty good coating. For exterior work you can use spar varnish or exterior lacquer but neither of these will stand up for more than a year, if that, when exposed to the bright sun and weather.

Shipping Care

If you are mailing a fragile piece of china or ceramics, wrap the item in latex foam sheeting before packing. It absorbs shock more than any other material.
